I. The College

Barnard is a selective liberal arts college for women, affiliated with Columbia University and integrally related to New York City. Barnard is committed to the fundamental values of the liberal arts and sciences, and our curriculum reflects that commitment. The cultural and social resources of New York and the intellectual resources of Columbia University are as important a part of an undergraduate education at Barnard as the commitment to learning and scholarship that is everywhere apparent in the College environment.

Because the liberal education offered at Barnard is broad in scope and demanding, admission to the College is competitive. For those who are admitted, four years at the College present an extensive array of opportunities both to contribute to the community and to draw from it, and the College seeks to admit diversified groups of students who will benefit to the fullest extent from the Barnard experience. Barnard is a university college in an international city, and today the curriculum affirms and encourages extensive use of its vast metropolitan resources.

BARNARD'S HISTORY

Barnard College was among the pioneers in the late nineteenth century crusade to make higher education available to young women.

Barnard College grew out of the idea, first proposed by Columbia University's tenth president, Frederick A. P. Barnard, that young women share in the opportunity for higher education. Initially ignored, the idea was developed by President Barnard until it led to the creation of a "Collegiate Course for Women." Under the new plan highly qualified women were authorized to follow a prescribed course leading ultimately to Columbia University degrees, but no provision was made for where and how they were to pursue their studies. This arrangement was abandoned six years later when Columbia's trustees agreed to the establishment of an affiliated college for women. A provisional charter and the promise of funds were secured, and Barnard College was named in honor of its earliest and most persistent advocate.

In October, 1889, the first Barnard class met in a rented brownstone house at 343 Madison Avenue with fourteen students enrolled in the School of Arts, twenty-two "specials" enrolled in science because they lacked the entrance requirements in Greek, and a faculty of six.

Nine years later Barnard moved to its present site on Morningside Heights, and in 1900 was included in the educational system of Columbia University with provisions which at that time were unique among women's colleges: it was to be governed by its own Trustees, Faculty, and Dean, and was responsible for its own endowment and plant, while sharing the instruction, the library, and the degree of a university.

The College

BARNARD TODAY

Today Barnard has a faculty of over 225 men and women, outstanding scholars whose primary concern is the education of undergraduate students at the College, and many of whom bring an added vitality to their teaching from their professional activities outside the classroom. From the original fourteen matriculated students, enrollment has increased to 2,200; since 1893 Columbia University has awarded its degree to 23,500 Barnard students. The original gifts of support have expanded to the current endowment funds of $27,300,000.

In 1982, Barnard College and Columbia University amended and extended their long-standing agreement for cooperation between the two institutions. Barnard is an independent liberal arts college for women with its own curriculum, faculty, admissions standards, and graduation requirements, as well as trustees, endowment, and physical plant. At the same time, Barnard and Columbia share resources, and Barnard and Columbia students thereby have open access to the courses offered by either institution and to each other's faculty, libraries and facilities. Barnard and Columbia students also share in extracurricular activities and daily life.

More than fifty years ago, Nicholas Murray Butler, one of Columbia's great presidents, observed, "New York is intensely cosmopolitan and contact with its life for a short time during the impressionableness of youth is in itself a liberal education." The city is an extension of the campus, utilized by every department to narrow the gap between learning and living.

THE LIBERAL ARTS CURRICULUM

A liberal arts education at Barnard is composed of a broad distribution of course work with intensive study in a departmental or disciplinary major.

As befits a College of Barnard's quality, the Faculty is regularly engaged in considering and reconsidering all aspects of the curriculum. In 1982 this process resulted in the adoption of a new set of degree requirements—a program of courses that the Faculty believes will offer stimulating and enriching educational opportunities for all students, while at the same time permitting each to tailor the manner in which the requirements are fulfilled to suit her own propensities, strengths, and interests. The new degree requirements will apply to students who begin their studies at Barnard in the fall of 1984 and thereafter; they are fully described on page 33. Degree requirements for those admitted prior to 1984 are listed on page 36.

Assistance in planning her individual course of study is given by the student's class adviser, a member of the teaching staff who supervises the work of the freshman and the sophomore years. At the end of this period, each student chooses her major field. During the junior and senior years her major adviser guides advanced study in the areas of concentration and other phases of college work. Twenty-seven departments offer major programs and eight interdepartmental majors are also available.

Classes vary in size. Those in which student participation is important are small. Introductory courses and classes taught primarily by the lecture method are often divided into small groups for conference and discussion. Laboratory work in the sciences is conducted with modern laboratory equipment. There are opportunities for independent work and students may also be invited to participate in research projects with members of the Faculty.

Adele Lehman Hall contains the Wollman Library and two floors of faculty offices and classrooms. The library includes the reserve room and the Academic Computing Center on the first floor, the reference area, periodicals, microforms, and open book stacks on the second floor, and on the third floor audiovisual facilities, Barnard archives, and more open stacks. Computer facilities for the Economics and Political Science departments are also located in Lehman. The building overlooks a lawn surrounded by trees and shrubs.

The College

THE FACULTY

The Barnard faculty consists of scholar-teachers who have long recognized that their teaching depends upon their scholarship and grows out of it. The range of the Barnard curriculum fairly reflects this understanding, both in its concentration upon the traditional disciplines of learning and in its innovative interdisciplinary programs. The scholarly commitment of the Barnard faculty is constantly shown, too, in the variety and quality of its many research projects, its books and articles in learned journals, its participation in academic societies, and its many different kinds of publication and performance. But its abiding achievement is a constant demonstration in the classroom of the binding ties of teaching and scholarship to each other which simply will not accept the possibility of any serious conflict between them. For in these central functions, Barnard's scholar-teachers honor the enduring values of their profession.

SPECIAL CONCERNS ABOUT THE EDUCATION OF WOMEN

The mission of Barnard College is the provision of undergraduate education of the highest quality in an environment that is particularly sensitive to the intellectual and personal needs of its women students. While Barnard College students enjoy a range of curricular and extracurricular opportunities with Columbia University, at Barnard they benefit from an atmosphere in which women currently comprise approximately 50% of the tenured faculty and are well-represented on all levels of the administration. These women serve as important role models for our students, who in turn are encouraged to assume positions of leadership while on campus that equip them for similar roles later in life.

Acknowledging today's complex and changing climate for women, the Barnard Women's Center exists to offer a wide range of programs and services, both academic and non-academic. These include an extensive resource collection of books, articles, and periodicals, conferences, speakers, films and poetry readings. The Center strives to provide continuity and links between students and alumnae, and between the College and women on and off the campus.

SPECIAL EDUCATIONAL OPPORTUNITIES

Barnard's location in America's largest and most diverse city and its affiliation with one of the nation's most distinguished universities make it possible for the College to offer some truly unusual educational opportunities. Some of these are formal programs, while others are resources tapped by students on an individual basis. The vast curricular resources of Columbia University are easily available to the student—including such academic areas as non-Western cultures and literatures, an extensive number of exotic languages, international studies, advanced scientific and technological studies, etc. Schools on Morningside Heights with which Barnard has formal programmatic relationships—each of which is described in more detail elsewhere in this catalogue—include the Manhattan School of Music, the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, Columbia's School of Law, the School of Engineering, the School of International and Public Affairs, Teachers College, and the Graduate School of Architecture and Planning. Many other academic organizations—both within and outside the University—offer opportunities for research, study, studio experience, career internships, or other relationships, depending on the special needs and interests of the individual student.

THE CAMPUS

The Campus occupies four acres of urban property along Broadway between 116th and 120th Streets. At the southern end of the campus, three residence buildings, Brooks, Hewitt, and Helen Reid Halls, face a landscaped quadrangle.

Barnard Hall is just north of the open courtyard and contains seminar rooms, classrooms, and faculty offices, as well as a gym, a swimming pool, and dance studios. The Sulzberger Parlor on the third floor is used for meetings and small social events.

The College

Helen Goodhart Altschul Hall and the Millicent McIntosh Center, which were dedicated jointly in November 1969, face each other across an open plaza. The fourteen stories of Altschul Hall are devoted primarily to the sciences but also house the Herbert H. Lehman Auditorium on the first floor, and a language laboratory on the fourth. The laboratory, which contains 60 booths, is used by both Barnard and Columbia language students. Headquarters for student activities, a snack bar and a lounge are located in the McIntosh Center. Student mailboxes are there as well as music practice rooms, recreation and television rooms, bowling alleys, an art exhibit area and the Jean T. Palmer Room for conferences.

Milbank Hall occupies the northern extreme of the campus and houses administrative and faculty offices, classrooms, a greenhouse, and the Minor Latham Playhouse, a small well-equipped modern theater. The language departments maintain social and reading rooms in Milbank Hall.

Off campus, but in the immediate neighborhood, Barnard maintains other residence halls, including 600, 616 and 620 West 116th Street, three apartment buildings; Plimpton Hall, completed in 1968; and a newly-renovated building at 49 Claremont Avenue.

Barnard Camp is a 20-acre tract in Westchester County about 35 miles from New York City. The Camp and its rustic lodge, Holly House, are used by the College for both recreational and educational purposes.

Columbia University is directly across Broadway from the Barnard campus.

STUDENT LIFE

Barnard's student population is cosmopolitan in nature, coming from nearly every state and some fifty foreign countries, while one-third of the students have families within commuting distance. They represent diversity in background and training, and a mingling of economic, regional, and cultural strains that finds expression in the life of the campus. Every student belongs to a "house," a group that includes faculty and staff associates, commuting students, and residents. Each house plans its own informal gatherings, continuing programs, and special events. The Thursday Noon Meeting at Barnard provides a campus-wide weekly forum for discussion of contemporary issues, and periodic lecture and conference series bring world-renowned scholars to the College.

All Barnard students are members of the Student Government Association, which provides general leadership and advocacy for student organizations. Students, faculty, and administrators serve on college committees, sharing responsibility for policy recommendations in the areas of curriculum, housing, financial aid, orientation, and the library. The Student Government Association sponsors many extracurricular activities: the college newspaper, the literary magazine, dramatic groups, political and religious organizations, and pre-professional and departmental clubs. Student artists with a diversity of talents and interests collaborate to produce Winter and Spring Festivals.

Cooperation among Barnard and Columbia groups is common. Many activities such as the University's chorus and its orchestra, its radio station, and a community service program enlist members from both campuses. Religious organizations and activities with headquarters on the Columbia University campus at Earl Hall encompass nearly every faith and are open to all students. Urban New York, a joint Barnard-Columbia program, offers unusual opportunities throughout the year for students, faculty, and staff to experience together the cultural, political, and social life of the city.

The Honor Code, instituted at Barnard in 1912, governs all aspects of academic life. A Judicial Council of undergraduates, faculty, and staff recommends disciplinary action for non-academic offenses.

The Columbia University/Barnard College Athletic Consortium (Division I of the NCAA) sponsors nine varsity intercollegiate teams including Archery, Basketball, Cross Country, Fencing, Swimming & Diving, Tennis, Indoor and Outdoor Track & Field, and Volleyball. The Athletic Consortium is just one of three in the nation and the only one on a Division I level. Women students at Barnard College along with women enrolled at the other undergraduate divisions of Columbia University have the opportunity to compete on all nine university-wide teams. Scheduled competition includes schools in the Ivy League, Seven Sisters, the metropolitan area, and the eastern region. Individuals and teams have the opportunity to advance to state, regional, and national competition. For students interested in less competitive programs, the Recreational Athletic Association (RAA) sponsors volleyball and basketball intramurals, sports clubs, recreational swim, open gym time, and special events.

Barnard has a high retention rate of students, an indication of their satisfaction with their college experience. Barnard students also enjoy leaves for study, travel, and internships. Every year Barnard admits about 100 transfer students, who come to take advantage of the educational opportunities available to Barnard women.

Every year the Office of Career Services collects and summarizes information about post-baccalaureate study and employment. In the first year after graduation, 45 to 50% of those who receive the degree enter full-time graduate or professional study at once, with the largest proportions opting for medical schools (10-12%), law schools (10-12%), business schools (1-2%), and education schools (2-3%). The rest, with the exception of fewer than 1%, obtain employment in business and industry, the arts, communications, teaching, social services, and other fields.

II. Admission

Selection of Candidates

The Committee on Admissions selects young women of proven academic strength who exhibit the potential for further intellectual growth. In addition to their high school records, recommendations, and College Board scores, the candidates' special abilities and interests are also given careful consideration. While admission is highly selective, no one criterion determines acceptance. Each applicant is considered in terms of her individual qualities of mind and spirit and her potential for successfully completing four years of study at Barnard.

Barnard also seeks students from diverse educational and cultural backgrounds and from many geographic regions. However, no preconceived profile of an ideal student population limits the number of applicants accepted from any one group. The College admits students and administers its financial aid and loan programs, educational policies and programs, recreational programs and other College programs and activities without regard to race, color, creed, national origin, or handicap.

Freshman Application Procedures

Students are admitted to the freshman class in September and, in limited numbers, in January. They must be at least fifteen years of age.

Application for admission to the freshman class should be made by February 1 for entrance in September of the same year. It is advisable, however, to apply in the fall of the senior year in high school. Application forms may be obtained by writing to the Office of Admissions.

A nonrefundable fee of $30 must accompany each application. Checks or money orders must be in U.S. funds drawn on a U.S. bank and made payable to Barnard College. Students with great financial need should request a fee-waiver from their high school counselor and send it with the application.

Secondary School Preparation

Each candidate for admission must offer a college preparatory program from an approved secondary school or an equivalent education representing a four-year course of study. Academic preparation for admission should be based on the requirements for the A.B., or liberal arts, degree. A recommended program would comprise four years of work in English; three years in mathematics; three or four years in a foreign language (ancient or modern); two years in science with laboratory; and one year in history. An introduction to a second foreign language is generally useful. The remainder of the program would include additional work in the aforementioned subjects with the possible addition of music and art. Applications varying from this pattern are considered without discrimination if the candidate's records indicate genuine intellectual ability and high motivation.

College Boards

Barnard requires all freshman candidates to take the College Board's Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) and three Achievement Tests, one of which must be in English composition or literature. These tests should be taken by January of the senior year. As early as possible, candidates should write directly to the College Board, Box 592, Princeton, New Jersey 08540 for the Bulletin of Information containing descriptions of the Scholastic Aptitude and Achievement Tests, directions for filing applications, the dates on which examinations are administered, and a list of examination centers. Dates vary from year to year and applications to take the tests must be received by the CB well in advance of the test.

It is the student's responsibility to direct the College Board to send official test scores to the Office of Admissions. The Barnard College code for this purpose is 2038.

Recommendations

Another important part of the application is the submission of two recommendations, one from the high school counselor and the other from a teacher of the candidate's choice. These recommendations give the Committee on Admissions additional information about the candidate's interests, character, skills, and aptitude, and should be as complete as possible.

Admission

Interviews

Although not required, an interview is highly recommended. For students who are able to visit the campus, interviews and tours can be arranged by writing or calling the Office of Admissions (212-280-2014). Appointments are scheduled Monday through Friday from nine-thirty to twelve in the mornings and from two to four in the afternoons, and on Saturday mornings. For those who are unable to arrange interviews at the College, appointments can be made with Barnard Area Representatives whose names are listed on pages 288-285 or with the College Admissions Officers who visit major metropolitan areas throughout the country each fall.

SPECIAL APPLICATION PROCEDURES

Early Decision

Well-qualified high school seniors who have selected Barnard as their first choice college may apply under one of two Early Decision Plans (EDP). To be considered under the Fall Early Decision Plan, a candidate should submit her application and other required credentials (listed above under freshman application procedures) to the Office of Admissions by November 15. She will be notified of the Committee's decision no later than December 15. To be considered under the Winter Early Decision Plan, a candidate should submit a completed application, with all supporting credentials, by January 15 for notification of the Committee's decision no later than February 15. Under either plan, a student may initiate regular applications to other colleges; she must, however, withdraw all other applications upon admission to Barnard. (Notification of financial aid for those candidates who have demonstrated financial need will follow the admissions decision.) To reserve a place in the freshman class, an Early Decision student must submit a nonrefundable enrollment deposit following her decision to enroll. This deposit is applied toward total annual tuition and fees for the freshman year.

The Winter Early Decision Plan recognizes that some candidates may decide on their college preference later than others. The same criteria are used in the evaluation of applicants under both plans. The Committee on Admissions may choose to postpone decision on any EDP application until the spring. In that event, the student is asked to submit a record of school work from the first half of the senior year.

Centennial Scholars Program

The Centennial Scholars Program offers a limited number of intellectually self-directed students with advanced preparation an early opportunity to engage in challenging independent projects tailored to their individual interests.

Eligibility

The Program is limited to fifteen students in any single class, approximately eight to ten to be appointed at the time of their admission and additional selections to be made in the following two terms. Admission of an entering freshman to the Program is based on the secondary school record, recommendations of her counselors and teachers, her personal statement, the College Entrance Examination Board test scores, an interview, and a special essay required of all Centennial Scholar applicants. Consideration of the matriculated freshman or sophomore requires recommendations of faculty members speaking to the aforementioned criteria.

Curricular Component

The Program confers a maximum of 18 points of credit. In the spring of the student's first year as a Centennial Scholar, she enrolls in a course designed to lay the foundation for the core of the Program, an extended apprenticeship with her mentor(s). The project, for which research funds are available, extends serially over two to three semesters, and may include a summer to accommodate travel or other particular needs. The Program culminates in the Centennial Scholars Symposium devoted to the presentation of the project in the spring following its completion. Monthly dinner lectures and the publication of a journal are additional features of the Program.

Admission

Centennial Scholars pursue a full program of study and are responsible for the fulfillment of all degree requirements, some of which may be met before matriculation by qualifying scores on Advanced Placement tests.

Deferred Enrollment

An admitted freshman or transfer student who wishes to defer enrollment in Barnard for one year must obtain permission by writing to the Director of Admissions explaining the reasons for the deferral request. Such a request is normally granted for purposes of work, travel, or pursuit of a special interest.

Foreign Students

Each year Barnard enrolls a number of qualified foreign students. These students are expected to follow the same application procedures and present the same credentials as other candidates, including the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) and three Achievement Tests. Foreign students who are considering Barnard are encouraged to communicate with the Director of Admissions well in advance of entrance so that the College may assist them with their plans.

Knowledge of the English language is essential for admission. Those students whose native language is not English are required to take the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL). Information about registration for the test is obtained by writing the TOEFL Program, Educational Testing Service, Princeton, New Jersey 08540. If the TOEFL scores cannot be presented, students are required to take the American University Language Center Test. Arrangements for it should be made through the United States Consulate.

After enrolling at Barnard, foreign students receive assistance with academic placement from the Foreign Student Adviser in the Office of the Dean of Studies.

Transfer Students

Barnard welcomes transfer students in the sophomore and junior classes each year. Applications for admission with advanced standing are considered beginning on March 1 for admission in September and on November 1 for admission in January.

Each candidate must submit a formal application and the following credentials: the secondary school record, the results of the SAT's or, if appropriate, the TOEFL, a recommendation from the secondary school counselor and from the college dean or adviser, an official transcript of all college work, and a copy of the college catalogue in which the courses taken are clearly marked.

A strong record of not less than one year's work at an accredited college, foreign university, or equivalent institution is required. In some cases, advanced credit cannot be assigned until a student has had an opportunity to establish a satisfactory record at Barnard, but, in general, credit is given for courses which are similar in content and depth to Barnard courses.

After acceptance, academic and general guidance is provided by the Advisers to Transfer Students in the Office of the Dean of Studies. For information on financial aid, students should consult page 21.

Visiting Students

Qualified students who are degree candidates at other colleges may apply for admission as visiting students (Other College Degree Candidates) for one or two semesters. Each applicant must present a satisfactory college record and a letter of approval from the dean or major adviser from the degree-granting school.

Readmission

Barnard students who have not been registered for one or two terms may return without applying for readmission by notifying the Dean of Studies. Students who have not been registered for more than two consecutive semesters must apply for readmission to the Director of Admissions by November 1 for the Spring term and by May 1 for the Autumn term. A nonrefundable fee of $30 must accompany each application.

Music	4 or 5	3 pts.
Physics	4 or 5	3-6 pts.	exemption (with review of lab notes)

III. Financial Information

Annual Tuition and Fees

The costs of education at Barnard are met by tuition, income from endowment, current gifts from alumnae and other friends of the College, and grants from foundations, corporations, and government agencies. The College makes every effort to limit charges to students, but must reserve the right to set tuition and fees at the level necessary for the maintenance of a high quality of instruction.

Schedule of Annual Tuition and Fees

The following tuition and fees are required from all students for the Academic Year 1985-1986 and are subject to change without prior notice.

Tuition:

Full program (12-18 points)	$10,112
Partial program (1-11½ points)	337 per point
Excess program (over 18 points)	337 per point
Program for Resumed Education. Tuition is assessed on the basis of a schedule available from the Director of the program in the Office of the Dean of Studies.

Comprehensive Fee Includes:	$434.00
Health Service (see page 31)
Accident and Sickness Insurance (see page 32)
Student Government Association Student Activity Fee

The following fees are required from all students occupying college housing facilities for the Academic Year 1985-1986.

Payment of charges and fees

All charges and fees (unless otherwise noted) are billed on a semester basis. The Autumn Term tuition is due August 1. The Spring Term tuition is due by December 16. Payments received after these dates are subject to a late processing fee of $50. Registration for either semester will not be complete until all College costs have been paid. Failure to complete registration on time imposes the late registration fee. Occupancy of an assigned dormitory room will not be permitted until charges have been paid in full as required. Students admitted after August 1 or December 16, respectively, must pay the balance due by the first day of registration.

Financial aid grants and any loans applied for may be deducted from the semester charges before computation is made of the balance due.

Privileges of the College, including issuing of transcripts and diplomas, and administration of examinations, are not available to any student who is delinquent in the payment of her College bills. When bills are not paid in full by their due date or satisfactory arrangements for their payments have not been made with the Bursar, the student will not be allowed to register and may be required to withdraw from the College.

All charges and fees are subject to change at any time at the discretion of the Board of Trustees.

Checks or money orders in payment of tuition and fees must be in U.S. funds (at a U.S. bank) payable to Barnard College. Checks or money orders should be made out for the exact amount of the payment due.

Deposits

To obtain a place on the College roster for the ensuing academic year, each student who is currently enrolled must pay a deposit of $200 toward annual tuition and fees on or before May 10. An applicant for admission must pay a $200 non-refundable tuition deposit upon acceptance of the offer of admission to Barnard College.

Students in Residence

New students who have been offered residence space must submit a deposit of $100 by May 10. If the Office of Residential Life is notified of a cancellation of the room request by July 1, $100 will be refunded or credited to the student's account. All returning "resident" students must pay the $200 room deposit in person prior to the room lottery held in March ($100 is non-refundable to those students who participate in the room lottery).

Financial Information

Deferred Payment

For students and parents desiring to pay education costs in monthly payments, a choice of payment plans is available. The College has arranged to participate in the Tuition Plan of New Hampshire, the insured tuition plan offered by Knight Insurance Agency, Inc., and the payment plan of Academic Management Services Inc. Information can be obtained from the Barnard Bursar.

Adjustment of tuition

For changing program of study. If a student changes her program and the tuition called for is lower than the amount she has already paid, she will be credited the excess only if the alteration in her program is made by September 13 (last day of program filing) in the Autumn Term and by January 29 in the Spring Term. If the new program calls for higher tuition, the student is responsible for paying the additional charges promptly.

Refunds

For withdrawal. If a student withdraws from the College after July 1, the following amount of tuition and residence fees will not be refunded:

Tuition	$200
Resident Fees	$200 ($100 for new students)

A pro-rata credit of remaining charges is made on a semester-by-semester basis in accordance with the following schedule:

Fees. All required fees are non-refundable after Autumn and Spring Term registration dates as noted in the College calendar.

Tuition. Tuition credit for withdrawal is as follows:

Up to and including the first Friday of the term—full credit except deposit ($200). After the first Friday of the term, 10% of tuition will be retained by the College for each week or part of a week up to the date on which the student’s written notice of withdrawal from the College is received by the Office of the Dean of Studies.

Residence Charges. Up to the first day of classes—full credit except deposit ($200). After the first day of classes a pro-rata credit of remaining charges will be determined by the Office of Residential Life.

Optional Board Plan. Pro-rata credit from the date the meal card is received by Food Service, less $50 non-refundable deposit.

Safekeeping of Students’ Funds

Barnard College is not able to receive funds from students for safekeeping or to cash personal checks or traveler’s checks.

To cover immediate expenses, students should provide themselves with traveler’s checks, which can be cashed at a local bank, or money orders, which the Columbia University Station of the U.S. Post Office will cash upon presentation of a validated ID card. Validated ID cards are issued after students register at the beginning of each term.

Financial Aid

Insofar as possible, Barnard assists qualified students who demonstrate financial need. Barnard does not discriminate against applicants for financial aid on the basis of race, color, creed, national origin or handicap.

Financial aid from the College consists of grants, loans, and opportunities for part-time employment. In addition to providing financial aid from its own funds, i.e. gifts, endowment, and general income, Barnard participates in the following Federal programs: the Pell Grant program, the Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant program, the National Direct Student Loan program, the Federally Guaranteed Student Loan program, the Parents Loan for Undergraduate Students program, and the College Work-Study program. Barnard also participates in the New York State Higher Education Opportunity Program (HEOP). Federal funds are administered by the College in accordance with government regulations and the College’s general policies relating to financial aid. To supplement the above mentioned financial aid sources students are urged to investigate state loan and scholarship/tuition assistance programs and college tuition financing plans offered by local banks and insurance companies.

Any student who thinks she will need financial aid in order to attend Barnard is encouraged to apply for aid. The decision of the Committee on Admissions to admit a student is not affected by the fact that a student has applied for or demonstrated need for financial aid.

A detailed explanation of current College policies and awarding practices may be found in the brochure, Barnard College Financial Aid Policies and Procedures, available from the Office of Financial Aid.

IV. College Life

Barnard students soon discover that their classmates may also be counted among the principal resources of their undergraduate years. Cosmopolitan in nature, the student population includes residents from nearly every state and some twenty-five foreign countries as well as those who live within commuting distance. Diversity is one generalization that can be safely made about Barnard students, and a mingling of economic, regional, ethnic, and cultural groups is evident in campus life.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT AND ORGANIZATIONS

Since the early seventies the structure of Barnard's student government has undergone fundamental revision, culminating in the development of College Committees on which students, faculty, and administrators serve, and which recommend policy and procedural changes in the areas of curriculum, housing, financial aid, college activities, athletics, and commencement.

All Barnard students are members of the Student Government Association, which elects a representative government and sponsors extracurricular activities and special events reflecting the range of cultural, political, pre-professional, and academic interests of the student body. These groups, which include the Pottery Co-op, Barnard Organization of Black Women, Société Française, Commuter Action Coalition, and Women in Health Careers, for example, are funded by the assessment of a student activities fee. The student newspaper, Barnard Bulletin, is published weekly and the Barnard Literary Magazine is an annual publication. Students with a variety of talents collaborate to produce Winter and Spring Festivals featuring concerts, theatre and dance performances, art exhibitions, ethnic food, and pottery and plant sales. Theatre-Goers Guild offers students the opportunity to attend professional dance, theatre, and opera in New York at reasonable prices. Students in many academic disciplines supplement course work with department-sponsored programs, lecture series, and performances during the school year.

Cooperation between Barnard and Columbia groups is common. Many activities such as the University's chorus, orchestra, radio station, and community service programs enlist members from both campuses. Religious organizations and activities with headquarters on the Columbia campus in Earl Hall encompass every faith and are open to all students. For more complete information, students should consult "A Guide to Barnard," the student handbook, and inquire at either the College Activities Office or the Undergraduate Association office in McIntosh Center.

The Recreational Athletics Association sponsors many activities including intramurals, sports week, and special events. The Intercollegiate Athletics program is operated in cooperation with Columbia University as a consortium in NCAA Division I and includes varsity teams in archery, basketball, cross country, fencing, indoor and outdoor track and field, swimming and diving, tennis, and volleyball.

College Life

Students have excellent facilities available for recreation and intercollegiate team practice and competition. Barnard facilities include a snack bar, lounge, music practice rooms, pottery studio, dark room, and bowling alleys in McIntosh Center; swimming pool, gymnasium, running track, fencing and dance studios in Barnard Hall; and tennis courts just one block away in Riverside Park. Barnard students have access to all recreational and athletic facilities of the University as well. The Dodge Fitness Center, opened in 1974, includes the Levien Gymnasium with a seating capacity of 3400; the eight-lane Uris Swimming Center; 17 squash and handball courts; a well-equipped training room; locker rooms and sauna. Women's intercollegiate and club teams also use outdoor facilities at Baker Field, a 26-acre complex at the northern tip of Manhattan that includes a new 20,000-seat stadium, with an eight-lane, all-weather, NCAA-regulation running track and practice fields. There are seven composition tennis courts and a modern tennis clubhouse; facilities for crew; and a spacious field house.

About thirty-five miles from New York, Barnard maintains a twenty-acre camp and lodge, Holly House, for both recreational and educational purposes. For additional information and fees, contact the Holly House Secretary, Alumnae Office, 221 Milbank Hall.

STUDENT CONDUCT

The Honor Code, instituted at Barnard in 1912, governs all aspects of academic life and is enforced by an Honor Board which has a membership of students and faculty members. A more complete explanation of the system may be found in the student handbook, "A Guide to Barnard." A Judicial Council of undergraduates, faculty, and staff recommends disciplinary action for non-academic offences.

Each student who registers at Barnard agrees to maintain the Honor Code, which provides that she will not ask for, give, or receive help in examinations or quizzes, or present oral or written work that is not entirely her own. Library regulations and independent study courses are also governed by the code.

Policies and regulations concerning student conduct on the University campus and in the College residence facilities are recommended by student, faculty, and administrative committees to the Vice President for Student Affairs, the President, and the Board of Trustees. Hearing and appeal procedures are also outlined in "A Guide to Barnard," and all decisions are subject to review and final disposition by the President.

Enrollment in the College, award of academic credit, and conferring of the degree are subject to disciplinary powers vested by the Barnard Board of Trustees in appropriate officers of instruction and administration and in College Committees.

HOUSING

Barnard strives to maintain as diversified a housing program as possible, providing several options for students. These options include traditional dormitories, suite arrangements, and apartments in College-owned buildings adjacent to the campus. In a cooperative exchange with Columbia College about 240 spaces are available for those who choose co-educational arrangements. Apartments have also been secured in buildings off-campus which meet the standards for College-operated residences. The college has residence facilities for approximately three-fourths of the student population. In addition, about 15% more of the student body live in independent housing they maintain in the campus vicinity. Beginning in 1982, the College has offered all incoming freshmen the opportunity to elect to live in College-provided housing. Policies regarding eligibility for housing and manner of assignments are formulated by a College Housing and Campus Environment Committee with a membership of students, faculty, and administrators.

Eligibility

Eligibility criteria have been established in order to assign available space on an equitable basis. These regulations may be changed as needed at the discretion of the College, but insofar as possible the following criteria will determine eligibility:

1. A student must be registered for a full academic program. Exceptions may be made upon review of appeals submitted to the Dean of Studies.
2. A student receives “resident” classification and priority if the principal residence of her parent or legal guardian is in the geographic area classified by the College as beyond commuting distance.
3. A “commuter” is a student whose permanent residence is within the geographic area classified by the College as within commuting distance. Commuters are eligible for College-assigned housing when they enter as freshmen, and thereafter as space is available. Students may consult an off-campus housing registry for help in obtaining accommodations near the College. Some dormitory rooms are reserved for commuters for occasional overnight accommodation. Per diem fees are charged for these rooms.
4. Any student may live off-campus regardless of rank. A permission form signed by the parent or legal guardian must be on file in the Office of Residential Life for any student under 18 years of age who wishes to live off-campus but not at home. Resident students who choose to withdraw from College housing lose their class priority in room drawing.
5. A student is responsible for reporting any change in permanent address to the Registrar of the College, and to the Office of Residential Life.

Request for Resident Status

Discretionary decisions and appeals regarding status may be reviewed by an Appeals Committee, whose decisions are final and binding.

Assignments

Returning upperclass students are assigned rooms in college residences on the basis of a lottery and room drawing. Incoming freshmen, readmitted upperclass students, and transfer students are assigned rooms by the Office of Residential Life.

Requirements

The rules and regulations regarding housing deposits, payments and refunds, and the use and occupancy of rooms are in the “Terms and Conditions of Student Residence in Barnard College Housing” which is given to students selecting College housing and which must be signed by them before they may accept rooms.

Housing Units

The College provides in its residence halls supervision under the direction of the Office of Residential Life. This includes resident directors, graduate and undergraduate student assistants, twenty-four hour desk attendant coverage, and regular security guard patrols.

Brooks, Hewitt, and Reid Halls or “B-H-R” at the south end of the campus, are operated as a single complex with space for about 515 students. Reid Hall is an all-female building housing first year students who are assigned to double rooms. Brooks and Hewitt are predominantly upperclass dormitories. The lower floors are co-educational and the upper floors remain all-female. All students living in these halls must subscribe to a College meal plan.

“616” West 116th Street, an apartment-style residence directly across the street from B-H-R, provides housing for 207 students in suites of single and double rooms. Each suite has a kitchen and a bath.

“600” and “620” West 116th Street are College-owned buildings comprised of student apartments of one to five single or double rooms with kitchen and bath, and apartments for community residents.

49 Claremont Avenue, a newly renovated building adjacent to the west side of campus, houses 131 students. Rooms are on common corridors in suites with shared baths, kitchenettes and lounges.

College Life

Plimpton Hall, an apartment-style dormitory on Amsterdam Avenue and West 121st Street, a short walk from the main campus, provides housing for 280 students in suites of five single rooms. Each suite has a kitchen and bath. Approximately 115 Columbia students reside there in all-male suites.

OTHER FACILITIES

College Residence Hotel at 601 West 110th Street has about 32 apartments leased by the College which house 94 upperclass students. This offers students the option to live off-campus, only six blocks down Broadway, in a building with some College-provided supervision. The College may lease additional off-campus spaces as they are required and become available.

Board

The College offers all students meal plans in Hewitt cafeteria and McIntosh Snack Bar. All freshmen and residents of BHR are required to be on a meal plan.

Married Students

Students who plan to marry during the academic year and continue in college are asked to notify the Dean of Studies. Married students, as a rule, will not be allowed to remain in the College residences. They will be subject to the financial obligations which pertain to any student who withdraws from the residence halls or from the College during the term.

Financial Aid for Room and Board

A resident student may use the Room and Board portion of her financial aid award for college housing, or if she prefers, toward her own non-Barnard housing. No resident student ever receives more financial aid for Room and Board than the amount required to cover the cost of living and eating in College residences. Commuter students do not receive financial aid for Room and Board.

THE WOMEN'S CENTER

The Women's Center was founded in 1971 in acknowledgment of the profound changes in women's lives and expectations and as a further expression of Barnard's traditional commitment to women. Today it is nationally recognized as a model for women's centers because it links all parts of the College community and extends its resources to women beyond the campus gates. Through a wide range of programs and services, the Center provides a physical and psychological meeting space for women, as well as a forum to discuss feminist concerns, both academic and non-academic. The Center maintains an expanding resource collection of over 6,000 books, articles, special issues of journals, and bibliographies in addition to subscriptions to over sixty newsletters and periodicals on women's issues. It also serves as a clearinghouse of current information on women's studies programs, research on women, women's professional and activist groups, and special events for women.

An annual academic conference, The Scholar and the Feminist, has continued inquiry into the impact of feminism on traditional scholarship. In recognition of its catalytic effect on the development of new feminist scholarship, papers and workshop presentations from The Scholar and the Feminist have been published each year.

The Women's Center also sponsors and co-sponsors a number of other programs. The Reid Lectureship brings to Barnard distinguished women in public life and the arts who have shown a commitment to other women. A regular series of monthly luncheon meetings focuses on significant women's issues with guest speakers and discussion. Poetry readings by students, alumnae, faculty, and staff, an annual women's film and video festival with the Barnard library, and a close relationship with the Women's Studies Program all reflect the Center's integrated and connecting role at the College.

The Center is governed by a twelve-member Executive Committee composed of equal representation from students, faculty, administrators, and alumnae. Located in 100 Barnard Hall, the Women's Center is open throughout the year.

V. The Library

Wollman Library and Other Library Resources

The main collection of more than 155,000 volumes, arranged on open shelves, contains books and microforms selected to cover curricular requirements and provide opportunities for independent work in many fields. A large collection of musical and spoken records, a wide selection of periodicals and journals, and a growing collection of instructional videotapes supplement the book collection. There are ample facilities for the use of records and videotapes, and the reading areas contain individual study carrels.

Special collections in the library include the Barnard Archives, a historical collection of official and student publications, documents, letters, and photographs from Barnard's founding in 1889 to the present; the Alumnae Collection of works by former Barnard students; the personal library of the Nobel Prize-winning Chilean poet Gabriela Mistral; the Overbury Collection of 3,300 books and manuscripts by and about American women authors; and a small rare book collection. The library has an especially strong collection in women's studies, supplemented by the Women's Center resource collection. A separate Chemistry Library is located in Altschul Hall.

When the College is in session the main library is open seven days a week. The Reference Department offers an instruction program to help each student develop efficient library skills and bibliographic control over her own area of study. The Media Services Department provides additional support for the instructional program.

Barnard students also have access to Columbia University's libraries with over 5.2 million books, 2.7 million microforms, and over 60,000 serial and periodical listings and to the libraries of Teachers College and Union Theological Seminary. In addition to these campus libraries, students may use the many libraries and collections in the metropolitan area, some open to the public and others accessible by special arrangement.

VI. Advising and Student Services

ACADEMIC ADVISING

Requirements for the degree are specified on page 33. Individual questions should be directed to the Dean of Studies, who oversees academic advising, or to the appropriate adviser listed below.

Class Deans and Advisers, 105 Milbank, 280-2024

After being notified of acceptance to the College, each entering freshman will receive a program form and the Freshman Program Guide from the Director of Freshman Programs. The student selects courses for the Autumn term and returns the completed program form to the Director who, insofar as possible, schedules classes accordingly. Class schedules and registration materials are distributed when students arrive on campus in September.

The Freshman Class Dean assists the Dean of Studies in coordinating the academic advising of freshmen, directs the planning for freshman orientation with the help of a committee of upperclass students, and oversees other special programs for freshmen.

Assistance in planning courses of study is given to freshmen and sophomores by the class advisers. Group meetings with class advisers are scheduled during freshman orientation and program-filing periods. For individual advising, students may schedule appointments in 105 Milbank and departmental offices. Group meetings with departmental chairmen and other professors are arranged periodically to facilitate the selection of majors.

In the second semester of her sophomore year, each student chooses her major field in consultation with the Sophomore Class Dean, her class adviser, the academic department and the Director of Career Services. During her junior and senior years, her major adviser guides advanced study for the undergraduate degree and is the principal source of information on preparation for graduate school. Also available to her for general academic guidance are the Junior and Senior Class Deans.

While it is the student's responsibility to fulfill all degree requirements, the Senior Class Dean reviews each senior record and advises on graduation status. A senior handbook, sent to campus mailboxes at the beginning of the Autumn Term, describes College policy on honors, application procedures for graduate or professional study, and deadlines for major examinations, GRE, LSAT, MCT, and fellowship applications. The Senior Class Dean directs the planning for commencement with the help of class officers and the Commencement Committee.

Transfer Advisers, 104 and 105 Milbank, 280-2024

Individual appointments with the transfer advisers may be arranged in the Office of the Dean of Studies.

Other College Degree Candidates, 104 Milbank, 280-2024

Students who enroll for classes at Barnard but who will graduate from another college must have approval from the degree-granting school for course work to be completed at Barnard. Program-filing and registration are guided by the Assistant Dean for Transfer Services.

Advising and Student Services

Foreign Student Adviser, 105 Milbank, 280-2024

Advice on situations arising from foreign student status is available in the Office of the Dean of Studies.

Study Abroad, 104 Milbank, 280-2024

Students who wish to study abroad for credit toward the Barnard degree are urged to secure approval from the Assistant Dean for Transfer Services before leaving the country. Information and forms are available at 105 Milbank.

Pre-Professional Advising, 105 Milbank, 280-2024

Students who are interested in post-baccalaureate professional training may consult the Dean for Pre-Professional Students for help with programming, selection of schools, and submission of application materials. A student who plans to enter one of the health professions should seek advice in her first or second college year in order to discuss requirements and obtain a handbook. Consultation with the pre-professional advisers in the junior year is recommended for any student interested in law, social work, architecture, journalism, or business. The pre-professional secretary maintains recommendation files and forwards materials required for applications. (See pages 39-40.)

Graduate School Advising, 105 Milbank, 280-2024, and departmental offices

Students interested in advanced study in the liberal arts and sciences or the performing arts may consult appropriate faculty members and the Senior Class Dean. A student who plans to apply to graduate school should, in her senior year, establish a file with the secretary for graduate school recommendations in the Office of the Dean of Studies.

Higher Education Opportunity Program, 5 Milbank, 280-3583

The Higher Education Opportunity Program, a support service to meet the needs of New York State undergraduate women from backgrounds that are disadvantaged economically and academically, provides counseling, tutoring, and financial assistance. In a six-week summer program, all incoming HEOP students receive instruction in English, math, research, and public speaking skills. During the academic year, tutoring, workshops, and study groups are available in addition to academic and personal counseling.

Resumed Education Program, 105 Milbank, 280-2024

For advice on academic study and College services for students returning to Barnard after absences of five years or more to complete the A.B., or for graduates redirecting their careers and exploring new interests, the Director of the Resumed Education Program in the Office of the Dean of Studies may be consulted.

STUDENT SERVICES

Career Services, 11 Milbank, 280-2033

The Office of Career Services helps students and alumnae define and implement career plans. To provide this service, the Director and career advisers have designed projects enabling them to explore careers, to keep informed about current labor market trends, and to earn money to finance their education. All placements for the Federal College Work Study Program are made through this office. In addition, individual counseling on careers and related concerns is available.

A newsletter published by the staff informs students about career programs and group counseling sessions. To aid students and alumnae in exploring career areas, the Office maintains CONTACT, a file listing over 1,400 alumnae who are available to discuss their fields; a library of vocational materials; and a collection of graduate school catalogues. Workshops on specific concerns, such as resume writing and job interviews, are conducted when the College is in session.

To enable students to clarify vocational interests, the Office sponsors internships in many professional fields and occupations for a semester, the summer, or the January inter-session. Interns gain work experience of a more professional level than students ordinarily can, and a few students also arrange academic credit for internships through the Experimental Studies Program.

Advising and Student Services

The Office, which is open twelve months a year, has contacts with many academic institutions, museums, business firms, hospitals, government agencies, libraries, and a large number of other potential employers who post full-time jobs regularly with Career Services. The Job Seekers Newsletter announcing these full-time job opportunities is issued every two weeks and is mailed to alumnae who request it. Corporate employers interview seniors on campus in the spring semester Recruitment Program for major training program opportunities. Students use part-time and temporary job listings for both on- and off-campus jobs. The Barnard Babysitting Service and the Barnard Bartending Service, student-run services supervised by the Office, receive thousands of requests annually and provide work for many students. Students and alumnae may establish permanent recommendation files at the Office of Career Services for future employment.

Program for Disabled Students, 7 Milbank, 280-4634

In 1978, Barnard established a program to provide disabled women with services which enhance their educational, pre-professional, and personal development. The Office for Disabled Students serves students with a broad range of disabilities, including visual impairments, mobility impairments, and hearing impairments as well as students with hidden disabilities. The Dean for Disabled Students and her staff work with other administrators and members of the faculty to assist disabled students in participating in college activities, securing financial aid, scheduling classes and examinations, and planning careers. Mobility aides, readers, tutors, and note-takers are available on request. The Committee to Meet the Needs of the Disabled works to reduce all architectural and other barriers at the College.

The buildings on the Barnard campus interconnect. Classroom and other facilities are accessible to disabled students. Maps of the campus showing special features and access routes are available in the Office for Disabled Students.

Financial Aid, 14 Milbank, 280-2154

Students who have questions or problems regarding financial aid are encouraged to make appointments with counselors in the Office of Financial Aid. Advice is available on applying for financial aid, budgeting, and computation of financial aid awards. For more detailed information, students should consult page 21.

Health and Counseling Services, 202 Barnard, 280-2091

The Student Health Service, recently relocated in a modernized complex of offices, Brooks Hall, Lower Level, provides diagnosis and treatment of all major and minor health problems and preventative health care in relevant areas. The staff is composed of a Director (an internist), an Associate Director, consultants in Adolescent Medicine, Gynecology, and Dermatology, three psychiatrists, two additional psychotherapists, three nurses, and an administrative staff.

The medical questionnaire and the physician's report, required of every student as prerequisite to enrollment, are filed with the Health Service. Complete examinations are performed for seniors in the Autumn term and sophomores in the Spring term. They are not mandatory, but are recommended and are required if health certificates are needed.

All students regardless of residence must immediately report any illness, however minor, to the Student Health Service. If a resident student wishes to have someone other than the Health Service physicians care for her, her parents should send the name and address of the doctor to the Director before registration.

Campus medical service is available to all Barnard students and is covered by the Student Health Service fee. This service is not available during College vacations. Students are entitled to the following services:

- 1) an unlimited number of visits to the staff physicians;
- 2) an unlimited number of visits to the gynecologists and dermatologist;
- 3) use of the Counseling Service;
- 4) weekend and night-time coverage.

Advising and Student Services

The following services are available at an additional charge; these services are covered by the Barnard Insurance Plan when ordered by Barnard staff physicians:

- 1) hospitalization at Presbyterian Hospital;
- 2) medications;
- 3) laboratory tests and x-rays;
- 4) consultations.

The following services are not provided:

- 1) home visits;
- 2) consultations when the College is not in session;
- 3) dental care;
- 4) filling of prescriptions by outside physicians.

For additional information, students are encouraged to consult Barnard Health Service, a Student Guide, which is available at the Student Health Service. Enrollment in the Barnard Insurance Program is compulsory. For further details consult the Barnard Insurance Brochure.

Resident Assistants

As part of the student support network, upperclass students in each residence facility are designated as Resident Assistants to answer questions on campus life for resident students, to provide liaison with other services, and to aid in residential programming.

Commuter Affairs, 208 McIntosh Center, 280-3040

The Office of Commuter Affairs is a resource and referral center designed to enhance the experience of commuter students at Barnard College. It is a place where commuters can meet other commuters as well as receive information about off-campus housing, transportation, carpooling, parking, and temporary on-campus accommodations. The Commuter Assistant staff is available to help with concerns related to commuting, academic procedures, or with issues of a vocational or personal nature. The office also coordinates the Urban New York Program and initiates educational, cultural, and social programs designed to enrich commuter life.

Women's Counseling Project, Reid Hall, 280-3063

Affiliated with the Barnard Women's Center, the Women's Counseling Project is a free, confidential referral service specializing in the areas of health care, therapy, sexuality, and the law.

Recommendations

Students may establish recommendation files for employment in the Office of Career Services, for graduate study with the recommendations secretary in the Office of the Dean of Studies, for professional schools with the pre-professional secretary in the Office of the Dean of Studies. For procedures and policy, the appropriate office should be consulted.

Student Records and Information

The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974 (the Buckley Amendment) stipulates that students may have access to their official files and that no transcripts may be issued without their written request. A further explanation may be found in "A Guide to Barnard College."

Also in accordance with the Buckley Amendment, Barnard has the right to make public, at its discretion and without prior authorization from the student, the following information: name; class; home or college address and telephone number; major field; date and place of birth; dates of attendance at Barnard; degrees; honors and awards received; and previous school most recently attended. The law also gives students the right to place limitations on the release of this information. A student who wishes to do so must file a special form with the Registrar, 107 Milbank, each year by September 15. In practice, the College does not indiscriminately release information about individual students.

VII. The Curriculum

Requirements for the A.B. Degree

Students are recommended by the Faculty of Barnard College to the Trustees of Columbia University for the degree of Bachelor of Arts, the only degree awarded to Barnard students. The degree requires the satisfactory completion of 120 points of academic work and two terms of physical education. As parts of the 120-point requirement, all students must complete a major and must fulfill the applicable general education requirements. Beginning in 1984, the general education requirements changed; both the “old” and “new” requirements are listed below.

Major Requirements

All students must complete the requirements of an approved major. The number of required semester-courses for the major depends on the major chosen (see individual department and program curriculum statements).

The student registers her chosen major with the Office of the Registrar and with her major department or program, normally in the second term of her sophomore year. The major may be chosen from any listed in the Barnard Catalogue. A student may major in two fields by satisfying all the major requirements prescribed by each department, with no overlapping courses. If either of the fields qualifies for the distribution requirement, two of the courses in one field may count toward that requirement. A combined or special major may be designed in consultation with the chairmen of the appropriate departments and with the approval of the Committee on Programs and Academic Standing. Committee approval is not needed for the combined major that comprises all the course requirements of two majors and one integrating senior project.

General Education Requirements for Students

Entering in the Fall of 1984 and Thereafter

The Barnard College faculty has adopted a revised set of general education requirements which will apply to all students who begin their studies in the fall of 1984 and thereafter. The program is designed to provide direction and continuity while giving students opportunities to shape their own programs of study. Barnard offers a vigorous but flexibly structured set of requirements which afford students a range of choice in almost every instance. The requirements are as follows:

FRESHMAN SEMINAR

Freshmen are required to take this one-semester course, which provides special opportunities to develop some of the intellectual skills and styles which will be central to subsequent academic work. The enhancement of strong writing and communication skills is emphasized, as is the group-discussion mode of intellectual inquiry and discourse. Seminars adopt major themes or issues, and participants read and discuss leading philosophical, historical, literary, or scientific statements of them. A full list of Freshman Seminars, with descriptive information and the names of instructors, appears on page 146. Transfers are not required to take the Freshman Seminar.

FRESHMAN ENGLISH

Freshmen must take this one-semester writing course designed to cultivate and develop prose writing and related tools of scholarship. Reading and writing assignments focus on major works of literature. Some students may gain exemption from the course on the basis of a writing proficiency examination. Foreign students are required to exhibit a degree of fluency before enrolling in this course. Transfers are not required to take Freshman English.

The Curriculum

FOREIGN LANGUAGE

Students must achieve basic competence in one ancient or modern foreign language. The requirement is fulfilled by completion of the fourth sequential semester (or a more advanced course for which the fourth semester is prerequisite) of a course of three or more weekly hours in any foreign language. (In Latin, both Latin BC2003 and BC2004 or their equivalents must be completed.) Courses narrowly focused on conversation or composition or reading do not qualify. The faculty recommends that the third and fourth semesters be completed at Barnard; that elementary courses be completed in the freshman year; that courses be taken consecutively without interruption; that proficiency be established by the end of the junior year. Re-enrollment without credit is required, whenever feasible, for students whose work in levels 1, 2, or 3 is graded below C. Most students satisfy the requirement in French, Spanish, Hebrew, German, Russian, Italian, Chinese, Latin, or Greek, but other languages taught in the University are also available. The student who wishes to study a language not offered by any division of the University should consult the chairman of the Barnard Language and Literature Committee.

Exemption from the requirement may be obtained in the following ways:

1. CEEB Achievement score of 750 or higher;
2. Chairman's decision on AP score of 4 or 5;
3. Departmental examination.

Placement is determined in the following ways:

1. CEEB score of 650-749 level 4
 550-649 level 3
 below 400 level 1
2. On the basis of previous college work for transfer students, in the level following that of the last satisfactorily completed semester course. Formal withdrawal and re-enrollment without credit may be required for students who are judged by the department to be unsuitably placed and in need of additional preparation or review.
3. By Departmental examination if there is no CEEB score or previous college transfer work.

Credit is determined on the following basis:

1. For courses satisfactorily completed in residence at Barnard or, in the case of a transfer, at her previous college.
2. No prior approval given for summer or transfer work undertaken as Barnard matriculant; on completion of other-college course, credit is granted with departmental approval, or by examination, or on completion of next level at Barnard.
3. No duplicate credit is granted for work repeated at the same level.
4. No credit for the first semester of an elementary language is granted unless a more advanced course is completed.

Exception to the general guidelines outlined above is made if the high school language of instruction was not English. Fulfillment in English is granted for foreign students who complete English BC1201 or one satisfactory year at Barnard. Fulfillment is granted in the high school language of instruction for students whose native language is English (e.g., French for alumnae of the Lycée Français).

The Curriculum

In addition, fulfillment is granted for the following special situations. A sequence which includes Italian V1301, V1302, and one year of literature will qualify. Completion of Spanish BC3006 will be sufficient for students of Hispanic background. Because of curricular differences, students who as Barnard matriculants complete the third or fourth semester of French or German outside the Barnard departments are required to take a departmental examination for placement or fulfillment.

LABORATORY SCIENCE

Students must complete one science course (two semesters), with laboratory. Acceptable courses must meet for at least three hours of lecture and three hours of laboratory per week. The student must pass both the lecture and the laboratory portion of the course, and the College strongly suggests that the two be taken concurrently. The following courses meet these requirements:

Astronomy	C1103-C1104
Biology	Barnard BC1101-BC1102
Chemistry	Barnard BC1601-BC1602 or BC1601-BC3328 C1403-C1404 with C1503-C1504 or with C1503-C1507 C1407 with C1503 or with C1507 and Barnard BC3328
Environmental Science	Barnard BC1001, BC1002
Geography	W1005-W1006 C1001-C1002
Geology	V1011-V1012 V1021-V1022
Physics	C1021-C1022 F1003-F1004 V1003-V1004 C1006, C1007 or C1107, C1011, C1012 V1103-V1104 V1305-V1306 W1003-W1004 W3001-W3002
Psychology	Barnard BC1105, BC1108, BC1117, BC1127, BC1130, BC1136, BC3256 (any two)

Students wishing to substitute a course-sequence not given above, transfer students, and those with Advanced Placement should consult with department chairmen for guidance with respect to fulfilling this requirement.

QUANTITATIVE REASONING

All students must take a placement test given at the ACC during their first week of matriculation. All students must then take one course in which the major topics are mathematics, methods of empirical analysis using quantitative data, or the use of symbolic manipulation to solve problems. The requirement may be fulfilled by taking and passing any of the following courses:

Chemistry	BC1601: General Chemistry 1 C1403, C1404; General Chemistry
Computer Science	W1003: Introduction to Computer Programming B W 1005: Introduction to Computer Programming C All other Computer Science department courses carrying degree credit except W1001: Introduc- tion to Computer Programming A

The Curriculum

Economics	V 1411: Introductory Probability and Statistics for Economics
Environmental Science	W 3071, W 3072: Quantitative Techniques in Geography
History	BC 3455: History, Historians, and the Computer
Mathematics	V 0077: Pre-calculus (Counts toward Quantitative Reasoning requirement. No degree credit.) V 1007: Applied Linear Algebra V 1100: Brief Calculus V 1101: Calculus, 1A All other Mathematics courses carrying degree credit
Philosophy	V 3411: Formal Logic A V 3415: Formal Logic B
Physics	All courses except BC 1001, BC 1002: Elementary Physics
Political Science	BC 3345: Introduction to Statistical Analysis of Politics and Policy
Psychology	BC 1609: Statistics W 1920: Statistics for Behavioral Scientists
Quantitative Reasoning	BC 1101: Description, Development, and Decision BC 1102: Size, Symmetry, and Sequence BC 1103: Music and Mathematics
Sociology	V 3212: Methods of Social Research
Statistics	V 1111: Introduction to Statistics All other Statistics department courses

Note: A student may fulfill the course requirement if she receives AP credit for a course equivalent to one of the above. Such students must still take the placement test.

DISTRIBUTION Students must complete four semester-courses outside the major department, two each in the Humanities and in the Social Sciences. One interdisciplinary course may be used to satisfy the requirement in each of the two areas.

The distribution requirement in the Humanities may be fulfilled by taking courses in Art History, Philosophy, Oriental Humanities, Studies in the Humanities, Medieval and Renaissance Studies; or by taking courses in any literature, the history or literature of music, the history of dance; Humanities C1001 or C1002; or designated courses in Religion or Women's Studies.

The distribution requirement in the Social Sciences may be fulfilled by taking courses in History, Oriental Civilization, American Studies, Anthropology, Economics, Health and Society, Political Science, Sociology, or in the history of religion; European Studies BC3352; designated courses in Women's Studies, or CC1101 or CC1102.

General Education Requirements for Students Entering before Autumn 1984

For students beginning their studies before the Autumn term of 1984, the following general education requirements apply:

The requirement is identical to the Freshman English requirement listed above, page 33.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE

The requirement is identical to the Foreign Language requirement listed above, page 34.

The Curriculum

LABORATORY SCIENCE The requirement is identical to the Laboratory Science requirement listed above, page 35.

DISTRIBUTION All students must complete six semester-courses of three or more points outside the major department, to be distributed among three or more of the categories listed below (i.e., no more than two semester-courses in any single category).

The qualifying courses that are listed in this catalogue bear the Roman numeral of the relevant category in parentheses on the last line of the course description. The chairman of the appropriate Barnard department will determine the eligibility of all other courses.

I. FINE ARTS Art History; history or literature of Music; Dance BC2565, BC2566; English BC3129.

II. LITERATURE Any literature written in the original language (i.e. not literature in translation).

III. OTHER HUMANITIES Philosophy; Religion (other than history of religion courses); Oriental Humanities; Readings in the Humanities; Medieval and Renaissance Studies; Humanities C1001-C1002; Classical Literature BC1032, V3123.

IV. HISTORY History; Oriental Civilization; history of religion courses; American Studies; European Studies BC3352.

V. OTHER SOCIAL SCIENCES Anthropology; Economics; Geography (see listings under Environmental Science); Health and Society; Linguistics; Political Science; Sociology; Women's Studies BC 3111.

VI. MATHEMATICS Mathematics; Computer Science W3203, W3261, W4203, W4241, W4242, G4801.

Electives

Apart from fulfilling general education requirements and major requirements, the student completes the remainder of the 120-point requirement with elective courses, either within or outside the major department, subject to the approval of the appropriate adviser. No more than 18 points of studio, performing arts, or professional school courses (including film) may be credited toward the A.B. degree. (Of these a maximum of four arts studio courses may be credited, and a student who takes more than two is required to validate each additional studio course with a course in art history.) Exceptions to this rule are allowed only for courses in the major field or for courses taken in fulfillment of requirements for double and joint degree programs with the professional schools of the University.

Physical Education Requirement

Two terms of physical education are required, normally to be completed in the Freshman year. Sophomore and junior transfers are required to complete one semester of physical education. The physical education requirement is in addition to the 120 academic-point requirement and is graded on a pass-fail basis.

Length of Residence

Students are expected to be registered full-time for four years. Transfer students must complete at least 60 points and two years in residence at Barnard to receive the degree (see below for additional information). Under certain conditions, it is possible for a senior to complete her work for the degree while registered in absentia, with the permission of the Committee on Programs and Academic Standing.

The Curriculum

Requirements for Transfer Students

To receive the A.B. degree at Barnard, a transfer student must attend Barnard for at least four regular academic terms and must complete at least six courses in the major field (and three in the minor field, if a minor is elected). Additional major (and minor) courses, as well as general education requirements, may be satisfied by transfer courses. Exemption from the foreign language requirement may be attained on the basis of College Entrance Examination Board Achievement scores alone or by a combination of those scores and additional college work. Those who do not receive exemption must complete the normal language requirement (see page 34). Transfer students are eligible for Honors when both overall and Barnard averages meet the required academic standards.

Transfer Credit

Courses completed at other accredited colleges and universities may be submitted for transfer credit. Transfer courses are evaluated after a complete transcript is received in the Office of the Registrar. Students are asked to submit catalogues and course descriptions with their requests for transfer credit to the Director of Transfer Services who notifies them of the evaluation by mail.

Credit for approved work at another institution is applied to Barnard's 120-point graduation requirement in proportion to progress toward the degree at the previous institution with a maximum of 16 points per term. Credit cannot be granted for courses with grades lower than C minus. Acceptable transfer work does not usually include applied or professional courses or more than the equivalent of two Barnard studio courses. The first term of an elementary language course is not credited unless or until the second term or a more advanced course has been satisfactorily completed. Summer work is not included in initial credit estimates. Transfer students may apply for credit for previous summer courses under the regulations governing Summer Study (see page 40).

Freshmen with a record of prior college work may request up to one semester of transfer credit provided that the courses were not applied to the high school diploma.

Classification of Students

Students are classified as follows:

MATRICULATED:	Points completed
FRESHMAN	fewer than 24
SOPHOMORE	24-51
JUNIOR	52-85
SENIOR	86 or more
UNCLASSIFIED	Transfer students who have not yet been assigned credit
NONMATRICULATED:
Other college degree candidates
Barnard alumnae auditing courses
Barnard alumnae taking courses for credit
Any other student who is not a degree candidate

A degree candidate (i.e., student who is matriculated) may not change her status to non-matriculated.

Filing of Diploma Name Cards

The Diploma Name Card, available at the Office of the Registrar, is the student's official notification to the Registrar that she expects to have completed all requirements for the degree and to receive the diploma on a particular graduation date. Degrees are granted in May, October, and January. The filing of the card sets in motion the processing of the student's academic records in preparation for graduation. It is the student's responsibility to file the Diploma Name Card before published deadlines (see College Calendar, page 6). Graduation ceremonies are held in January and May.

VIII. Other Academic Opportunities

Minor

The selection of a minor field of study is optional, requires at least five courses which total a minimum of 15 points, and may be designated by any student having a major after completing a minimum of three courses in the minor field. Requirements depend on the minor chosen (see individual department curriculum statements); courses are selected in consultation with the department chairman. Two of the courses taken for the minor may be used to fulfill the distribution requirement if the field selected qualifies for the requirement (see page 33).

Senior Scholar Program

The Barnard Senior Scholar Program allows a qualified student to undertake a single project for the entire senior year, or for one semester of the senior year (normally the second). The Program is intended for the student who is unusually well prepared in an academic discipline or in one of the performing arts. It offers the special advantages of concentration on one project, designation as “Senior Scholar” on the permanent transcript, and the amendment of some major requirements. Senior Scholars are allowed credit for no more than 30 points. In the past, Barnard Senior Scholars have gained approval for a wide range of proposals, including writing projects, government internships, and art projects.

A qualified student interested in the Senior Scholar Program should consult the Senior Class Dean, who is coordinator of the program, in her junior year. Before the beginning of the senior year, the student should have completed all but the major requirements for the A.B. degree. The student’s written application for the Senior Scholar Program is submitted to the Committee on Honors by the coordinator and is subject to the approval of the Committee. The deadline for application appears in the College Calendar (see page 6).

For financial assistance in carrying out the project, the student may apply separately for a student research grant.

Program Planning for Students Interested in Medicine or Dentistry

The basic premedical and predental requirements are one year of biology with laboratory (Biology BC1101 and BC1102); one year of inorganic chemistry with laboratory (Chemistry BC1601 and BC3232); one year of organic chemistry with laboratory (Chemistry BC3230, BC3231, and BC3328); one year of physics with laboratory (Physics V1003-V1004 or Physics V1103-V1104); and two semesters of English. Highly recommended courses, required by some schools, are two terms of calculus or other college-level mathematics and one additional inorganic laboratory (Chemistry BC3338 or Chemistry BC3340).

Students should become familiar with the most recent edition of Medical School Admissions Requirements, an annual publication of the Association of American Medical Colleges, and Barnard’s own Handbook for Students Entering the Health Professions, copies of which are available in 105 Milbank. The latter deals with many of the health professions (Optometry, Podiatry, Physical Therapy, and Public Health) as well as Medicine and Dentistry.

Pursuing a major in the sciences is not necessary for premedical students provided they include the aforementioned required courses in their programs. The science requirements should be completed in the year prior to the year of desired entry (i.e., in most instances the junior year) at which time students are advised to take the Medical College Admissions Test normally offered in April. The test is repeated in the early fall for those who wish to retake it or who, for compelling reasons, were unable to take it in the spring.

Other Academic Opportunities

All students who are interested in the health professions should consult their class advisers as early as possible and should start a file with the Pre-Professional Secretary in the Dean of Studies Office by the junior year at the latest. Applications for the standardized tests, school catalogues, and other relevant materials are available in 105 Milbank.

Program Planning for Pre-Law Students

There are no specific course requirements for entry to law school, nor is there any specifically recommended major. Admission to law school is based largely on grade point average and Law School Admission Test scores although other factors are taken into account. Students are encouraged to develop strong skills in writing and in speaking with precision, and to take programs that require demanding critical analysis and effective study habits. Information about law schools and what makes a good lawyer can be found in the Pre-Law Handbook, an annual publication of the Association of American Law Schools. Copies may be used in the Dean of Studies Office, 105 Milbank, which also collects law school catalogues and other relevant information.

Pre-Law students are encouraged to make themselves known to the Pre-Professional advisers in the junior year or earlier. The LSAT should be taken in June or October of the year prior to expected entry to law school; of these, the June test is recommended because it allows for better planning. Applications for the LSAT and for the Law School Data Assembly Service (a required transcript analysis procedure) arrive in April each year and can be picked up in 105 Milbank any time thereafter.

Program Planning for Students Interested in Journalism, Architecture, Social Work and Business

Curricular planning should be made with an eye to some of the specific requirements in each of these fields. Familiarity with professional school catalogues in these areas is recommended. Information and printed literature is available in the Office of the Dean of Studies, 105 Milbank, and in the Office of Career Services, 11 Milbank.

Credit for Summer Study

Students are expected to complete the work for the degree in eight academic terms. Because Barnard does not offer courses during the summer, the granting of course credit for summer courses taken at other accredited institutions is treated as transfer credit, with some additional regulations. The maximum number of points that can be credited toward the degree for course credit is 16, subject to the approval of the Committee on Programs and Academic Standing. Although a student cannot receive degree credit for summer courses exceeding a maximum of 16 points, she can fulfill degree requirements with additional summer courses, subject to the approval of the Committee on Programs and Academic Standing, and in some cases, subject to satisfactory performance on a Barnard Placement Examination. The full regulations on credit for summer study are available at the Office of the Registrar and are listed on the Application for Approval of Summer Session Courses. The student may find out in advance whether the courses she wishes to take in summer school meet the approval of the Committee on Programs and Academic Standing by completing the form and submitting it to the Office of the Registrar well before the end of the Spring term. The application may also be retroactive. The student is advised to consult the application for the full regulations, some of which are listed below:

1. No more than two one-semester courses may be counted for one summer session.
2. To be eligible for credit, courses normally must be of at least six weeks' duration.
3. Grades for courses taken in summer school must be letter grades in the A to C range; they are not included in the cumulative grade point average.

Study Abroad

Several options for study abroad are available to Barnard students.

Barnard offers opportunities for study in Great Britain to junior-year students to spend the third year of undergraduate study at Oxford (Somerville College), Cambridge (Newnham College), or the University of London (University College or London School of Economics). Admission to these colleges is competitive. Those interested should consult with the Dean of Studies no later than October of the sophomore year.

Other Academic Opportunities

Under the auspices of Reid Hall in Paris, several semester-long and full-year Barnard-Columbia programs are offered. Semester-long Institutes include intermediate and advanced courses in French language, literature, and civilization; fine arts and architecture; sociology and ethnography of French society and culture; and Women's Studies. The year-long program combines classes in the French university system with research directed by a scholar in the student's chosen field. The majority of applicants to Reid Hall are not French majors, but a strong background in French is required for year-long programs. Further information may be obtained from the chairman of the French Department, the chairman of Women's Studies (concerning the Reid Hall Women's Studies program), or in the Office of the Dean of Studies. To receive degree credit for courses taken at Reid Hall, the approval of the Committee on Programs and Academic Standing is required on a special form available at the Office of the Registrar, 107 Milbank.

Barnard participates in the program of the Intercollegiate Center for Classical Studies in Rome. Students who have completed at least four semesters of Latin above the elementary course, and at least one semester of elementary Greek, are eligible to apply for admission to the program of the Rome Center for one or two semesters, preferably in the junior year. Courses taken at the Rome Center may be counted toward the major and, in some cases, toward the fulfillment of the distribution requirements.

Barnard also offers the opportunity to study at the University of Rome. Those who are interested should consult with the Assistant Dean for Transfer Services no later than October of the sophomore year.

Barnard College is a Supporting Institution of the American School of Classical Studies at Athens and the American Academy in Rome, and certain privileges of those schools are available, without fee, to graduates of the College.

Course credit for courses taken at institutions abroad, other than Reid Hall, is treated as transfer credit (see page 38).

Study at Jewish Theological Seminary

The Jewish Theological Seminary of America, located two blocks from the Barnard campus, offers opportunities to Barnard students for specialized study under a cooperative arrangement. Students may enroll in courses at the Seminary under any of three options: (1) individual courses; (2) a year's study in residence at the Seminary; or (3) a double degree program.

A student wishing to study at the Seminary should consult her adviser and obtain the written permission of her major department chairman. Courses taken at the Jewish Theological Seminary are evaluated as transfer credit (see page 38 for rules on transfer credit). Students who wish to obtain simultaneously the degree of Bachelor of Arts from Barnard and Bachelor of Hebrew Literature from the Seminary must consult advisers in both institutions, and must be separately admitted to each.

Qualified Barnard students may request housing at the Seminary. Students who enroll in the Seminary College will be subject to Seminary tuition charges. Seminary College students may also apply to the Barnard Admissions Office to become special students or to fulfill the requirements for the A.B. degree at Barnard.

Study at the Manhattan School of Music

The Manhattan School of Music is located one block to the north of the Barnard campus. Under a recently established program of cross-registration, musically qualified Barnard students have the opportunity to enroll in private music lessons at the Manhattan School, subject to the regulations specified on the application form available at the Office of the Registrar. Students interested in this possibility should consult with the chairman of the Barnard Music Department.

Other Academic Opportunities

Special Academic Programs

Barnard offers a summer academic program for secondary school students, "Summer in New York: Barnard's Pre-College Program." Program information and applications are available in the Office of the Dean for Special Academic Programs.

DOUBLE AND JOINT DEGREE INTRAUNIVERSITY PROGRAMS

Barnard offers double and joint degrees in coordination with other schools in the University system, including the School of International and Public Affairs, School of Engineering, and Law School. Details on specific programs are given below.

School of International and Public Affairs

Barnard College and the Columbia University School of International and Public Affairs offer a joint program leading to the A.B. degree at the end of four years and the M.I.A. (Master of International Affairs) after one additional year.

Application to this program is made through the Office of the Dean of Studies by March 1 of the junior year but, to ensure appropriate guidance and preparation, consultation is recommended in the sophomore year with the Senior Class Dean at Barnard. Although the Dean of Studies Office determines application procedures and may nominate as many as four students, the final decision regarding admission to the joint program rests with the SIPA Review Committee. The nominees will arrange for an interview with two SIPA deans before the last day of classes in the spring term.

A Barnard student's eligibility for the joint program with SIPA rests on the following conditions:

1. A minimum grade point average of 3.3
2. At least four semesters of matriculation at Barnard College before enrolling in the joint program.
3. Fulfillment of all basic and distribution requirements before the senior year.
4. No more than four courses (16 points) in the major to be completed during the senior year.
5. Completion of introductory courses in microeconomics and macroeconomics and, if possible, a course in statistics by the end of the junior year. (No SIPA transfer credit is given for these courses.)

A Barnard student in the program must satisfy all Barnard degree requirements. Courses in the School of International and Public Affairs may be used to fulfill major requirements only with the written permission of the Chair of the major department. As a senior, after consultation with a SIPA dean and her major adviser at Barnard, she will elect 15 to 18 points of SIPA course work, including a substantial part of the SIPA Core (A) Requirement. A typical program would include most of the 12 credits of courses at the 4000 level or above in the following areas:

1. International politics
2. International law
3. U.S. foreign policy
4. Foreign political processes (comparative politics)

A grade of B or better is required in all courses for which transfer credit is granted.

Admission to the joint program does not constitute admission to the School of International and Public Affairs. Formal application to the School is made in the autumn of the senior year, and final admission is contingent upon conferral of the A.B. degree and a satisfactory grade point average while in the joint program.

Graduate Program in Public Policy and Administration

Barnard College and the Graduate Program in Public Policy and Administration offer a joint degree program leading to the A.B. degree at the end of four years and the Master of Public Administration (M.P.A.) after one additional year.

Although application to the program is made in the junior year, it is advisable to consult Professor Demetrios Caraley, 402 Lehman, as early as the sophomore year to plan an appropriate undergraduate program. Admission to the joint program does not constitute automatic admission to the Graduate Program in Public Policy and Administration. The student in the joint program applies for admission to the Graduate Program in the Autumn term of her senior year. Final admission is conditional upon the applicant's receiving the A.B. degree from Barnard with an approximate grade point average of 3.5.

A Barnard student in the joint program must satisfy all basic, distribution, and major requirements for the A.B. degree at Barnard. Courses in the Graduate Program may be used to fulfill major requirements only with the written consent of the chairman of the department in which the student is majoring. During the junior and senior years she must complete at least 24 points of course work at the 4000 level or above, including the first-year required core courses specified in the Bulletin of the Graduate Program in Public Policy and Administration. An internship, usually during the summer between the fourth and fifth years, is also required. In the fifth year of the program a student completes at least 30 points including specialization requirements.

School of Law

Barnard College has the option of nominating, in conjunction with the Columbia University School of Law, two outstanding juniors each year to enter the Law School under the Accelerated Program in Interdisciplinary Legal Education (A.I.L.E.). Each student must submit a record of 90 points, including all general requirements, 60 of which will have been completed at Barnard. Each must also demonstrate that she will be able to complete her major and the final 30 points at the Law School, 12 of which must be in the liberal arts and the remainder in appropriate law courses.

To be nominated, a student must have an outstanding academic record (3.6 average or above), and have taken the LSAT by March of her junior year.

Students interested in the program should consult with the Dean for Pre-Professional Students early in the junior year and with the Senior Class Dean to ensure fulfillment of graduation requirements. LSAT applications are available in the Dean of Studies Office; the test is usually offered in June, October, December and February or March.

School of Oral and Dental Surgery

A limited number of qualified students may wish to enter the School of Oral and Dental Surgery after three years of undergraduate work at Barnard. To be eligible for this program, before entering the Dental School, the student must have completed 90 points of academic work at Barnard and all of the prerequisite courses for the Dental School. To be eligible for the A.B. degree, she must have completed 120 points, 30 of which may be taken at the Dental School, and she must have completed all of the general and major requirements of Barnard College.

A student interested in this option should consult with the Dean for Pre-Professional Students in the sophomore year for early program planning. Before her admission to the Dental School she should consult with the Senior Class Dean to make certain that she will be eligible for the A.B. degree while attending the Dental School.

School of Engineering

Barnard College and the School of Engineering and Applied Science offer undergraduate programs in the professional branches of engineering and in the applied sciences under a cooperative program. In addition to the general admission requirements, course work in mathematics through trigonometry, physics, and chemistry is desirable for entering students interested in engineering or applied science.

The first three years of the five-year program leading to the degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science are spent under the jurisdiction of Barnard College, and a few courses are taken in the Engineering School. During the junior year the student applies for admission to the School of Engineering and Applied Science, where the remaining two years of more specialized engineering study are taken. Completion of the basic, distribution, and major requirements is required for the Barnard A.B. degree. A maximum of 30 points may be credited for engineering courses. Students interested in the program are encouraged to consult the adviser for combined programs in the Office of the Dean of Studies to plan an appropriate schedule of courses.

Other Academic Opportunities

It is also possible to follow a four-year program which leads only to the Bachelor of Science degree. Two years of pre-engineering subjects are taken at Barnard, after which the student applies for admission to the School of Engineering and Applied Science. The remaining two years of engineering study are completed there.

Details on specific entrance requirements are available from the Office of Admissions of the School of Engineering and Applied Science and from the Office of the Dean of Studies at Barnard. Further information about the engineering program and the advanced degrees may be obtained in the bulletin of the school.

CULTURAL EXCHANGE WITH THE UNIVERSITY OF ROME

According to the Agreement of Cultural Exchange signed by Barnard and the University of Rome in May 1980, Barnard College and Columbia University faculty will work in parallel or integrated courses with their colleagues at the University of Rome. Through these courses Barnard students will enjoy the unique opportunity of a dialogue between their professors and the visiting guests as an integral part of their classroom work. A joint Executive Committee of Barnard College, Columbia University, and University of Rome faculty directs the Exchange which is administered by the Center for International Exchange.

AUDITING

Student Auditing

Matriculated students may audit courses in special instances by arrangement with the instructors. Permission to audit a course is granted at the instructor's discretion. Courses audited do not appear on the student's program or transcript; they are not graded; and they may not be subsequently converted to credit courses.

Alumnae Auditing

Many Barnard courses are open to alumnae for auditing. No credit is given and no charge is made. The only requirement is that permission of the instructor must be obtained. Those interested in this program should contact the Alumnae Office and request a copy of the current catalogue and information about procedures.

IX. Registration

REGISTRATION PROCEDURES

Registration for New and Continuing Students

Instructions and materials for registration, enclosed in individual packets, are available to students in Altschul Hall on the days designated for registration.

Students are expected to register during the registration times published in the College Calendar, page 6. Permission to register may be refused to students who do not observe the deadline for registration. Those students who have permission to register late will be assessed additional fees, as posted at the Registrar's Office.

Bills for tuition and fees (see page 19) are mailed before the beginning of the semester, and payment must be received by the deadline published in the College Calendar, page 6. In addition, any outstanding debts to the College or University, including library fines, must be paid before the student may register.

The final stage of the registration process is program filing (see page 46), which must be completed by the published deadline (see College Calendar, page 6). If for some compelling reasons students must enroll in less than a full-time program, the written permission of one of the deans in the Dean of Studies Office is required.

Registration for Resumed Education Students

Resumed Education students are those Barnard students who have been away from the College for five years or more and are returning to complete the A.B. degree requirements and those Barnard graduates who are returning to the College to take additional course work. They obtain registration information during the regular registration period (see College Calendar, page 6) in the Dean of Studies Office from the Director of the program who is their academic adviser. Resumed Education students are subject to regular registration procedures and deadlines and payment of late registration fees.

Registration for Columbia University Courses

Many courses offered in other divisions of the University are open to qualified Barnard students; those cross-listed in the Barnard Catalogue do not normally need special approval; all undergraduate courses listed in the Columbia College bulletin do not need special approval unless so indicated in the course description. Other courses not cross-listed in the Barnard Catalogue may require divisional or instructor's approval in addition to the approval of the student's academic adviser. Columbia University courses are entered on the Barnard program; specific instructions are enclosed in the registration packet. The student is expected to have reviewed the course description and prerequisites before consulting an adviser, to determine for herself whether she is eligible to enroll.

Certain Columbia courses are sectioned prior to registration. Barnard students wishing to register in such courses must take part in the sectioning procedure.

Only students enrolled in the Education Program are eligible to take the Teachers College methods courses cross-listed in the Catalogue. All Teachers College courses which are not cross-listed require approval of the Barnard Dean of Studies by submission of a petition form during the first week of the term, and also require payment of additional Teachers College fees.

Registration

STUDENT PROGRAMS

Program Filing

The list of courses for which the student is registered each semester is known as the student's program.

During the program-planning period (see College Calendar, page 6), a student files her tentative program for the following semester at the Office of the Registrar after consulting her academic adviser. The tentative program must be signed by her adviser and filed by the published deadline. Failure to meet the deadline or to file without the authorized signature will entail a fee of $10.

During the registration period (see College Calendar, page 6), the tentative program is returned to the continuing student in her registration packet; each new student also receives a program form with her registration material. Between registration and the date for program filing a student is required to reach a final decision on the courses she will take for the term. The final program, signed by her academic adviser, is filed at the Office of the Registrar before the published deadline. There is no refund issued for courses dropped after the published deadline for program filing, and any part-time program filed after that date will be assessed full tuition. Note: the deadline for submission of programs is separate from, and somewhat later than, the registration deadline (see College Calendar, page 6). Programs filed late must be approved by each instructor and the Committee on Programs and Academic Standing, and will be assessed additional fees, which will be posted at the Registrar's Office. A student who neglects to file a program is subject to academic probation.

Adjustment of fees and refunds

For changing program of study. If a student changes her program and the tuition called for is lower than the amount she has already paid, she will be refunded the excess only if the alteration of her program is made by September 13 (last day of program filing) in the Autumn Term and by January 29 in the Spring Term. If the new program calls for higher tuition, the student is responsible for paying the additional charges promptly.

Schedule of Classes and Room Assignments

Class times and room numbers are published in the Schedule of Classes and Room Assignments, available during registration. Final information on changes in class times and rooms is posted at the entrance to Milbank Hall.

Sign-Up Sheets

Enrollment in certain courses is strictly limited and students are encouraged to indicate their intent to enroll in those courses well before registration by entering their names on "sign-up" sheets which are posted outside departmental offices and which list criteria for course enrollment.

Section Changes

A change from one section to another of a course after program-filing requires the approval of the instructor of the new section and the class adviser on the appropriate form to be submitted to the Office of the Registrar. Prior to program-filing the change should be made on the program form itself with departmental approval.

Adding Courses

Courses may not be added after the deadline for filing academic programs (see College Calendar, page 6). Up to that deadline, the student may add courses either on the program form, if she has not already submitted it, or by an Application to Add a Course, available at the Office of the Registrar. Adding a course requires the signatures on either the program or add form of the class adviser and the major adviser.

Dropping Courses

Courses may be dropped by submission of an Application to Drop a Course or Section, available at the Office of the Registrar. The form requires the signature of the class adviser and the major adviser, and must be returned to the Office of the Registrar before the deadline published in the College Calendar (see page 6). Courses dropped by the deadline will not be recorded on the permanent transcript. If withdrawal from a course is approved after the deadline, the course will be recorded on the permanent transcript with the notation W (Withdrawal). No adjustment of fees is made for any course dropped after the deadline for program filing.

Registration

Attendance

Students are expected to attend classes regularly. Frequent or prolonged absences from classes may cause a student to forfeit the right to complete course work or to take final examinations.

A prolonged or serious illness is considered an excuse for absence only if the student files a statement signed by her physician with the Office of Health Services immediately upon her return to a regular attendance schedule.

Barnard is a non-denominational college which does not schedule religious holidays in the academic calendar, although every effort is made to avoid the dates of major religious observances in the scheduling of class meetings, deadlines, and examinations. It is expected that students who miss classes due to observance of religious holidays will make individual arrangements with their instructors to make up any work missed as a result of absence.

Withdrawal and Readmission

A student not subject to discipline for infraction of College rules may withdraw from the College during the semester by submitting a Notice of Intention to Withdraw form to the Office of the Dean of Studies with the signature of the parent or guardian before the final examination period. If the student withdraws during the semester without submitting the proper notification, the term's work is subject to a grade of UW. (For information on partial refund of tuition, see page 21.)

A student in good health who leaves with her record complete and who is in good standing may re-register within one year of the date of withdrawal without reapplying through the Office of Admissions. No readmission fee is charged a student who submits a written confirmation of her intention to return to the Office of the Dean of Studies by April 1 for the Autumn term or November 1 for the Spring term. After an absence of one year a student must file readmission forms through the Office of Admissions and pay readmission fees (see page 17).

Exceptions to College Regulations

Requests by students for exceptions to college regulations governing the award of academic credit and requirements for the degree may be addressed to the Faculty Committee on Programs and Academic Standing. Petition forms are available at the Office of the Registrar and should be returned there. Requests which bear the appropriate signatures of advisers and instructors normally receive consideration within two weeks of their submission.

X. Examinations

Language Placement Examinations

The foreign language requirement can be met by completing the required courses at Barnard (for individual languages see departmental curriculum statements), or by a College Entrance Examination Board (CEEB) score of 750 or above, or, for transfer students, by having completed acceptable qualifying language courses.

Transfer Students

A transfer student who has a CEEB score is placed according to that score alone, if she has had no previous college language courses. The determination is made by the Assistant Dean for Transfer Services, according to the provisions of an established scale. A transfer student who has no CEEB score or previous college language courses, must, if she wishes to continue with a particular language, take a placement test. Transfer students who are not required to take an examination are notified of language placement along with the evaluation of their transfer credits.

Freshman Students

Freshman students are placed (or exempted) on the basis of their CEEB scores. Those with no scores who wish to continue languages studied in high school take placement examinations. The Freshman Program Director advises all new freshmen of their language requirements.

Summer School Language Courses

Students, other than incoming transfer or freshmen students, who take summer language courses and wish exemption or placement in their continuing language studies must take a language placement examination, or secure departmental approval to receive degree credit and enter a higher level.

Any student who has been placed according to her CEEB score may take a placement examination if she wishes, but she must then accept that placement, even if it is lower than her previous placement.

A student who does not wish to continue with a language in which she has been placed may begin the study of a new language.

Applications for Language Placement Examinations are available at the Office of the Registrar; the examination dates are published in the College Calendar, page 6. The examinations are evaluated and placement is made by the appropriate departments. Results are posted at the Office of the Registrar.

Departmental Placement Examinations

Students may obtain exemption from or placement in certain courses by means of departmental placement examinations, for example in the Mathematics and Physics departments. Information and applications for the examinations are available in departmental offices, and deadlines are particular to each department.

Make-Up Examinations During the Term

Instructors are not required to give make-up examinations to students absent from previously announced tests during the term. An instructor who is willing to give a make-up test may request a report of illness from the College physician or acceptable evidence of other extenuating circumstances.

Examinations

Final Examinations

There are no class meetings on the last class day before the final examination period in each term. This interval may be extended for any class, at the option of the instructor, to the full week prior to the examination period. The dates for final examinations, given at the end of each term, are published in the College Calendar, page 6. Exact times and room numbers for individual examinations are sent to each student and posted on the bulletin board at the Office of the Registrar two weeks before final examinations.

Barnard examinations are given under the Honor Code which states that a student should not ask for, give, or receive help in examinations, nor should she use papers or books in a manner not authorized by the instructor. She should not present work that is not entirely her own except in such a way as may be approved by the instructor. The Honor Code further implies that any student or member of the faculty who has first-hand knowledge of a violation of these rules has an obligation to report it to the Dean of Studies or Honor Board.

A student who wishes to leave the room before the end of the examination period will submit her blue books to the instructor. If a student becomes ill during the course of the examination, she must notify the instructor and go to the College Physician, Brooks Hall, Lower Level. If less than an hour has expired, a grade of DEF will be recorded on the transcript and she will take a deferred examination. If a student remains for more than one hour for a three-hour examination, she will be graded on the work she has completed.

Deferred Final Examinations

Deferred final examinations for Barnard courses, given in September and January (see College Calendar, page 6), are open only to those students who were absent from the regular examinations for reasons of illness or emergency. An instructor may decline to give a deferred examination to a student whose attendance has been unsatisfactory. Exceptions to these conditions can be made only by petition to the Committee on Programs and Academic Standing before the regular examination period begins.

Absence from final exams for reasons of health should be reported to the Office of Health Services in person or by telephone on the day of the examination. In case of an emergency, the Dean of Studies should be notified. For Columbia-taught courses, the instructor or the Columbia department must also be informed.

Examinations missed in December are to be taken the following January or, in cases of prolonged illness, in September of the same year. Those missed in May are to be taken in September of the same year. If a student absents herself without a compelling and valid excuse from a final or deferred examination, she will receive a grade of zero for that examination. Applications for deferred examinations are filed with the Office of the Registrar by designated dates (see College Calendar, page 6). A payment of a $10 handling fee for each examination must accompany the application.

Arrangements for deferred examinations in other divisions of the University must be made by the student with the instructors, and should be completed during the term following registration for the course.

Examinations for Disabled Students

Individual arrangements are made for disabled students unable to take examinations in the usual manner. A disabled student who anticipates the need for a special examination procedure should consult her instructor(s) and the Dean for Disabled Students at the beginning of the semester.

SAT, GRE, and LSAT Examinations

Information and application forms for the Scholastic Aptitude Examination, the Graduate Record Examination, the Law School Admissions Test, and other specialized examinations are available in the Office of the Dean of Studies.

XI. Grading and Academic Honors

Grading system

Academic standing and eligibility for graduation are determined by both the number of courses completed and the grades for those courses. The system used at Barnard is as follows:

A+, A, A-	Excellent
B+, B, B-	Good
C+, C	Satisfactory
C-, D	Unsatisfactory but passing
F	Failure
P	Passed without a specific grade on student's election of P/D/F option
P*	Passed in a course for which only a grade of P or F is allowed
I	Incomplete
X	Absence from final examination
NC	No credit
Y	Two-semester course in which the grade for the second semester is the grade for the entire course
W	Approved withdrawal after "drop" deadline
UW	Withdrawal from course without official notification to Registrar

Pass-fail grades are recorded for all students in certain courses, e.g., in physical education. Pass-fail grades for individual students are subject to regulations described below.

Regulations that apply to grades of I (Incomplete) are outlined on page 51.

Grades of I or X that were recorded in 1980-81 or before will be changed to NC (no credit) if the missing work is not submitted and the portion of the course work that had been completed was passing; beginning 1981-82 the unsubmitted work will be calculated as zero in averaging the final grade. If the work completed was not passing, the grade will be changed to F.

In the computation of grade point averages, marks for courses are awarded on the following scale:

A+=4.3	B+=3.3	C+=2.3	D=1
A = 4	B = 3	C = 2	F=0
A-=3.7	B-=2.7	C-=1.7

In order to be recommended for the degree, a student must maintain a cumulative average of 2.0 (C) for 120 or more points completed with passing grades. At the end of each term all records are examined. Normally only those students with cumulative averages of 2.0 or above are permitted to remain in college. Students whose work falls below the cumulative average of 2.0 may be permitted to continue at Barnard only with the permission of the Committee on Programs and Academic Standing.

Courses in which the student receives the grade of D may not be counted toward the major requirement.

Grading and Academic Honors

Grade Reports

The grade report for the Autumn term is enclosed in the student's registration packet in January. At the end of the Spring term, a cumulative grade report of all the student's work at Barnard is sent to the home address. The cumulative grade report is an unofficial transcript for which there is no charge. A student may request that her grade reports be sent to her parents or guardian by filing a permission card with the Registrar. Parents who have established their daughter's status as a dependent may receive transcripts of her grades without her consent by writing to the Dean of Studies. If the student wishes additional transcripts, a charge of $2 per copy will apply (see Transcripts, page 52).

Pass/D/Fail

A student may request a course to be graded under the Pass/D/Fail option by submitting a Request for Pass/D/Fail form to the Office of the Registrar before the deadline published in the College Calendar, page 6. The forms are available at the Office of the Registrar about two weeks before the deadline. Under the Pass/D/Fail option the student is held responsible for fulfilling all the course requirements. A passing letter grade of A, B, or C reported by the instructor is converted to P by the Office of the Registrar. A grade of D or F is not converted.

Some courses record Pass-Fail grades for all students enrolled, e.g., English BC 1202.

At least 96 of the 120 points required for graduation must be assigned letter grades, including Freshman English and all courses designated to count toward the major (and minor, if the student has designated a minor). The Pass/D/Fail option does not apply to these courses. No more than six of the courses credited to the degree may be assigned a grade of P.

No limitation is placed on the number of Pass grades that may be recorded in a single term, except those rules which apply to the Dean's List, to eligibility for financial aid, and to the six-course maximum.

Grades of P are not included in the grade point average. A grade of F whether or not received under a pass-fail option is computed as zero in the grade point average.

The request for a course to be graded under the Pass/D/Fail option is irreversible. Subsequent change to a letter grade will not be allowed, and the option may not be elected retroactively.

Incompletes

A student may for compelling reasons arrange with her instructor to take a grade of I (Incomplete) by means of written approval on forms available at the Office of the Registrar. The deadline for filing the Application for Incomplete is the last day of the reading period.

There are two Incomplete options. The "early Incomplete" requires submission of unfinished work to the Registrar soon after the end of the term by the date designated in the College Calendar and results in the removal of the "I" notation from the transcript. The second option extends the deadline to the first day of classes for the next autumn term, but the "I" notation remains on the permanent transcript and is joined by the final letter grade. The full regulations that apply to Incompletes are listed on the Application for Incomplete form available at the Office of the Registrar. Students must have the permission of their instructors to take grades of Incomplete, and are required to use the form, which is a written guarantee of the terms set forth in it by the student and the instructor.

Eligibility for Intercollegiate Athletics

Any student at Barnard College, Columbia College, or in the Columbia School of Engineering and Applied Science who is pursuing the undergraduate program or a combined program toward a first degree is eligible for intercollegiate athletics, provided that certain conditions are met. To be eligible for athletic activities, the student must

- be a candidate for a bachelor's degree.
- be registered for at least 12 points of credit per semester.

Grading and Academic Honors

- have passed by the beginning of the academic year: 24 points if in the second year, 52 points if in the third year, or 86 points if in the fourth year.
- have attended the University for not more than eight terms.
- not have completed the requirements for a bachelor's degree.

An eligibility blank must be filed with the Director of Athletics. The completed blank is sent to the Office of the Registrar where eligibility is determined by examining the student's record. Questions about athletic eligibility should be referred to the Dean of Studies of Barnard students.

Dean's List

The Dean's List, which includes the names of students who deserve special mention for superior scholarship, is compiled at the end of each academic year. To be eligible, a student must be enrolled at Barnard for both terms. Her grade point average will be based on all her letter grades, a minimum of 12 letter-graded points in each term, exclusive of those courses receiving grades of P.

Transcripts

Transcripts are ordered by the student or alumna by written request to the transcript secretary in the Office of the Registrar. An official Transcript Request Form is available, but the request may also be made by letter, provided that the letter includes the following: student's name (including maiden and married names) and Social Security number, dates of attendance at Barnard, purpose of the transcript, number of copies desired, specifications as to whether the transcript should or should not be delayed until the latest semester's grades have been entered, name(s) and address(es) to which the transcript is to be sent, the student's full signature, and a $2 check or money order for each transcript ordered. Official copies of transcripts (those bearing the seal of the College) can be sent only to academic institutions, business organizations, and government offices. Unofficial copies of transcripts may be sent to the student. All copies of transcripts, official and unofficial, are sent only at the written request of the student, and are subject to the $2 fee. There is no charge, however, for a transcript sent to a division of the University.

Honors

The Faculty awards honors to students who complete work for the degree with distinction (cum laude), with high distinction (magna cum laude), and with highest distinction (summa cum laude). Students whose records include study at other institutions will be eligible for honors if both the overall and the Barnard grade point averages meet this requirement. If grades for transfer credit cannot be converted to Barnard equivalents, the qualifying average may be computed on a sliding scale. Grades for summer work are excluded from the grade-point average. Departmental honors are awarded to a percentage of eligible graduates nominated by their departments for distinguished work in their major fields. The final selection is made by the Committee on Honors.

Phi Beta Kappa

The Barnard section of the Columbia University chapter of Phi Beta Kappa was founded in 1901. Election to the national honor society is a recognition of scholarship, and Barnard students of exceptionally high standing are eligible. Under the 35-course plan, eligibility for election as a senior will require 30 completed courses. Under the point system, junior election will require a minimum of 86 completed points and senior election, 102. Questions concerning Phi Beta Kappa should be referred to the Office of the Dean of Studies.

XII. Courses of Instruction

The Curriculum

The Barnard curriculum consists of forty-four departments and programs. At present, twenty-seven departments and eight interdisciplinary programs offer majors, and students may also elect minors if they choose. All academic programs listed are planned for 1985-86; their listing in this catalogue is not a guarantee of their availability in subsequent years, and the College may revise its degree requirements from time to time.

Classes

The usual schedule consists of 15 points each semester, but depending on a student's interests or departmental requirements, additional courses may be added. However, an additional fee is charged per point for a program exceeding 18 points (see page 19 for the fee schedule). Classes vary in size. Those in which student participation is important are small. Introductory courses and classes taught primarily by the lecture method are often divided into smaller groups for conference and discussion. Laboratory work in the sciences is conducted with modern equipment, and computer facilities are available at Barnard.

Courses of Instruction

Course descriptions will be found in the following pages. Room assignments and all other registration information are published in a separate bulletin and distributed during registration.

Autumn term courses are followed by an x; Spring term courses are followed by a y.

Indivisible Barnard courses that run throughout the year are marked with a hyphen between the numerals (e.g., Music BC 1001-BC 1002). No credit is given for work in an indivisible course dropped at midyear without the written consent of the instructor and department chairman and the approval of the Committee on Programs and Academic Standing. The first semester of elementary language, whether taken at Barnard or elsewhere, does not receive degree credit unless the second semester is completed.

Divisible Barnard courses, which run throughout the year, are marked with a comma between the numerals (e.g., Environmental Science BC 1001x, BC 1002y). The first half of such courses may be taken separately. Admission to the second half without completion of the first half is granted only with written permission of the instructor. Certain courses are offered in both Autumn and Spring terms (Economics BC 1001x, BC 1001y) and may be taken in either term.

Courses of Instruction

The following alphabetical prefixes designate the division of the university for whose students the course is primarily offered or indicate joint courses. Hyphens and commas between course numbers for other than BC courses do not necessarily have the connotations described above for Barnard courses.

BC—Barnard College (The last two digits of these numbers indicate the former numbers of these courses, with the exception of English A, Spanish A-B, Spanish 2, Spanish 3A-4A.)

C—Columbia College

F—School of General Studies

G—Graduate School of Arts and Sciences

R—School of the Arts

V—Joint undergraduate course (Barnard with Columbia College and/or the School of General Studies)

W—Other inter-faculty course

The level of the course is generally as follows:

1000-3999 Undergraduate

4000-4999 Advanced undergraduate and first-year graduate

5000-8999 Graduate, normally not open to undergraduates

American Studies

Office: 414 Lehman Hall

Telephone: 280-2159, 2137

The program is supervised by the Committee on American Studies:

Professor of History

Robert A. McCaughey

Professor of Art History

Barbara Novak

Associate Professor of History

Charles S. Olton

Associate Professor of History

Rosalind N. Rosenberg

Assistant Professor of Anthropology

Nan Rothschild

Assistant Professor of English

Alfred Bendixen

Assistant Professor of History

Janet A. Riesman (Acting Director)

This program helps students develop an understanding of American civilization considered as a whole. Specialized studies in all fields of learning dealing with American subject matter are included in the program, and the impact of these studies is reflected in the work of the senior seminar. Faculty members supervising the program are specialists in American cultural, intellectual, social, and political history; American women's history; American art history; American literature; anthropology; museum studies; and American material culture. All are committed beyond their individual specialties to an interdisciplinary approach to the study of American history and culture. The program maintains ongoing relations with the Center for American Culture Studies and the Oral History Program both of Columbia University and the New-York Historical Society.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

In order to acquire a broad understanding of American civilization and acquaintance with various methods of studying it, a student who majors in American Studies must take a program, planned in consultation with her major adviser, consisting of 12 courses. Students are advised to take an American history survey course (either BC 1051, BC 1052 or the equivalent) in their sophomore year and American Studies BC 3401 in their junior year, but exceptions are allowed. All majors take American Studies BC 3703, BC 3704 in their senior year. Courses taken in other departments in fulfillment of the major requirements may be taken in any coherent sequence. The program crosslists all courses offered at Barnard and Columbia that are appropriate for the major. A complete list is available from the program office.

The 12 courses must represent the following distribution:

- 2 semesters of the American history survey course (History BC 1051, BC 1052 or the equivalent); normally a prerequisite for American Studies BC 3401
- 1 semester Junior Colloquium: American Studies BC 3401 Cultural Approaches to the American Past
- 1 seminar utilizing methods or materials bearing on the study of American civilization (normally taken in the spring of the junior year). The following seminars are highly recommended; others may be substituted with permission of the program director:
 - Art History BC 3679 Colloquium on Modern Art: Modernism and the Mass Media, 1930-present
 - English BC 3140 Section II Explorations of Black Literature
 - English BC 3140 Section III The City in Literature: New York

American Studies

- English-Women's Studies BC 3144 Minority Women Writers in the United States
- History BC 3450 History of Childhood in America
- History BC 3451 Law in American Society
- History BC 3452 The Constitution in Historical Perspective
- History BC 3457 Culture and Society in Antebellum America, 1790-1850
- History BC 3458 America at War
- 1 course specifically concerned with methodological or theoretical issues bearing on the study of culture and society. The following courses are recommended; others may be substituted with the permission of the program director:
 - Anthropology V 1002 Introduction to Culture
 - Anthropology V 1006 Introduction to Archaeology
 - Anthropology BC 3142 Anthropological Approaches to the Study of Cities
 - English BC 3183 Modern Literature and the Allied Arts
 - English BC 3193 Critical Writing
 - History BC 3455 Reckoning with the Past: History, Historians and the Computer
 - Library Science K 8005 Oral History
 - Women's Studies BC 3112 Colloquium on Women's Studies
- 2 courses in either American literature and/or American art history
- 2 courses in the social sciences only one of which may be in history
- 1 course that provides a comparative perspective on American culture. This requirement may be fulfilled either by taking a course in the humanities or social sciences that examines a culture other than America or by taking one of the following highly recommended courses:
 - Art History C 3964 The European Image of America
 - Art History BC 3670 European and American Architecture from the Eighteenth Century to 1900
 - English BC 3122 American and British Dialects
 - English BC 3187 American Writers and their Foreign Counterparts
 - English BC 3185 Modern British and American Poetry
 - History W 4741 The Great Depression in Europe and America
 - History-Japanese W 3600 World War II in America and Japan
 - Oriental Humanities V 3200 Oriental Encounters: The American Experience
 - Religion V 3780 Religion in Racially Stratified Societies
- 2 semesters of the Senior Seminar in American Studies BC 3703, BC 3704. BC 3703 is normally offered jointly with History BC 3793; BC 3704 is a tutorial devoted to individual research and supervised by the program director and/or another member of the American Studies Committee. The essay produced during these seminars constitutes fulfillment of the senior-project requirement.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

A student who minors in American Studies must take a program consisting of 5 courses. The 5 courses must represent the following distribution:

Ancient Studies

Office: 216 Milbank Hall

Telephone: 280-2852

This program is supervised by the Committee on Ancient Studies:

Assistant Professor of Art History (Columbia)

Beth Cohen (Representative for General Studies)

Professor of Classics (Columbia)

Darice Birge (Representative for Columbia)

Associate Professor of Classics

Lydia Lenaghan (Representative for Barnard)

Associate Professor of Classics

Helene P. Foley (Representative for Barnard)

Professor of History (Columbia)

William V. Harris

Assistant Professor of Religion

Holland Hendrix

Ancient Studies is designed to allow the student to explore various aspects of the ancient Mediterranean and Mesopotamian cultures while concentrating on one of these major civilizations. By studying these cultures in several academic disciplines the student will acquire a general knowledge and a context for her area of specialization. At Barnard and in the University a very large number of courses pertaining to antiquity is offered each year, and the program prepares an annual list to aid students in making their selections. This list may be obtained from the Representative for Barnard.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Each student, after consultation with the Representative for Barnard, chooses an adviser whose field is closely related to her own and with whom she will do her senior reading. The programs of all the students are reviewed by the Ancient Studies Committee, in order to maintain control and a sense of collective enterprise.

A total of 9 courses are required in the major, including

4 courses in one geographic area or period;

at least the first semester of Ancient Studies V3998, Directed Research in Ancient Studies, with presentation of written results; and the appropriate sequence in ancient history.

In some cases, a senior seminar in one of the departments may be substituted for Ancient Studies V3998, V3999. Ancient language courses may be used toward the major requirement; however, where a second ancient language is offered, one second-year sequence must be offered to gain credit for the first year.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

No minor is offered in Ancient Studies.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

A list of relevant courses of instruction offered in 1985-1986 may be obtained from the Representative for Barnard.

Anthropology is the study of the biological and cultural development of the human species, and of the variety of human societies and their cultures. The student majoring in this field will acquire an understanding of humans and their ways that is not bound by her own time and culture. In doing so, she will find herself drawing upon the literature of such diverse disciplines as genetics, archaeology, ethnography, linguistics, and the social sciences. Students with a degree in anthropology may undertake graduate and professional study in anthropology; they may also enter upon careers in other fields, such as development, education, government, journalism, law, labor organization, medicine, or social work administration, where the value of a training in anthropology is becoming increasingly recognized. The practical and applied dimensions of anthropology have increased significantly in recent years, and the profession attempts to serve many non-academic needs both in American society and in international organizations.

Several major museums and libraries in New York City offer exceptional opportunities for research. Various summer schools provide opportunities for research in archaeology and ethnography, and under certain circumstances such work may be credited toward the Barnard degree. Students interested in cultural anthropology are encouraged, whenever possible, to conduct research in the New York area, or, during their summer vacations, in other localities.

All courses, except those limited to majors, satisfy the College's distribution requirements.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Every major is expected to have a general knowledge of all the fields of anthropology and of their interrelationship. The student's program should be designed in consultation with her adviser as soon as possible after the declaration of the major. Regular and frequent meetings with the adviser are encouraged.

Ten courses are required for the major, including

ANT V 1001 Introduction to Human Origins;

ANT V 1002 Introduction to Culture;

ANT V 3011 Social Organization;

ANT V 3041 History of Anthropological Theory;

2 colloquia; and

4 other Anthropology courses, one of which will be an Area course (e.g., Peoples of the Middle East, Peoples of Europe, Peoples of Africa, Peoples of Southeast Asia). The requirements of 2 colloquia and an Area course may be met by either undergraduate or graduate courses.

Students majoring in Anthropology are required to submit a substantial research paper or essay. Such a paper may have its origin in a colloquium (or in another course acceptable to the department), and be completed in ANT BC 3871x-ANT BC 3872y; or it may be based on papers submitted for two colloquia, the papers of which are to be presented to the department, along with introductory and culminating statements that make of them an entity; or it may be the result of a year's independent research in BC3871x-BC3872y.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

The minor consists of 5 courses:

ANT V 1001 or ANT V 1002;
ANT V 3041;
one area course; and two other courses.

The department also cooperates with related programs such as Foreign Area Studies, Urban Studies, and Women's Studies, and with other departments offering, as an option to their majors, a four-course cluster in Anthropology (e.g. Architecture). Arrangements for combined, double, joint, and special majors are made in consultation with the chairman.

Premedical students who wish to minor in anthropology should seek the advice and approval of the department chairman.

Examination of some basic sources of Marxist social theory, their implications for anthropological theory and method, and selected ethnographies influenced by or relevant to them.—K. Newman.

Enrollment limited to 20 students.

3 points. M 4:10-6:00.

ANT V 3920x. Seminar: The Evolution of Prehistoric Economic Systems.

A survey of the models and methods appropriate to analysis of the development of economic systems from the earliest societies to the rise of the ancient civilization. Problems considered include analysis of subsistence strategists, specialization of production, economic differentiation, and exchange systems from a variety of perspectives. Models and data will be drawn from archaeological, ethnoarchaeological, and ethnohistorical sources.—T. D'Altroy.

Introduction to Archaeology or permission of the instructor required. Enrollment limited to 15 students.

Not offered in 1985-86.

4 points.

ANT BC 3868y. Ethnographic Research in New York City.

Seminar-Workshop on field research in New York City. Lectures, discussions and demonstrations of research methods of anthropology followed by supervised field research on selected ethnographic topics in a variety of urban settings.—P. Rubel.

Enrollment limited to ca. 16 students.

Field work required. Not offered in 1985-86.
4 points.

ANT BC 3871x-ANT BC 3872y. Senior Research Seminar.

Discussions and conferences on individual advanced research projects including those which have developed from students' participation in Anthropology BC 3868. Each student is engaged in independent research under the guidance of her Senior Essay Adviser. All students participating in the seminar may meet together periodically for joint discussion. During the Spring Term a final seminar meeting may be held at which students present their work prior to its submission as satisfying the Senior Research Essay requirement of the Department.—Staff.

4 points. Hours to be arranged.

ANT BC 3999x, ANT BC 3999y. Individual Projects.

Research projects are planned in consultation with members of the department and work is supervised by the major's Research Essay adviser. The advisory system requires periodic consultation and discussion between the student and her adviser as well as the meeting of specific deadlines set by the Department each semester. The final research paper is submitted to meet the Senior Research Essay requirement of the department.—Staff.

Permission of the instructor required.

GRADUATE COURSES

Certain graduate courses given in the University are open to qualified majors with the consent of the department chairman and the major adviser. These courses are described in the Bulletin for the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences. As noted, graduate seminars may be used to satisfy the requirement of 2 colloquia and graduate area courses may be used to fulfill the area course requirement.

Architecture majors experience and investigate the central aspects of the field. The major provides an inclusive program offering opportunities to explore historical and contemporary relationships among physical, social and cultural forms and environmental contexts. Active studio work complements seminar discussions, lectures and research, and students are required to choose a “cluster” of courses in another area of particular interest, thus relating architecture to other disciplines.

Students considering an Architecture major or minor should consult with the adviser at the earliest possible date to develop the most appropriate sequence of studio and lecture courses. Those interested in graduate study in architecture should consult with the adviser in their junior year concerning their programs.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

The major in Architecture is required to complete fourteen courses, at least five of which should be Barnard courses:

4 Studio courses, to be taken one per semester (studio courses have limited enrollment and priority is given to Architecture majors and upperclassmen):

ARC V 3103

ARC V 3101

ARC V 3201-ARC V 3202

Freehand Drawing

Architectural Graphics

*Elements of Architectural Design
I and II*

5 Lecture courses from the following list:

ARC C 1001

ARC C 3301

ARC C 3302

ARC C 4110

Art History BC 3661

Art History BC 3669

Art History BC 3670

Art History C 3833

Introduction to Architecture

The Beginnings of Architecture

Architecture in the Western World

Building of Buildings

European Architecture from the Renaissance to 1700

French Architecture 1500-1800

European Architecture from the 18th Century to 1900

Modern Architecture

Each semester there are other applicable courses scheduled at the University that can be taken upon approval of the adviser. For the description of these courses consult the listings of other departments.

Architecture

2 Seminars to be taken in the junior or senior year:

ARC V 3901	Senior Seminar I or II
Art History C 3666	Architecture since 1945
Art History BC 3993	Visionary Architecture, 1700 to the Present
ARC BC 3425	The History of Landscape Design
ARC BC 3431	Architectural Criticism in the Essay Form
Art History BC 3996	Art of the Rococo
Art History BC 3998	Social and Political Functions of Architecture

3 courses, chosen in consultation with the adviser from one area of study or cluster such as Anthropology, Art History, Economics, Environmental Conservation and Management, Geography, History, Philosophy, Political Science, Psychology, Sociology, Urban Studies, or Studio Art.

Students who wish to continue in graduate studies in Architecture for a professional degree are also advised to take:

ARC C 3211	Intermediate Design I
Physics V 1003	General Physics
Mathematics V 1100	Brief Calculus

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

The minor in Architecture consists of five courses, including V 3103 and 3 History/Theory courses to be chosen in consultation with the adviser.

Note: All studio, seminar, and upper level courses require the permission of the instructor and student sign-up before registration.

ARC C 1001y. Introduction to Architecture.

Intended for prospective architecture majors as well as those interested in acquiring a general familiarity with architecture. Basic concepts and representative buildings. Lectures, readings, discussions and field trips.—Instructor to be announced.

Recommended in the sophomore year.
3 points. M 1:00-2:00, W 12:00-1:50.

ARC C 3301x. The Beginnings of Architecture.

Survey of the history of architecture from prehistoric times through the fall of Rome, including major examples of non-Western architecture.—E. Santomasso.

Recommended in the sophomore year.

ARC BC 3431x. Architectural Criticism in the Essay Form.

Investigation of three critical modes developed by architectural historians, journalists and architects in relation to architecture and urban design. Analysis of key texts written from the 1850s to the present.—S. Stephens.

3 points. W 11:00-12:50.

STUDIO COURSES

ARC V 3103x, V 3103y. Freehand Drawing.

Drawings from nature and architecture; spatial notations; image systems and their use; research in three dimensions.—D. Darden.

Recommended in the sophomore year.

3 points.

Section I Tu Th 9:00-10:50.

Section II Tu Th 11:00-12:50.

ARC V 3101x, ARC V 3101y. Architectural Graphics.

Introduction to a two- and three-dimensional graphics vocabulary with emphasis on measured drawing techniques and scale model construction.

Recommended in the sophomore year.

3 points.

Section I Tu Th 9:00-10:50. A. Kalla.

Section II Tu Th 11:00-12:50. F. Campani.

ARC V 3201x. Elements of Architectural Design I.

Workshop introduction to architecture: fundamental problems of enclosure design through simple exercises requiring drawings and models: lectures, discussions, and studio work.—S. Torre and staff.

Prerequisite: V 3103 or V 3101.

4 points. M W 9:00-11:50.

ARC V 3202y. Elements of Architectural Design II.

Workshop continuation of Course C3201. Field trips and lectures organized in relation to the work program.—D. Robertson and staff.

Prerequisite: V 3201.

4 points. M W 9:00-11:50.

ARC C3211x. Intermediate Design I.

Further exploration of the design process.

Programs of considerable functional and contextual complexity are undertaken.

—D. Robertson.

Candidates for admission to the course are chosen by interview during the spring term of the junior year. Eligible students are requested to consult the program adviser for Barnard College before April 1.

Prerequisites: V 3202 and permission of the program adviser.

Art History, which is devoted to the study of the visual arts, is one of the broadest of the humanistic disciplines. It is concerned not only with the nature of works of art—their form, style, and content, but also with the social, political, and cultural circumstances that shape them. The introductory level courses aim at developing in students a lifelong understanding and appreciation of works of art. The rest of the curriculum is geared to preparing majors either for graduate study leading to careers in university teaching and museums, or for positions in the art world, in galleries, publication, criticism, the visual media, art consultation, conservation, and the like. These courses also provide opportunities for correlated learning to students in other fields. The department, fortunate in being located in New York City, one of the world's great art centers, takes full advantage of the rich resources of the city's museums and galleries in its course of study.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Each major chooses an adviser who assists her in planning a program that incorporates personal interests while meeting departmental requirements. Nine courses are required for the major. Art History BC 1001, 1002, Introduction to the History of Art, is strongly suggested as an introduction to the field though it may be waived if a student has sufficient previous training. The nine courses should include at least one in each of the following periods—ancient, medieval, renaissance, baroque and modern—and two seminars. Of these, four lecture courses and one seminar should be taken at Barnard. Majors concentrating in Oriental art and who will write their senior essay in that field may substitute a course in Chinese or Japanese art for one of the five area requirements in Western art. Courses in film are accepted as part of the major; studio courses are not.

A senior essay is required of the major. With the chairman's permission, seniors may elect Art History BC 3999, Independent Research, for the senior essay but the course may not be used to fulfill the seminar requirements. The senior essay may be an expansion of a seminar paper.

Students who plan to undertake graduate work should obtain a reading knowledge of at least two foreign languages in which the major contributions to the history of art have been made. Most graduate schools require a reading knowledge of French and German; the department strongly recommends taking German while at Barnard.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

The minor in Art History consists of five lecture courses, including Art History BC 1001 and BC 1002, and one each in three of the following periods: ancient, medieval, renaissance, baroque, and modern.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

ARH BC 1001x, ARH BC 1002y.

Introduction to the History of Art.

Brief examination of the techniques of visual analysis, followed by a chronological survey of the major period styles of Western European art. Emphasis on the interpretation of form and content in the works studied and on the correlation of the visual arts with their respective cultural environments. ARH BC 3986y. Art Criticism.

Workshop in writing criticism. Short weekly assignments on such matters as language, experience, narrative and the object; close examination of process. Students write art criticism based on their gallery visits and refer to current and previous criticism.—B. O'Doherty.

Enrollment limited to 15 students.

4 points. M 10:00-12:00. (I)

ARH BC 3987x. Impressionism and Post-Impressionism.

I. Degas.

Study of Degas's work with special attention to the social context of his depictions of women and of urban entertainment. Emphasis on his working methods as revealed in works in New York collections and current exhibitions.—L. Kinney.

Prerequisites: V 3501, W 3600, or equivalent.

Not offered in 1985-86.

4 points. (I)

II. Seurat.

A discussion of the major works of the painter in the context of Symbolist theory, color theory, and urban life in Paris.—L. Kinney

4 points. Tu 2:10-4:00. (I)

III. Berthe Morisot and Her Contemporaries.

Berthe Morisot's role within the Impressionist movement, her relationship to contemporaries, including Manet, Mallarmé, Mary Cassatt, and the situation of women artists in the 19th century will be stressed.—L. Kinney.

Not offered in 1985-86.

4 points. (I)

ARH C 3990y. Fauvism and Expressionism.

Parallels and interactions between expressionist movements in France and Germany, 1904-1914, with emphasis on the work of Matisse, Vlaminck, Derain, Rouault, Kirchner, Heckel, Nolde, Kandinsky, Klee, and Marc.—T. Reff.

4 points. M 2:10-4:00. (I)

ARH C 3970y. Picasso.

Historical context, personal content, artistic sources and stylistic development of Picasso's art. Emphasis on the study of original works in New York museums.—T. Reff.

Prerequisites: Junior standing, one course in 20th century art, and permission of the instructor.

Not offered in 1985-86.

4 points. (I)

ARH W 3988x. Approaches to Architectural History.

In-depth examination of some of the major methods of architectural history; formal analysis, archaeological reconstruction; structure, patronage, role of architectural graphics, urbanism. Topics will be drawn from the whole range of architectural history.—J. Connors.

Not offered in 1985-86.

4 points. (I)

ARH C 3990y. The Literature of Modern Architecture.

Major theorists and writers on architecture from Winckelmann to the present. Distinctions of genres in architectural writing: treatises, manuals, criticism, histories. Major figures to be discussed include Pugin, Ruskin, Viollet-le-Duc, Wright, Le Corbusier, Venturi and Rossi.—B. Bergdoll.

4 points. F 2:10-4:00. (I)

ARH BC 3989y. The Art Film

Examines the ways in which filmmakers approach the visual arts, using leading examples of films on art. Films on Gauguin, Van Gogh, Edward Munch, Jackson Pollock, Christo and others. Filmmakers include the Maysles brothers, Perry Miller Adato, Barbara Rose, Lucy Jarvis, Danny Lyon, Michael Blockwood and Brian O'Doherty. Papers and criticism will be part of the course work.—B. O'Doherty.

Art History

Not offered in 1985-86.

4 points.

Professor of Dance

Jeanette Roosevelt¹

Professor of English (Writing)

Barry Ulanov (Chairman)

Professor of English (Theatre)

Alan Brody

Professor of Music

Hubert Doris

Program Coordinator

Deborah Loomis

Advisers for the Concentrations

Dance	Jeanette Roosevelt, 203 Barnard Hall Annex
Music	Hubert Doris, 409 Milbank Hall
Theatre	Luz Castaños, 230 Milbank Hall
Visual Arts	Susan Crile, 305 Barnard Hall
Writing	Barry Ulanov, 408D Barnard Hall

¹ Absent on leave, Autumn Term

The Program in the Arts is offered for a limited number of students who are gifted in one of the performing or studio arts and who wish both to continue the development of their skills and to obtain a liberal education. It is designed as an interdisciplinary major in the arts with concentration in one particular art. The program offers a general introductory course, a junior colloquium, and a senior seminar, as well as directed work in a field of concentration such as visual arts studio, music as a performing art, the dance in all its aspects, theatre as a performing art or as a discipline of literary scholarship, and writing in all its branches.

The Program draws upon the ample resources in the arts which New York City affords, both in opportunities for majors to study with master teachers and in bringing artists to the campus to work with students. Attendance at concerts and dance performances and visits to museums and galleries in the city allow a continuing interaction with the arts.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Students are normally admitted to the Program in the Arts in their sophomore year, but freshmen who look forward to entering this major are strongly advised to seek the counsel of advisers as early as possible in shaping their programs so as to include courses in at least two arts other than that in which they expect to concentrate. Recommended courses include: Art History BC 1001, BC 1002; Dance BC 2566; English BC 3103, BC 3104, etc.; English BC 3129; and Music BC 1001-BC 1002. Admission is based upon application to be made before March 15 of the sophomore year. Applicants provide supporting evidence of their individual skills. There are broad general requirements and special ones in each of the disciplines, but each student's program is shaped individually.

Students accepted as majors may take classes with artist-teachers in New York City.

Each student is required to take the three courses offered by the Program:

Arts BC 3031	Imagery and Form in the Arts
Arts BC 3351	Junior Colloquium and
Arts BC 3591	Senior Seminar

Program in the Arts

In lieu of a senior thesis, majors in the Program offer an equivalent demonstration of mastery in the discipline: dancers present concerts; musicians perform solo recitals; theatre majors work as actors, designers, directors, or in a combination of these in a theatrical presentation; writers submit portfolios of stories or poems or both; visual artists hang shows of their work.

Requirements of the various concentrations within the Program are outlined in the following lists. A student should consult with the faculty member on the Committee who is responsible for the area in which her interest lies.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

No minor is offered in the Program in the Arts.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

PIA BC 3031x. Imagery and Form in the Arts.

The operation of imagery and form in dance, music, theatre, visual arts, and writing; students are expected to do original work in one of these arts.—Instructor to be announced.

3 points. M 2:10-4:00. Conference hour to be arranged.

PIA BC 3351y. Junior Colloquium.

An interdisciplinary consideration of a crucial period in the history of the arts. The interrelationship of the arts, their separate and common critical vocabularies, their borrowings from each other, their defining differences. Consideration of style in the various arts and major figures in the period whose innovations in style or inventions in technique led to new forms. Special attention to developing skills in writing and discussion and equipping students to deal with the special problems that accompany the examination of art. Theme for 1985-86: The arts from 1880 to 1920.—H. Doris, J. Roosevelt, and guests.

4 points. M 2:10-4:00.

PIA BC 3591x. Senior Seminar.

Contemporary issues in the arts, with reports and projects leading to a thesis or performance. Participating students are encouraged to work in groups, whenever their interests coincide or the logic of performance suggests such collaboration. Theme for 1985-86: Impressionism.—Staff.

4 points. Tu 4:10-6:00.

STUDIO COURSES IN ART

Studio courses, 2003x, 2004y, 2005x, 2006y, 2007x, 2008y, are given at Barnard. Enrollment is limited and students must sign up. Other studio courses are given at the School of the Arts, in Dodge Hall, and students may register for these only with written permission of the departmental representative. Classes are limited to 18 students. Students who wish to enter the Columbia courses are required to apply for space in 305 Dodge Hall during the preregistration period prior to each term. Model fees range from $20.00 for any two-point course to $45.00 for a three-point course in printmaking. For students not majoring in the Program in the Arts (Visual Arts), a maximum of four courses of studio work may be credited; each of the second two must be matched with an art history course to be credited.

PIA BC 2003x, PIA BC 2004y. Studio Painting.

Studio courses in painting with acrylic and oil; supplementary instruction in drawing and the use of color. Emphasis on individual development.—A. McCoy.

2 points. Th 2:10-6:00.

PIA BC 2005x, PIA BC 2006y, PIA BC 2007x, PIA BC 2008y. Painting.

Basic skills developed by setting specific tasks to be executed in painting. Previous art training is not necessary.—S. Crile.

2 points. W. 2:10-6:00.

Courses required for the Dance concentration:

Dance BC 2561, BC 2562.

Dance Workshop I.

Dance BC 2563.

Form in Dance Composition.

Dance BC 2564.

Content in Dance Composition.

Dance BC 2565, BC 2566.

History of Dance.

Dance BC 2567.

Fundamentals of Music for Dancers.

Dance BC 3571, BC 3572.

Dance Workshop II.

Dance BC 3574.

Seminar on Contemporary Choreographers and Their Works.

Program in the Arts

Courses required for the Music concentration:

Any two of the following:

Music V3124. History II.

Music V3125. History III.

Music V3126. History IV.

Plus the following courses if the student is not exempted from them upon entrance into the Program:

Music V2100-V2101. Theory I and II.

Music V2300-V2301. Theory III and IV.

Music V2303-V2305. Theory V and VI.

Courses required for the Theatre concentration:

English BC 3129 and BC 3130.

History of the Theatre: Origins to the Restoration.

Modern Theatre: The 18th Century to the Present.

English BC 3133.

Play Production: Basic Design for the Theatre.

English BC 3131 and BC 3132.

The Contemporary Theatre.

English BC 3135 and BC 3136.

Actor's and Director's Interpretation of Dramatic Literature.

Dance Technique. One semester. (Dance composition may be substituted upon evidence of adequate prior training.)

Three courses in dramatic literature drawn from the following:

Class. Lit. V 3123.

Greek Drama and its Influences.

English BC3163 or BC 3164.

Shakespeare.

English BC 3186.

Modern Drama.

French BC 3034.

The French Theater of the Seventeenth Century.

Greek V 3305.

Tragedy.

German BC 3025.

German Prose and Drama from Buchner to Nietzsche.

German BC 3026.

Modern German Theater.

Courses required for the Visual Arts concentration:

Art History BC 1001, BC 1002.

Introduction to the History of Art.

Art History BC 3678, BC 3679.

Modern Art.

Art History BC 3986.

Seminar in Art Criticism.

A minimum of four studio courses, to be selected from offerings listed in the Barnard catalogue.

Courses required for the Writing concentration:

Four courses selected from the following:

English BC 3103, BC 3104.

Structure and Style.

English BC 3105, BC 3106.

The Craft of Writing.

English BC 3107, BC 3108.

Experiments in Writing.

English BC 3111, BC 3112.

Story Writing.

English BC 3113, BC 3114.

Dramatic Writing.

English BC 3193.

Literary Analysis and Evaluation.

Plus two advanced courses from any of the College departments of language and literature.

¹ Absent on leave, Autumn Term

Biology is a field which explores the structure, function, interactions, and evolution of living organisms. It includes the study of communities, populations, whole organisms, organs, tissues, cells, and subcellular components. Some of the most exciting issues of the day, such as those relating to ecological problems, genetic engineering, and environment and health, require a strong background in biology. At Barnard, courses cover the fine structure, development and physiology of cells, tissues, and organs; the embryology, behavior and structure of organisms; and the ecology and evolution of populations.

Many students specialize in this field in preparation for a career in medicine, dentistry, public health, or nutrition, while others anticipate graduate work in one of the many subfields of biology leading to a teaching and research career. Still others plan futures as biological or medical librarians, scientific illustrators or photographers, researchers in industry or government, or in environmental law.

Equipment available at Barnard includes an RCA 4B transmission electron microscope and an ISI SX-40 scanning electron microscope with accessory equipment, photomicrographic and darkroom instruments, IBM microcomputers, a scintillation counter, an ultracentrifuge, an automated oxygen analyzer, and physiographs. The facilities include constant temperature rooms, darkrooms, an animal care facility, and a greenhouse. A Biology Club, originated and governed by students and sponsored by the department, presents seminars and film programs of interest.

Students are encouraged to do summer work in biological laboratories or field stations. Financial assistance for such work may be awarded to qualified students through the Edna Henry Bennett Memorial Scholarship Fund, the Herbert Maule Richards Fund, or the Donald and Nancy Ritchie Fund. The department maintains a folder of summer courses and research stations, and information on available funds can be obtained from the department chairman. Support for participation or assistance in the research of the Barnard faculty is available at times from research grants and such programs as the IBM grant for Women in Science and Technology.

Biology BC 1101-BC 1102, or its equivalent, is a prerequisite for upper level courses in the department. Students who have passed the Advanced Placement examination with a grade of 4 or 5 are exempted from the general course, and may receive course credit if they present evidence of satisfactory laboratory experience. Students who receive 6 points of Advanced Placement course credit may not receive duplicate credit for General Biology. Students who receive only 3 points of Advanced Placement credit may register and receive credit for one term of General Biology. Students should consult with the department chairman before entering courses for which General Biology is a prerequisite. Students may also take courses at Columbia University, including graduate courses; they should consult the Bulletin of the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences and their advisers before planning to take such courses.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Students are encouraged to make a balanced selection of courses for the major, but no special concentration or track is required. Majors should consult their departmental advisers who are chosen at the end of the sophomore year.

A minimum of nine courses in biology (of which six must include laboratory work) and two courses in chemistry with laboratory (including organic chemistry) are required for the major. To ensure a balanced preparation in biology, at least one course must be selected from each of five of the following six categories:

1. Biochemistry, Molecular Biology: C 3501, Biochemistry G 4021, C 3064, W 3073
2. Genetics: BC 3105, C 3032
3. Cell Biology: BC 3110, BC 3128, W 3040, W 3041
4. Anatomy, Physiology, Development: BC 3109, BC 3111, BC 3116, BC 3124, BC 3134, W 3002, W 3022
5. Organismic Biology: BC 3103, BC 3107, BC 3115
6. Population Biology: BC 3108, BC 3119, BC 3146, W 3094

Courses counting for the laboratory requirement are listed below. There is a laboratory fee of $35 per biology laboratory course:

Biology BC 1101-BC 1102	General Biology
Biology BC 3103	The Biology of Plants
Biology BC 3105 with Biology BC 3114	Introduction to Genetics with Laboratory in Genetics
Biology BC 3107	Invertebrate Zoology
Biology BC 3109	Vertebrate Embryology
Biology BC 3110	Microbiology
Biology BC 3111	Morphology of Vascular Plants
Biology BC 3116 with Biology BC 3118	Mammalian Physiology with Laboratory in Physiology
Biology BC 3119	Population and Community Ecology
Biology BC 3124	Plant Development
Biology BC 3128 with Biology BC 3130	Biology of Cells and Tissues with Laboratory in Cell and Tissue Biology
Biology BC 3134 with Biology BC 3136	Plant Physiology with Laboratory in Plant Physiology
Biology BC 3146 with Biology BC 3148	Environmental Microbiology with Laboratory in Environmental Microbiology
Biology BC 3151-BC 3152	Quantitative Field Biology
Biology BC 3598 or Biology BC 3599	Problems in Biology (if it includes laboratory work)
Chemistry BC 3355	Biochemistry Techniques Laboratory

Columbia biology courses with laboratory

Laboratory courses from other colleges (with special permission of the chairman).

Participation in a special project, Biology BC 3598 or BC 3599, is highly recommended. These courses give the student an opportunity to experience independent laboratory research. Both intradepartmental (Biology BC 3599) and extradepartmental (Biology BC 3598) projects require the approval of a member of the faculty in the department, who serves as sponsor (intradepartmental projects) or as cosponsor (extradepartmental projects). All projects must involve planning, experimentation and interpretation of results and all require a formal report, written in journal style. All extradepartmental projects receive pass or fail grades; intradepartmental projects may be graded P or F, or by a letter grade, at the option of the sponsor. Only one term may be counted toward the major.

The Graduate Record Examination is used as the major examination. The scores are also used, together with grade point averages and faculty recommendations, to determine the recipients of departmental honors.

A year of chemistry with laboratory, including one term of organic chemistry, is required for the major. A number of upper level biology courses require two years of chemistry (Chemistry BC 1601, General Chemistry; BC 3328, BC 3230 and BC 3231, Organic Chemistry I-II; BC 3232, Intermediate General Chemistry; and BC 3338, Quantitative and Instrumental Techniques Laboratory). Entering freshmen who plan to major in biology are encouraged to take Chemistry BC 1601 and BC 3328, BC 3230 in addition to Biology BC 1101 and BC 1102 in their first year. Students interested in attending graduate or professional schools should take at least two years of chemistry, and, in addition, one year each of calculus and physics. Graduate work generally requires a knowledge of one or more modern foreign languages.

Students interested in the health sciences should register with the Pre-Professional Office in their freshman or sophomore year and must take the MCAT exam in their junior year.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

A minor in biology must have one year of general biology (two terms with laboratory) and three more advanced courses in biology, two of which must include laboratory work. Physics, Psychology, Chemistry, and Biochemistry majors need take only one advanced laboratory instead of two.

BIOPSYCHOLOGY

A major in biopsychology aims to provide a strong background in the behavioral sciences for students who plan to pursue a Ph.D. in Biopsychology or Psychobiology and for whom research training is of prime concern. The program is jointly administered by the departments of Biological Sciences and Psychology. Students electing this track are exposed to basic courses in Biology and Psychology, and advanced courses necessary for the study of behavior. All students engage in two semesters of independent research in the senior year.

It should be noted that students may also arrange interdisciplinary programs by electing a major in either Psychology or Biological Sciences and a minor in the other discipline, or by planning a double major.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE BIOPSYCHOLOGY MAJOR

Psychology BC 1001	Introduction to Psychology
Biology BC 1101-BC 1102	General Biology with Laboratories

Cognate Courses

The following chemistry courses are required: BC 1601, BC 3328, and BC 3230. Students are encouraged to take additional courses in chemistry, physics, and math if they intend to apply to medical or graduate schools.

The major examination consists of the Graduate Record Examination in either Psychology or Biology.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

There is no minor in Biopsychology.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

BIO BC 1101x-BIO BC 1102y.

General Biology.

Nature, development, and implications of biological knowledge; biochemical basis and energy relations of organisms; structure and function of cells; organization and physiology of plants and animals, with emphasis on integration and control; classical and molecular genetics; development and differentiation; evolution, ecology, and animal behavior.—1: P. Ammirato; 2: P. Hertz.

Enrollment in laboratory sections limited to 16 students per section.

4½ points.

Lecture M W F 9:00

Laboratory Tu or Th 9:00-11:50, F 10:00-12:50, M, Tu, W, or Th 1:10-4:00 or 2:10-5:00.

BIO BC 3103y. The Biology of Plants.

Evolutionary, morphological, physiological, and ecological aspects of plants, with some attention to their historical, esthetic, and economic importance.—D. Stevenson.

Prerequisites: BC 1101-BC 1102 or the equivalent.

Enrollment limited to 48 students.

5 points.

Lecture Tu Th 10:35-11:50.

Laboratory Tu or W 1:10-5:00.

BIO BC 3105x. Introduction to Genetics.

Mendelian and quantitative genetics of plants, animals, and man; segregation, recombination, measurement of linkage, and genetics of continuous variation; cytogenetics; developmental genetics; population genetics and evolution. Human genetics emphasized where it exemplifies general principles.—F. Warburton.

Prerequisites: BC 1101-BC 1102 or the equivalent, and calculus or statistics.

Students interested in laboratory see BC 3114.

3 points.

Lecture Tu Th 10:35-11:50, plus one hour recitation and demonstration to be arranged.

Biological Sciences

BIO BC 3106y. Evolution.

Modern theory of evolution: genetic and ecological mechanisms that adapt organisms to their environments and increase the diversity of species.—F. Warburton.

Prerequisite: BC 1101-BC 1102 or the equivalent.

Alternate years. Offered in 1985-86.

3 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:50.

BIO BC 3107y. Invertebrate Zoology.

Invertebrate animals: comparative fine and gross structure, development, physiology and behavior; emphasis on marine invertebrates. Laboratory-demonstration includes a survey of major groups and an individual project on the ultrastructure, physiology, or ecology of an invertebrate animal.—P. Dudley.

Prerequisite: BC 1101-BC 1102 or the equivalent.

Alternate years. Offered in 1986-87.

5 points.

BIO BC 3108y. General Ecology.

Effects of selected physicochemical environmental factors on organisms in populations and communities; characteristics of major terrestrial and aquatic ecosystems; human influences on the environment.—P. Dudley.

Prerequisite: BC 1101-BC 1102 or the equivalent. A course in general chemistry is recommended.

Alternate years. Offered in 1985-86.

3 points. M W F 11:00.

BIO BC 3109x. Vertebrate Embryology.

Anatomy, morphogenesis, and differentiation of embryos of vertebrate animals: gametogenesis, fertilization, cleavage, gastrulation, and the morphogenetic and physiological events which occur during embryonic histogenesis and organogenesis. The laboratory includes comparative studies of the anatomy of embryos and experimental analysis of development.—R. J. Jacobs-Cohen.

Prerequisite: BC 1101-BC 1102 with laboratory, or the equivalent.

Enrollment limited to 40 students.

5 points.

Lecture M W F 9:00.

Laboratory Tu or W 1:10-5:00.

BIO BC 3110y. Microbiology.

Survey of procaryotic and eucaryotic microorganisms; structure and function of cells; physiology and metabolism of growth; inhibition of growth and activity; genetic mechanisms; molecular interrelationships; aspects of pathogenicity and immunity to disease.—W. Corpe.

Prerequisites: A year of college biology and general chemistry.

Enrollment limited to 24 students.

Alternate years. Offered in 1985-86.

5 points.

Lecture: M W F 9:00.

Laboratory: M W 1:10-3:00.

BIO BC 3111x. Morphology of Vascular Plants.

An analysis of form and structure in the higher plants. Differentiation, ultrastructure and anatomy of cells, tissues and organs. Evolution and comparative morphology studied from the viewpoint of both fossil and extant representatives. Laboratory utilizes various histological techniques including fossil peels.—D. Stevenson.

Prerequisites: BC 1101-BC 1102 or the equivalent; BC 3103.

Enrollment limited to 24 students.

Alternate years. Offered in 1985-86.

5 points.

Lecture: Tu Th 9:10-10:25.

Laboratory: Tu 1:10-5:00.

BIO BC 3113x. Biogeography.

Plant and animal distribution: the effects of biological introductions via human activities, the major vegetation zones, mechanisms of dispersal, and utilization of the biota including the effects of exploitation on species and habitats.—D. Stevenson.

Prerequisites: BC 1101-BC 1102 or the equivalent (or one year of any other laboratory science and permission of the instructor).

Alternate years. Offered in 1986-87.

3 points.

BIO BC 3114y. Laboratory in General Genetics.

Exercises in the use of Drosophila, Neurospora, bacteria and bacteriophages to illustrate basic genetic principles and to investigate population genetics, linkage and recombination, and biochemical genetics; techniques used in human genetics and cytogenetics.—F. Warburton and R. J. Jacobs-Cohen.

Prerequisite: BC 3105.

Enrollment limited to 32 students.

2 points. Tu or W 1:10-5:00.

BIO BC 3115x. Vertebrate Zoology.

A systematic survey of the Phylum Chordata including fossil history, biogeography, systematics, natural history, body architecture, energetics, locomotion, feeding, and behavior.—P. Hertz.

Prerequisite: BC 1101-BC 1102 or the equivalent.

Biological Sciences

Alternate years. Offered in 1985-86.

3 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:50.

BIO BC 3116x. Mammalian Physiology.

Physiology of major organ systems; function and control of circulatory, respiratory, digestive, excretory, endocrine, and nervous systems in animals; Emphasis on higher vertebrates and man.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisites: Three terms of biology and two terms of organic chemistry.

3 points. Tu Th 9:10-10:25.

BIO BC 3118x. Laboratory in Physiology.

Physiographic recording of cardiac, respiratory and muscle function; small animal surgery; sterotaxic and histological confirmation of lesions. Additional laboratories in amphibian metamorphosis, enzyme kinetics, active transport, exercise physiology and renal function.—Instructor to be announced.

Corequisite or Prerequisite: BC 3116.

Enrollment limited to 32 students.

2 points. Th or F 1:10-5:00.

BIO BC 3119x. Population and Community Ecology.

Introduction to major concepts and issues in evolutionary ecology; emphasis on such topics as life history strategies, population growth, competition, predator-prey interactions, population regulation, species diversity, community organization, biogeography. Lectures integrate recent theory with observational and experimental data.—P. Hertz.

Prerequisites: A year of college biology, one of the following: BC 3103, BC 3107, BC 3110, or BC 3115, and permission of the instructor.

Calculus is recommended.

Enrollment limited to 16 students.

Alternate years. Offered in 1986-87.

5 points.

BIO BC 3122y. Animal Behavior.

Introduction to animal behavior: physiological bases of behavior (sensory systems, neurophysiology of behavior, appetitive and reproductive behavior), traditional ethological approaches to behavior (communication, dyadic behavior, territoriality, dominance and aggression) and evolution of behavior (behavior genetics, ecological correlates, social behavior).—J. Chase.

Prerequisite: One year of biology or one year of psychology.

3 points. Tu Th 9:10-10:25.

BIO BC 3124y. Plant Development.

Processes of growth, differentiation and organization in plants; major morphogenetic events in the transition from zygote to flowering plant; hormonal and environmental effects and mechanisms of action. Laboratory utilizes whole plant, organ and cell cultures.—P. Ammirato.

Prerequisites: BC 1101-BC 1102 or the equivalent, and one semester of organic chemistry.

Enrollment limited to 16 students.

Alternate years. Offered in 1986-87.

5 points.

BIO BC 3126y. History of Biology.

Growth of biological knowledge and ideas to the time of Darwin and Pasteur, and the paths leading to modern genetics, developmental biology, and evolutionary theory since then, in relation to concurrent developments in technology, medicine, and other sciences; religious, political and social influences on biological writings will be examined.—F. Warburton.

Prerequisites: BC 1101-BC 1102 or the equivalent, and one advanced biology course.

Alternate years. Offered in 1986-87.

3 points.

BIO BC 3128x. Biology of Cells and Tissues.

Structural, molecular and physiological aspects of cells and tissues in vertebrate animals; light microscopic and electron microscopic studies of the structure of cell organelles and tissues; modern concepts of function.—P. Dudley.

Prerequisites: BC 1101-BC 1102 or the equivalent, and one advanced biology course.

A year of chemistry, including organic chemistry, is recommended.

3 points. M W F 11:00.

BIO BC 3130x. Laboratory in Cell and Tissue Biology.

Optional laboratory to be taken concurrently with BC 3128. Correlated light microscopic and electron microscopic analyses of the structure of tissues and organs of vertebrate animals; demonstrations and practice in histochemical, light microscopic and electron microscopic techniques.—P. Dudley.

Corequisite or prerequisite: BC 3128.

Enrollment limited to 16 students.

2 points. Tu or W 1:10-5:00.

BIO BC 3134y. Plant Physiology.

Processes of metabolism, nutrition, growth, and development of green plants: photosynthesis, respiration, nitrogen and intermediate metabolism, water and solute uptake and transfer, translocation, plant growth regulators, tropisms and nasties, photoperiodism, vernalization, dormancy, senescence and death.—P. Ammirato.

Biological Sciences

Prerequisites: BC 1101-BC 1102 or the equivalent, and one term of organic chemistry.

Enrollment limited to 16 students.

Alternate years. Offered in 1985-86.

3 points. M F 11:00-12:15.

BIO BC 3136y. Laboratory in Plant Physiology.

Determination of water potential and transpiration rates. Solute uptake and mineral deficiency studies. The Hill reaction, CO₂ compensation points and respiration rates. Extraction, separation and identification of amino acids, nucleic acids and plant hormones. Bioassay procedures with whole plants and cell cultures. Studies of phytochrome controlled germination and photomorphogenesis.—P. Ammirato.

Corequisite or prerequisite: BC 3134.

Enrollment limited to 16 students.

Alternate years. Offered in 1985-86.

2 points. Th 1:10-5:00.

BIO BC 3144y. Cytogenetics.

The molecular and genetic organization of chromosomes and the behavior of chromosomes in dividing and non-dividing cells. Relationships of chromosomal components to metabolic functions and cellular and organismic life cycles. The contributions of cytogenetics to understanding taxonomic relationships and evolutionary processes in prokaryotic and eukaryotic organisms.—R. J. Jacobs-Cohen.

Prerequisite: BC 3105 or C 3032

or equivalent.

3 points. Tu Th 9:10-10:25.

BIO BC 3146y. Environmental Microbiology.

A study of the relationships between microorganisms and the human environment. The role of microorganisms in terrestrial and aquatic systems in relation to environmental quality. Examination of microbiologically catalyzed processes related to nutrient cycling, corrosion of metal and biodegradation of toxic materials. Evaluation of microbiological control measures in drinking water and food.—W. Corpe.

Prerequisites: A year of college biology, and general chemistry.

Alternate years. Offered in 1986-87.

3 points.

BIO BC 3148y. Laboratory in Environmental Microbiology.

A study of the qualitative and quantitative methodology for study of microbial populations and processes in the environment. Experiments will be done on nutrient cycling, eutrophication, treatment of wastewater, and digestion of solid wastes.—W. Corpe.

Corequisite or prerequisite: BC 3146.

Enrollment limited to 24 students.

Alternate years. Offered in 1986-87.

2 points.

BIO BC 3151x-BIO BC 3152y. Quantitative Field Biology.

An introduction to ecological theory and methods with an emphasis on hypothesis construction, experimental design, methods of field data collection, data analysis, and presentation of research results. Students will design and complete field projects, culminating in oral and written reports.—P. Hertz.

Prerequisites: BC 1101-BC 1102, one of the following: BC 3108, BC 3113, BC 3119, and permission of the instructor.

Enrollment limited to 12 students.

Class meets first six weeks in Autumn Term and last six weeks in Spring Term.

Alternate years. Offered in 1985-86.

5 points per year (2.5 each semester). Th 2:10-5:00 and all day Saturday.

BIO BC 3593x-BIO BC 3594y.

Research and Seminar in Biopsychology,

Independent research under faculty supervision culminating in a research paper and oral presentation. Throughout the year, weekly seminars will be used to discuss research approaches, methodological difficulties, and data analysis.—Staff.

Prerequisites: Six of the required courses for the Biopsychology major.

4 points. Hours to be arranged.

BIO BC 3598x, BIO BC 3598y. External Studies in Biology.

Research projects outside the department developed in consultation with an instructor who serves as cosponsor.—Staff.

Prerequisite: One year of general biology and permission of the instructor.

4 points. Hours to be arranged.

BIO BC 3599x, BIO BC 3599y. Individual Research in Biology.

Independent work in the department to suit the needs of the student after consultation with the instructor.—Staff.

Prerequisite: One year of general biology and permission of the instructor.

4 points. Hours to be arranged.

Biological Sciences

BIO W3005y. Central Nervous System Neurobiology.

D.B. Kelley.

Prerequisite: One year each of biology and chemistry.

3 points. Tu Th 4:10-5:25.

BIO W 3022y. Developmental Biology.

J. Harding.

Prerequisite: One year of biology. At least one term of genetics or biochemistry is recommended.

3 points. M W F 11:00.

BIO C 3032y. Introduction to Genetics.

M. Dworkin.

Prerequisite: C 1005 or the equivalent.

3 points. M W F 1:10-2:00.

BIO W 3033y. Animal Physiology.

E. Macagno.

Prerequisite: C 1005 and one year each of physics and calculus.

3 points. Tu Th 9:10-10:25.

BIO W 3040x. Laboratory in Cell and Developmental Biology.

L. Spielman.

Prerequisite: Two terms of biology and a college level chemistry course with laboratory. 5 points.

Lecture-Laboratory Tu 12:30-5:30 (Section 1) or Th 5:30-10:30 (Section 2). Additional hours: Tu 6:10-10:00, W 1:10-5:00, or F 1:10-5:00.

BIO W 3041y. Cell Biology.

E. Holtzman.

Prerequisite: C 1005 or the equivalent.

4 points.

Tu Th 11:00-12:30. Half-hour discussion periods follow most class sessions.

BIO C 3046y. Project Laboratory in Eucaryotic Gene Expression.

C.L. Prives and D.M. Robins.

Prerequisite: One year of biology and the instructor's permission.

5 points.

Laboratory Tu Th 1:10-5:00, plus additional hours to be arranged.

BIO C 3052x. Project Laboratory in Molecular Genetics.

C. Squires.

Prerequisite: One year of introductory biology and the instructor's permission.

5 points. Tu Th 1:10-5:00, plus additional hours to be arranged.

BIO C 3055y. Project Laboratory in the Molecular Genetics of Drosophila.

M. Levine.

Prerequisites: One term of genetics and one term of either developmental biology or biochemistry.

5 points. Tu Th 1:10-5:00, plus additional hours to be arranged.

BIO C 3064x. Molecular Genetics.

G. Zubay.

Prerequisite: C 1005 or the equivalent, and organic chemistry.

4 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:50.

Recitation: Tu or Th 12:00.

BIO W 3073x. Cellular and Molecular Immunology.

L. Eckhardt.

Prerequisite: C 1006, W 3041, or F1402.

3 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:50.

BIO W 3094x. The Biosphere.

A. Mancinelli.

Prerequisite: An introductory course in both biology and chemistry, and the instructor's permission.

3 points. Tu Th 4:10-5:25.

BIO W 3208x. Introduction to Organismic and Evolutionary Biology of Animals.

W. Bock.

Prerequisite: An introductory course in college biology.

3 points. M W F 11:00.

BIO C 3292y. Quantitative Modeling in Biology and Medicine.

B. Singer and C. Levinthal.

Prerequisites: One year each of calculus, biology, and chemistry, and the instructor's permission.

3 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:50.

Biology-Chemistry BCH C 3501x.

Biochemistry I: Structure and Metabolism.

C. Levinthal and A. Tzagoloff.

Prerequisite: C 1005 and one year of organic chemistry.

Chemistry is the study of the nature of substances and their transformations. In a three-year sequence of core courses, a chemistry or biochemistry major gains familiarity with the basic areas of the field: inorganic, organic, physical, and analytical chemistry. In addition, she acquires sufficient skill in the laboratory so that she is prepared for independent research.

Students who have taken an Advanced Placement course in secondary school may be given advanced placement and credit with scores of 4 or 5, if they present evidence of satisfactory laboratory experience.

The laboratories of the department are modern and well-equipped both for course work and for independent projects. Students may undertake independent research projects under the guidance of members of the department during the academic year or the summer; some student work has been published in chemical journals. Opportunities are also available for undertaking research projects with members of the staff of one of the many medical schools or research institutions in New York City, as well as with the Columbia faculty.

Students wishing to fulfill the minimum two year chemistry requirement for medical school should take Chemistry BC 1601, General Chemistry; Chemistry BC 3328, BC 3230, and BC 3231, Organic Chemistry I and II with laboratory; Chemistry BC 3232, Intermediate General Chemistry; and Chemistry BC 3338, Quantitative and Instrumental Techniques Laboratory.

The laboratory fee covers the cost of non-returnable items, laboratory manuals, chemicals, and other consumable supplies, as well as reasonable breakage. In addition, students may be charged for excessive breakage.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Two majors are offered by the department, in chemistry and biochemistry. The same major examination is required for both chemistry and biochemistry; there is no senior essay required for either.

Chemistry

A student who is interested in chemistry should consult any member of the department during her freshman year. In the first year she should take Chemistry BC 1601, BC 3328, and BC 3230, and start or continue the study of calculus. It is then possible for her to fulfill the basic requirements for the major in three years and to take advanced courses in the senior year. After completing the undergraduate curriculum, students are encouraged to take graduate courses in chemistry or biochemistry at Columbia, and to undertake independent research projects.

Courses required for the major are:

Chemistry BC 1601
Chemistry BC 3328,
BC 3230, BC 3231
Chemistry BC 3335

Chemistry BC 3236

General Chemistry

*Organic Chemistry I with laboratory and II
Modern Techniques of Organic Chemistry
Laboratory
Introductory Thermodynamics and Kinetics*

Chemistry

Chemistry BC 3340

Quantitative and Instrumental Techniques Laboratory

Chemistry BC 3261

Atomic and Molecular Structure

Chemistry BC 3264

Applied and Statistical Thermodynamics

Chemistry BC 3365,
BC 3368

Advanced Chemistry Laboratory

(For BC 3365 and BC 3368, Chemistry BC 3370 may be substituted.)

Physics V 1103-V1104

General Physics with Laboratory

or

Physics C1006-C1007

Mathematics

Calculus I, II, and III in any sequence (A, B, or C)

Recommended: Calculus IV and an advanced inorganic chemistry course.

A list of major requirements, several possible course sequences, and information about the major examination may be obtained from any member of the department.

Students interested in taking Chemistry BC 3599 should consult with individual faculty members about the research problems currently being investigated.

Biochemistry

Courses required for the major are:

Chemistry BC 1601, BC 3328, BC 3230,
BC 3231, BC 3333 or BC 3335, BC 3338
or BC 3340, and BC 3355, Biochemistry
Laboratory

Chemistry BC 3236 and BC 3264
or Chemistry V3059-V3060
Biology BC 1101, BC 1102
Physics V1103-V1104

*Introductory Physical Chemistry I and II
General Biology
General Physics with Laboratory*

Calculus I and II

Biology-Chemistry C 3501 and C 3512

Biochemistry I and II

Elective courses totaling 5 points from a list of approved Biology and Chemistry courses.

A list of major requirements, including the courses from which the advanced laboratory and lecture electives are to be selected, and information about the major examination may be obtained from any member of the department.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

Courses required for the Chemistry minor are: Chemistry BC 1601, BC 3328, BC 3230, BC 3231, BC 3333, and BC 3338, plus one of the following three: Chemistry BC 3232, BC 3236, or V 3059.

There is no minor in Biochemistry.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

CHE BC 1601x. General Chemistry I.

Particulate nature of matter in various states; chemical transformations of matter, especially of ionic substances; properties of gases and kinetic theory, solutions, equilibrium, acid-base, precipitation and oxidation-reduction reactions, and thermochemistry; laboratory experience with both qualitative and quantitative techniques.—S. Chapman, G. King, and associates.

Prerequisite: Algebra (Math SAT score of 550 for freshmen).

Total enrollment in laboratory limited to 160 students.

5 points. Lecture Tu Th 9:10-10:25.

Recitation one afternoon: M Tu W Th or F 1:10-2:00.

Laboratory same afternoon as recitation M Tu W Th or F 2:00-5:00.

Lecture and lab must be taken together unless permission of the instructor is given at the time of program filing. Laboratory fee $28.

Chemistry

CHE BC 1602y. General Chemistry II.

Kinetics and mechanisms of chemical reactions; nuclear chemistry and radioactivity; atomic and molecular structure; chemistry of selected elements with attention to carbon; selected topics in environmental chemistry and biochemistry.—B. Jacobson, G. King and associates.

Prerequisite: BC 1601 or permission of the instructor. Students who have completed BC 3230 or its equivalent may not subsequently receive credit toward the degree for BC 1602. Primarily for majors in fields other than science.

5 points. Lecture M W F 10:00.

Recitation and laboratory one afternoon Tu or W 1:10-5:00. Laboratory fee $28.

CHE BC 3328y. Introductory Organic Chemistry Laboratory.

Basic techniques of experimental organic chemistry. Principles and methods of separation, purification, and characterization of organic compounds and techniques of compound preparation.—J. Carter and associates.

Prerequisite: BC 1601 or equivalent with grade of C- or better, or BC 1601 and BC 1602 or equivalent. Corequisite: BC 3230 or equivalent.

Enrollment limited to 144.

2½ points.

Lecture one afternoon M Tu W Th or F 1:00-1:50.

Laboratory same afternoon as lecture M Tu W Th or F 1:50-5:30. Laboratory fee $35.

CHE BC 3230y. Organic Chemistry I.

Atomic and molecular structure; an introduction to aliphatic and aromatic chemistry with emphasis on modern theories; basic organic reaction mechanisms, stereochemistry and spectroscopy.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: BC 1601 or equivalent with a grade of C- or better, or BC 1601 and BC 1602 or equivalent.

3 points. Lecture Tu Th 9:10-10:25.

Problem section F 12:00.

CHE BC 3231x. Organic Chemistry II.

Continued treatment of the topics of Organic Chemistry I with extensions and an introduction to biological compounds and biomacromolecules.—B. Jacobson.

Prerequisite: BC 3230. Required for biology majors and premedical students.

3 points. M W F 10:00.

Problem section Tu 12:00.

CHE BC 3232y. Intermediate General Chemistry.

Selected aspects of general chemistry, primarily for premedical and biological science students without the background for Chemistry BC 3236 or V 3059. Thermochemistry, chemical equilibrium, chemical kinetics, complex ions and coordination compounds, and nuclear chemistry, with applications to analytical chemistry and biochemistry.—B.G. Segal.

Prerequisites: BC 1601 and Organic Chemistry I. BC 3230 may be taken as a corequisite with permission of the instructor.

Optional parallel laboratory work: one afternoon under BC 3338.

Course C 1404 is not an acceptable equivalent for BC 3232.

3 points. M W F 10:00.

CHE BC 3333x. Modern Techniques of Organic Chemistry Laboratory.

Introduction to qualitative and quantitative organic analysis and to advanced techniques, emphasizing instrumental and chromatographic methods.—B. Jacobson and J. Carter.

Prerequisites: BC 3328 and BC 3230. Corequisite: BC 3231. Suitable for premedical and biological science students, but not required by all medical schools. Required of biochemistry majors.

Enrollment limited to 24 students.

3 points. Lecture Th 1:10.

Laboratory one afternoon Tu 1:10-5:00 or F 1:10-5:00. Laboratory fee $35.

CHE BC 3335x. Modern Techniques of Organic Chemistry Laboratory.

Identical with BC 3333, but with a library problem, a short project and additional preparative experiments.—B. Jacobson and J. Carter.

Prerequisites: BC 3328 and BC 3230. Corequisite: BC 3231. Chemistry majors must take this course, but it is not required by medical schools. Enrollment limited to 15 students.

5 points. Lecture Th 1:10.

Laboratory two afternoons Tu 1:10-5:00, Th 2:10-6:00 plus two additional hours to be arranged.

Laboratory fee $35.

CHE BC 3236y. Introductory Thermodynamics and Kinetics.

Introduction to chemical kinetics, the laws of thermodynamics, and a study of ionic solutions and crystals.—S. Chapman.

Prerequisites: BC 3230, Calculus I and II, and preceding or parallel Physics V1103-V1104 and Calculus III. Recommended parallel: BC 3340.

4 points.

Lecture Tu Th 9:10-10:25 and F 12:00.

CHE BC 3338y. Quantitative and Instrumental Techniques Laboratory.

Quantitative techniques in volumetric analysis, radiochemistry, spectrophotometry, and pH measurement. Biochemical applications are included and some experience with computer programming is provided.—L. Lessinger and O. Jebejian.

Corequisite for students not majoring in chemistry or biochemistry: BC 3232 or BC 3236.

Suitable for premedical and biological science students. Required of biochemistry majors.

3 points. Lecture Tu 1:10.

Laboratory Tu 2:10-6:00 or Th 1:10-5:00.

Laboratory fee $35.

CHE BC 3340y. Quantitative and Instrumental Techniques Laboratory.

Identical with BC 3338 except that a greater variety of experiments is offered, with more individual options.—L. Lessinger and O. Jebejian.

Corequisite for students not majoring in chemistry or biochemistry: BC 3232 or BC 3236.

Required of chemistry majors and suitable also for biochemistry majors and for premedical and biological science students.

5 points. Lecture Tu 1:10.

Laboratory two afternoons Tu 2:10-6:00 and Th 1:10-5:00.

Laboratory fee $35.

CHE V3059x. Introductory Physical Chemistry I.

Thermodynamics, physical chemistry of solutions, chemical equilibria including acid-base equilibria, electrochemistry.—B.G. Segal.

Prerequisites: Organic Chemistry II, Calculus I and II, and Physics V1103-V1104, or the equivalents. Intended for majors in biochemistry and biology, and premedical students.

3 points.

Recommended laboratory: BC 3338 or BC 3340.

Lecture M W F 11:00.

Recitation hour W 12:00.

CHE V3060y. Introductory Physical Chemistry II.

Kinetic theory, chemical kinetics, transport properties, macromolecules, quantum chemistry, and spectroscopy with applications to biological systems.—M. Vernon and J. Barton.

Prerequisite: V 3059 or permission of the instructor.

3 points. M W F 11:00.

CHE BC 3355x. Biochemistry Laboratory Techniques.

Experience with fundamental techniques used in the isolation, characterization and study of biomolecules. Techniques employed include homogenization, centrifugation, solvent extraction, salt fractionation, chromatography, electrophoresis, chemical and enzymic assays, enzyme kinetics and simple genetic cell transformation methods.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisites: BC 3231, or one year of Organic Chemistry, Biology BC 1101, BC 1102 or equivalent, and a total of four semesters of chemistry and biology laboratory. Corequisite: Biology-Chemistry C 3501 or Biochemistry G 4021. Enrollment limited to 24 students.

5 points. Lecture: M 12:10-1:00.

Laboratory: Tu 1:10-5:00 and Th 1:10-5:00.

Laboratory fee $45.

CHE BC 3261x. Atomic and Molecular Structure.

Introduction to quantum chemistry and spectroscopy.—L. Lessinger.

Prerequisites: BC 3236, Physics V1103-V1104, and Calculus III. Calculus IV is recommended.

4 points. Lecture M W F 11:00, Tu 12:00.

CHE BC 3264y. Applied and Statistical Thermodynamics.

Thermodynamics of real gases and solutions; phase equilibria; electrochemistry; kinetic theory of gases; statistical thermodynamics, partition functions, equilibrium.—B.G. Segal.

Prerequisites: BC 3230, BC 3236, Physics V1103-V1104, and Calculus III. BC 3261 and Calculus IV are recommended.

4 points. Lecture M W F 11:00, M 12:00.

CHE BC 3365x. Advanced Chemistry Laboratory.

Experiments in kinetics, various types of spectroscopy, thermodynamics, and electrochemistry using instrumental methods; preparation and characterization of inorganic compounds; some experience with computer programming. Chemistry majors must take both BC3365x and BC 3368y, or BC3370y. Suitable for biochemistry majors also.—C. Wu.

Prerequisites: BC3236 or V3059, and BC3338 or equivalent. BC3333 or BC3335 is recommended.

3 points. Lecture Th 12:00.

Laboratory W 1:10-5:00, and if enrollment requires, M 1:10-5:00.

Laboratory fee $35.

Chemistry

CHE BC 3368y. Advanced Chemistry Laboratory.

Topics identical with BC3365. These courses may be taken in either order.—S. Chapman and C. Wu.

Prerequisites identical with BC3365.

3 points. Lecture Tu 12:00.

Laboratory one afternoon M or W 1:10-5:00.

Laboratory fee $35

CHE BC 3370y. Advanced Chemistry Laboratory.

Identical with BC 3365 plus BC 3368.—S. Chapman and C. Wu.

Prerequisites: BC 3236 or V 3059, and BC 3338 or equivalent, and BC 3261. Corequisite: BC 3264. BC 3333 is recommended.

5 points. Lecture Tu 12:00.

Laboratory two afternoons M W 1:10-5:00.

Laboratory fee $35.

CHE BC 3599x, CHE BC 3599y. Problems in Chemistry.

Advanced individual laboratory projects for students who have completed the major requirements.—Staff.

Prerequisites: Completion of laboratory courses BC 3333 and BC 3338. For some projects, BC 3370 is also required. Permission of the instructor required.

4 points. Eight hours by arrangement.

Laboratory fee $35.

SUMMER RESEARCH

The department has available a number of fellowships for summer research within the department. Individual members of the department should be consulted, early in the spring semester, about the availability of projects.

Attention is called to the following courses offered elsewhere in the University. All require at least four semesters of chemistry as pre-requisites.

Biology-Chemistry BCH C3501x. Biochemistry I.

—C. Levinthal and A. Tzagoloff.

4 points. M W F 10:00.

Biology-Chemistry BCH G4170x. Biophysical Chemistry.

The objectives of the department are to provide students with a knowledge of the language and an understanding of the literature and civilization of the ancient Greeks and Romans. The close cooperation of Barnard and Columbia in planning and implementing the curriculum offers students a wide range of specialties from which to construct a sound and coherent program of studies according to their individual interests. All members of the Barnard department are available as advisers and should be consulted as early as possible in the planning of a major program.

Students may fulfill the foreign language requirement in Greek and Latin either by completing Greek BC 2011, Prose and Poetry, and Greek BC 2012, Selections from Homer; or by completing Latin BC 2003, Latin Literature: Prose, and Latin BC 2004, Vergil: Selections from the Aeneid; or by completing one semester of study above Greek BC 2012 or Latin BC 2004 (or the equivalent Columbia courses); or by passing an exemption examination with a sufficiently high grade. This examination tests the student's knowledge of grammar and her ability to translate written Greek or Latin. Students may fulfill the language requirement in Modern Greek by completing Modern Greek BC 2004, Intermediate Course II.

The Classics Department is the beneficiary of the Matthew Alan Kramer Fund whose principal purpose is the support of the production of plays in Ancient Greek and Latin. In recent years students of the department have produced Medea, Alcestis, The Persians, The Eumenides, Cyclops, Electra, and Trojan Women which have proved not only satisfying in themselves, but have provided an exciting and different learning experience for the participants.

Barnard College participates in the program of the Intercollegiate Center for Classical Studies in Rome. Students who have completed at least four semesters of Latin above the elementary course, and at least one semester of elementary Greek, are eligible to apply for admission to the program of the Rome Center for one or two semesters, preferably in the junior year. Courses taken at the Rome Center may be used in the major and, in some cases, may be used to satisfy distribution requirements. Barnard College is a Supporting Institution of the American School of Classical Studies at Athens and the American Academy in Rome, and certain privileges of those schools are open, without fee, to graduates of the College.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR IN GREEK, LATIN, AND GREEK AND LATIN

The major in Greek or Latin requires a minimum of eight courses above the elementary level.

In Greek, this would be fulfilled by taking

Greek W 4139

Greek W 4105-W 4106

and five others.

Greek Syntax

History of Greek Literature

In Latin, this would be fulfilled by taking

Latin W 4139

Latin W 4105-W 4106

and five others.

Latin Syntax

History of Latin Literature

A student may elect to major in both Greek and Latin by completing the major requirements in one language and 5 courses above the elementary level in the other.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

The minor in Classics requires five courses above the elementary level.

FOR THE REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR IN ANCIENT STUDIES, SEE ANCIENT STUDIES.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

CLASSICS IN TRANSLATION

There are no prerequisites for the Classical Literature or Classical Civilization courses.

Classical Literature CLL BC 1032x.

Classical Myth.

Survey of major myths from the ancient Near East to the advent of Christianity, with emphasis upon the content and treatment of myths in classical authors (Homer, Hesiod, Aeschylus, Euripides, Sophocles, Vergil, Livy, Ovid).—D. Birge.

3 points. M W 1:10-2:25.

(III)

Classical Literature CLL V 3123x. Greek

Drama and Its Influences.

Evolution of various types of tragedy and comedy from the 5th century B.C. in Athens to the 1st century A.D. in Rome; relation of these forms to later European dramatic forms; theories of comedy and tragedy including those of Aristotle; the production of plays.—H. Foley.

3 points. M W F 11:00.

(III)

Classical Literature CLL W 4300y. The Classical Tradition.

Social, political, intellectual, and religious contexts in which epic, lyric, tragic and comic poetry originally developed in Greece; Roman adaptations and their influence on modern poets.—M. Santirocco.

3 points. M W 6:10-7:25.

Classical Literature CLL W4140y. Greek Interpretive Texts:

Varieties of Ancient Literary Hermeneutics.

A survey of ancient Greek ideas about meaning in literary texts, and of the development of ancient literary hermeneutics. Primary texts will range in date from the 4th c. B.C. (the Derveni Papyrus) to the 5th c. A.D. (Proclus), with emphasis on Middle Platonism and Neoplatonism.—R. Lamberton.

3 points. Tu Th 4:10-5:25.

Classical Civilization CLC V 3158y.

Women in Antiquity.

Role of women in ancient Greek and Latin literature; portrayal of women in literature as compared with their actual social status; male and female in ancient Mediterranean cosmologies; readings from ancient epic, lyric, drama, history and historical documents, medical texts, oratory and philosophy as well as contemporary sociological and anthropological works which will help to analyze the origins of the Western attitude towards women.—H. Foley.

3 points. M W F 11:00.

(III)

Classical Civilization CLC V 3162y.

Ancient Law.

Greek and Hellenistic legal systems. Roman law until the time of Justinian; development of law, legal codes as an expression of the nature of society which produced them.—R. Bagnall.

Not offered in 1985-86.

3 points.

Classical Civilization CLC V 3163x.

The Greek Historical Tradition.

Greek conceptions of how history is made; determining influences such as divine interference, individual human exploits, chance; analysis of epic, philosophical, and historical texts.

Not offered in 1985-86.

3 points.

Classical Civilization CLC V 3175y.

The World of Late Antiquity.

The social, economic and religious history of the Roman world from the second to the early seventh century A.D.—A. Cameron.

Not offered in 1985-86.

3 points.

Classical Civilization CLC V 3140x. The Archaeology of the Later Greek Bronze Age.

The material culture of Mycenaean Greece and Crete, including architecture, painting, pottery and the Linear B tablets. The problem of the final collapse of Mycenaean Civilization, and the Dark Ages, which gave rise to the Homeric poems.—R. Janko.

3 points. M W 2:40-3:55.

Classical Civilization CLC V3145y.

Cities and Sanctuaries in Ancient Greece.

The development, major elements, and noteworthy peculiarities of Greek cities and sanctuaries. Emphasis will be on individual monuments and the arrangement of sites and their political, social, and religious functions throughout the Greek world from the rise of city-states through the formation of the Roman provinces.—D. Birge.

3 points. M W 4:10-5:25.

GREEK LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE

GRE BC 1001x-GRE BC 1002y.

Elementary Full-Year Course.

Grammar, composition, and reading. In Greek BC 1002 a dialogue of Plato, generally the Apology, will be read.—D. Selden.

BC 1001 is prerequisite to BC 1002.

No credit is given for BC 1001 unless BC 1002 is completed.

4 points. M W F 1:10-2:25.

GRE W 1101x-GRE W 1102y.

Elementary Course.

Equivalent to BC 1001-BC 1002. Instructor to be announced.

No credit is given for W1101 unless W1102 is completed.

4 points. M W F 6:10-7:25.

GRE W 1121y. Intensive Elementary Course.

This course is designed to cover all of Greek grammar and syntax in one semester in order to prepare the student to enter third semester Greek (BC 2011x or W 1201x) in the fall.—Staff.

4 points. M W F 1:10-2:25.

GRE BC 2011x. Prose and Poetry.

Selections from Herodotus and relevant archaic poetry; Herodotus' historiographical and literary techniques and his themes. There will be weekly assignments to review forms and syntax.—D. Selden.

Prerequisite: BC 1001-BC 1002 or W 1101-W 1102.

4 points. M W F 11:00-11:50, Th 10:00-10:50. (II)

GRE W 1201x. Prose and Poetry.

Equivalent to BC 2011.—L. Taran.

Prerequisite: BC 1001-BC 1002 or W 1101-W 1102.

4 points. Tu Th 1:10-2:25, F 1:10-2:00. (II)

GRE BC 2012y. Selections from Homer.

Detailed grammatical and literary study of several books of the Iliad or Odyssey, and introduction to the techniques of oral poetry, to the Homeric hexameter, and to the historical background of Homer.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: BC 2011 or permission of the instructor.

4 points. M W F 10:00-10:50, Th 4:10-5:00. (II)

GRE W 1202y. Homer.

Equivalent to BC 2012.—L. Slatkin.

Prerequisite: BC 2011 or permission of the instructor.

4 points. M W 2:40-3:55, F 10:00-10:50. (II)

GRE V 3305x. Tragedy.

Prerequisites: BC 2011 and BC 2012, or their equivalents.

Alternate years. Not offered in 1985-86.

3 points. (II)

GRE V 3306x. Historians.

Prerequisites: BC 2011 and BC 2012, or their equivalents.

Alternate years. Not offered in 1985-86.

3 points. (II)

GRE V 3307x. Comedy.

Aristophanes' Wasps. A detailed reading of Aristophanes' hilarious satire of the Athenian legal system, with discussion of how it was performed; the nature of its comic hero; how its humor works; the meaning of its ending.—R. Janko.

Classics

Prerequisites: BC 2011 and BC 2012, or their equivalents.

Alternate years. Offered in 1985-86.

3 points. M W 11:00-12:15. (II)

GRE V 3308y. Philosophy.

Plato's Symposium. A detailed study of the dialogue, with special attention to the relation between form and content of each speech and of the work as a whole. The interrelation between speeches also considered.—L. Taran.
Prerequisites: BC 2011 and BC 2012, or their equivalents.

Alternate years. Offered in 1985-86.

3 points. Tu Th 1:10-2:25. (II)

GRE V 3309x. Selections from Greek Literature, I.

Content of course changes each year; it may be taken in consecutive years. Topic for 1985-86: Demosthenes. One public oration and one private oration will be read: discussion of contemporary Athenian politics, society, and economy as illustrated by the speeches.—R. Bagnall.

Prerequisites: BC 2011 and BC 2012, or their equivalents.

3 points. M W 1:10-2:25. (II)

GRE V 3310y. Selections from Greek Literature, II.

Content of course changes each year; it may be taken in consecutive years. Topic for 1985-86: Aeschylus' Prometheus Bound and Sophocles' Philoctetes. Parallels and contrasts of form and point of view in Aeschylus' and Sophocles' presentations of punishment through spiritual and physical isolation.—H. Bacon.

Prerequisites: BC 2011 and BC 2012, or their equivalents.

3 points. Tu Th 2:40-3:55. (II)

GRE W 4139x. Greek Syntax.

Writing of sentences and connected passages in Greek.—D. Birge.

Prerequisite: At least four terms of Greek or equivalent.

3 points. Tu 9:00-10:50.

GRE V 3997x, GRE V 3997y. Directed Reading.

To be tested by a series of short papers, one long paper, or an oral or written examination.—Staff.

Permission of the chairman of the department required.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

GRE V 3998x, GRE V 3998y. Supervised Research in Greek Literature.

Program of research in Greek literature, with the composition of a paper embodying results.

—Staff.

Permission of the chairman of the department is required.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

GRE W 4106x-GRE 4105y. History of Greek Literature.

Lectures based on extensive readings in Greek literature from Homer to the fourth century A.D.—x: R. Lamberton; y: H. Foley.

Prerequisite: At least two terms of Greek beyond BC 2011 and BC 2012.

4 points. Tu 4:10-6:00, Th 4:10-5:00. (II)

LATIN LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE

LAT BC 1001x-LAT BC 1002y. Elementary Full-Year Course.

Autumn: Grammar, composition, and reading. Spring: Complete review of grammar and syntax; emphasis on representative readings.—L. Lenaghan.

BC 1001 is normally prerequisite to BC 1002. BC 1002 may be taken without BC 1001 by permission of the instructor. No credit is given for BC 1001 until BC 1002 is completed.

4 points. M W F 11:00-12:15.

LAT W 1101x-LAT W 1102y. Elementary Course.

Equivalent to BC 1001-BC 1002.—Staff.

Section I M W F 11:00-12:15

Section II M W F 2:40-3:55.

Section III M W F 6:10-7:25.

LAT W 1101y-LAT W 1102x. Elementary Course.

Equivalent to BC 1001-BC 1002, but given in the Spring and Autumn.—Staff.

4 points.

No credit is given for W1101 until W1102 is completed.

Section I M W F 1:10-2:25.

Section II M W F 6:10-7:25.

LAT W 1121y. Intensive Elementary Course.

This course is designed to cover all of Latin grammar and syntax in one semester in order to prepare the student to enter third semester Latin (BC 2003x or W 1202x) in the fall.—Staff.

4 points. M W F 11:00-12:15.

LAT BC 2003x. Latin Literature: Prose.

Petronius. Close reading of the Cena Tri- malchionis, and several shorter episodes from the Satyricon, in their literary and historical contexts; in particular political aspects of language and the ideology of literary forms. Systematic review of Latin grammar and basic syntax. Supplementary readings in Bakhtin and Auerbach.—D. Selden.

Prerequisite: BC 1001-BC 1002 or 2-3 years high school Latin.
4 points. M W F 10:00-10:50, Th 4:10-5:00.

(II)

LAT W1201y. Latin Literature:

Prose.

Equivalent to BC2003.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: BC 1001-BC 1002 or 2-3 years high school Latin.

4 points. M W 1:10-2:25, F 1:10-2:00. (II)

LAT BC 2004y. Vergil.

Selected books of the Aeneid with attention to meter, the epic form, and the literary and political issues of the Augustan age.—H. Foley.

Prerequisite: BC 1001-BC 1002 or 2-3 years high school Latin.

4 points. M W 2:40-3:55, Tu 4:10-5:00. (II)

LAT W 1202x. Vergil.

Equivalent to BC 2004.

Prerequisite: BC 1001-BC 1002 or 2-3 years high school Latin.

4 points.

Section I M W 2:40-3:55, F 1:10-2:00.—A. Cameron.

Section II M W 6:10-7:25, F 1:10-2:00.—Instructor to be announced. (II)

LAT W 1203y. Ovid: Selections from the Metamorphoses.

—P. Knox.

Prerequisite: BC 1001-BC 1002 or 2-3 years high school Latin.

4 points. M W 11:00-12:15, F 11:00-11:50.

(II)

LAT V 3012x. Lyric Poetry.

Selections from Catullus' polymetric poems and epigrams and from Horace's Odes and Epodes. The course combines literary analysis with work in grammar and metrics.—M. Santirocco.

Prerequisite: BC 2004 or four years of high school Latin.

3 points. Tu Th 2:40-3:55. (II)

LAT BC 3033y. Medieval Literature.

Survey of representative late Latin and medieval texts; readings from the Vulgate, the Church Fathers, sacred and secular lyric, history, romance, satire, and biography; practice in paleography.—L. Lenaghan.

Prerequisite: Three semesters of college Latin or permission of the instructor.

3 points. M W 1:10-2:25.

GRADUATE COURSES

Certain graduate courses given in the University are open to qualified majors with the consent of the chairman and the major adviser. The courses are described in the Bulletin of the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences.

MODERN GREEK LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE

MGR BC 1001x-MGR BC 1002y.

Elementary Full-Year Course.

Introduction to Demotic Greek; emphasis on both speaking and writing; basic grammar and syntax; pattern practice reinforced by laboratory attendance; easy reading.

—D. Gregory.

Work in the language laboratory is required.

No credit is given for BC 1001 until BC 1002 is completed.

3 points. Tu Th 2:30-4:00.

MGR BC 2003x. Intermediate Course, I.

More complex and idiomatic Greek through a variety of readings, including selections from Kazantzakis' Report to Greco and short stories by Myrivilis and Venezis; grammar and syntax review; conversation; short weekly compositions.—D. Gregory.

Prerequisite: BC 1001-BC 1002 or the equivalent.

3 points. Tu Th 4:10-5:55.

Additional hour for conversation M 12:00-1:00.

MGR BC 2004y. Intermediate Course, II.

Selected readings from Modern Greek literature, both poetry and prose, annotated and presented in order of difficulty, used as a basis for discussion and composition. Poems by Solomos, Palamas, Cavafy, Seferis; short stories and essays by Theotokas, Terzakis and others. The improvement of the student's language skills is still a primary goal.—D. Gregory.

Prerequisite: BC 2003 or the permission of the instructor.

3 points. Tu Th 4:10-5:25.

MGR BC 3005x. Prose of the Twentieth Century: 1930-1950.

Four works representing the main trends of twentieth-century prose up to the Civil War: Myrivilis' Life in the Tomb, Venezis' Aeolian Land, Petsalis-Diomedes' The Bell of Holy Trinity, and Kazantzakis' The Fratricides. Main themes highlighted by a few relevant poems by Cavafy, Sikelianos and Seferis.—D. Gregory.

Prerequisite: BC 2004 or permission of the instructor.

3 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:50. (II)

MGR BC 3006y. Contemporary Prose and Poetry.

Divided equally between prose and poetry: selections from a few important works written after 1950: Samarakis' I Refuse, Vassilikos' The Leaf, The Well, The Angel, Margarita Lymberaki's The Other Alexander, Seferis' Logbook III, Ritsos' Romiosini, Moonlight Sonata, Repetitions, and Elytis' The Axion Esti.—D. Gregory.

Prerequisite: BC 3005 or permission of the instructor.

3 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:55.

The spectrum of computer science ranges from the analysis of problems in a great variety of applications to the design of the machines that effect the solutions, and it includes all the linking steps between them. Computer scientists are interested not only in mathematics and engineering, but also in the sources of the problems, wherever they lie. Thus, although most recent graduates in Computer Science are now in computer science proper, either in industry or in graduate degree programs, many are in medical school, business school, or other such activities, planning to combine computer science with another strong interest in their careers.

The Computer Science curriculum has a double core, partially in areas with an immediate relationship to the computer, such as programming languages, compilers, operating systems, and computer architecture, and partially in theoretical computer science and mathematics. A broad range of upper level courses is available in topics such as artificial intelligence, computational complexity, and the analysis of algorithms, combinatorial methods, computer circuitry, data bases, mathematical models for computation, optimization, and software systems. Thus, students obtain the background to pursue their interests both in applications and in theoretical developments.

The Computer Center operates two interactive systems, making nearly 100 terminals available at convenient locations on the Columbia campus, including some dormitories, with two DEC 20 RO systems. It also operates a major research facility with an IBM. In addition, a small but powerful minicomputer is available for faculty and student research. Most important computer languages are supported, including ALGOL, APL, BASIC, COBOL, FORTRAN, LISP, PASCAL, PL/I and SNOBOL. Additional equipment acquisitions are planned.

In addition to course work, students sometimes assist faculty members on research projects or on the development of software. Qualified majors often serve as consultants at the Computer Center.

There are several different introductory courses in computer programming. Students may elect only one of them for degree credit. Freshmen considering a Computer Science major should take W1003. Non-majors usually take W 1001, Introduction to Computer

Computer Science

Programming, A. There is also an intermediate course for nonmajors, W 1011, Intermediate Computer Programming. By taking W1001 or W1003 early in their college years, non-majors are able to use the computer in their upper-level studies in other departments.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Students who plan a major in Computer Science should see a Program Consultant by the start of the sophomore year.

A total of 13 courses are required for the major.

and an approved choice of four additional courses to be selected from computer science, mathematics, or statistics, at least one of which must be selected from the following list of computer science courses: W 4115, W 4117, W 4118, W 4241, W 4242, W 4705, W 4701.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

Five courses are required for the minor: Computer Science W 3203, W 3131, W 3232, W 3823, and one of the following: W 3824, W 4115, or W 4701.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

CSC W 1001x, CSC W 1001y. Introduction to Computer Programming, A.

Intended primarily for students in the Arts and Sciences divisions. General introduction to computer programming. Emphasis on learning to write programs to solve problems in familiar applications, such as payroll, computer-assisted instruction, ecology, library science, literary text analysis, cryptology, and game playing. Rudiments of structured programming. PASCAL.—Instructor to be announced.

Laboratory fee $20.

3 points.

Section I: Hours to be arranged.

Section II: Hours to be arranged.

CSC W 1003x, CSC W 1003y. Introduction to Computer Programming, B.

Intended primarily for students considering a major in computer science. Honors level introduction to computer programming. PASCAL. Course approval must be obtained in Computer Science Department office prior to registration.—Instructor to be announced.

Laboratory fee $20.

3 points.

x: Hours to be arranged.

y: Hours to be arranged.

CSC W 1005x, CSC W 1005y. Introduction to Computer Programming, C.

Intended primarily for engineering students. General introduction to computer programming, with engineering applications. Structured program design. FORTRAN. Since each section of this course is limited in size, section approval must be obtained in Computer Science Department office prior to registration.—Instructor to be announced.

Laboratory fee $20.

3 points.

Section I: Hours to be arranged.

Section II: Hours to be arranged.

CSC W1011x, CSC W1011y. Intermediate Computer Programming.

Continuation of introductory courses; simple record structures and file processing, in both advanced BASIC and PASCAL; systems of programs and files, modeling; round off error; elementary principles of machine language and assembly language coding.—Instructor to be announced.

Laboratory fee: $20.

Prerequisite: W 1001 or W 1005.

3 points.

x: Hours to be arranged.

y: Hours to be arranged.

CSC W 3131x, CSC W 3131y.

Data Structures.

Data types and structure: arrows, stacks, singly and doubly linked lists, queues, trees, sets, and graphs; programming techniques for processing such structures; recursive programming, internal sorting and searching, hashing, garbage collection; storage management; rudiments of the analysis of algorithms.—Instructor to be announced.

Corequisite: W 3203.

4 points.

x: Hours to be arranged.

y: Hours to be arranged.

CSC W 3152x, CSC W 3152y.

Software Design Laboratory.

Principles of software engineering including definition and use of abstract data types, top-down design, structured programming, modular decomposition, and testing and debugging strategies. A substantial amount of programming is required. It is strongly recommended that this course be taken concurrently with CSC W 3232.

Prerequisite: CSC W 3131.

1.5 points. Hours to be arranged.

CSC W 3203x, CSC W 3203y. Discrete Mathematics I: Introduction to Combinatorics and Graph Theory.

Mathematical induction, counting arguments (permutations and combinations, elementary finite probability, generating functions, recurrence relations, inclusion-exclusion principle), and topics in graph theory (isomorphism, planarity, circuits, trees, and directed graphs).

Prerequisite: Any introductory programming course.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

CSC W 3204y. Finite Mathematics.

Introduction to mathematical methods in the natural and social sciences: probability, the solution of systems of linear equations, introduction to linear programming and the theory of antagonistic games.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: W 3203.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

CSC W 3205x, CSC W 3205y. Discrete Mathematics II: Introduction to Discrete Structures.

Inductive definitions, sets and relations, elementary logic, boolean algebra, and elementary algebraic structures.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

CSC W 3232x, CSC W 3232y.

Fundamental Algorithms.

Continuation of W 3131. Pattern matching, lexical analysis, parsing, backtracking, divide and conquer, generating combinatorial objects, graph searching, spanning trees, external sorting and searching, 2-3 trees, balanced trees, B-trees, files; elements of data base design; other topics as time permits. Analysis of algorithms is stressed throughout.

—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: W 3131.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

CSC W 3251x. Scientific Computation I.

Major topics of scientific computations: properties of floating point arithmetic, numerical stability and conditioning, interpolation, integration and approximation of scalar functions, nonlinear equations and ordinary differential equations. Covers also computational methods of linear algebra for solving systems of linear equations, linear least squares and the eigenvalues. The computational complexity of some of these problems will be discussed. The computer implementation of algorithms is stressed.

Prerequisites: Calculus I and II, Mathematics E 1210, Engineering Mathematics E 3101.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

CSC W 3251y. Scientific Computation II.

A continuation of CSC W 3251x.

Prerequisite: CSC W 3251x.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

CSC W 3261y. Computability and Formal Languages.

Formal models of computation and properties; Turing machines, recursive functions; Church-Turing thesis; decidability and undecidability; recursively enumerable sets; concepts and properties of formal languages; regular, context-free, context-sensitive, phrase-structured; grammars; relationships to automata; finite state, push-down, linear bounded, Turing machines.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: W 3131.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

CSC W 3823x, CSC W 3823y. Digital Logic.

Number representation, boolean algebra, combinatorial logic, Karnaugh maps, circuit minimization, NAND and NOR logic, fault detection, implementation of gates, integrated circuits, pass transistor networks, flip-flops, latches, adders, counters and other basic functional circuits, sequential circuits, clocking.

Computer Science

Prerequisite: Any introductory programming course.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

CSC W 3824y. Computer Organization I.

Overview of computer organization, register transfer sequences, micro-operations, control functions, instruction codes, bus organization, ALU's, interrupts, memory, pipelining, I/O.

Prerequisite: CSC W 3823.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

CSC W 3998x, CSC W 3998y.

Undergraduate Projects in Computer Science.

This course may be repeated for credit, but not for a total of more than 3 points of degree credit. Independent project involving laboratory work, computer programming, analytical investigation, or engineering design.—Staff.

Prerequisite: Approval by a faculty member who agrees to supervise the work.

Up to 3 points. Hours to be arranged.

CSC W 4114y. Assembly Language and Systems Programming.

Assembly language programming; assemblers and macro processors; linkers and loaders; elements of job control language; large-scale programming environment.—J. Gielchinsky.

Not allowed for credit if W 3123 is taken.

Prerequisite: Any introductory course in computer programming.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

CSC W 4115x. Programming Languages and Translators, I.

Introduction to programming language design and syntax, the contour model of semantics, Algo 60, Algol 68, Lisp, functional programming. Introduction to compiler structure and construction, parsing techniques, code generation and optimization.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: CSC W 3131.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

CSC W 4117y. Programming Languages and Translators, II.

Continuation of Course W 4115. Techniques in computer language implementation; application of formal language theory to design of compilers; implementation of language features such as nested procedures, reentrancy and recursion; code optimization; run-time storage organization.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisites: W 4115 and W 3261.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

CSC W 4118x, CSC W 4118y. Operating Systems.

Design and implementation of operating systems. Topics include process management, process synchronization and interprocess communication, memory management, virtual memory, interrupt handling, processor scheduling, device management, I/O, and file systems. Case study of the UNIX operating system. A programming project will be required.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisites: CSC W 3131, CSC W 3152.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

CSC W 4119x, CSC W 4119y. Computer Networks and Data Bases.

The design of system software to support computer network and database management systems, distributed data bases, layered protocol architecture, distributed operating systems. A programming project will be required.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: CSC W 4118.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

CSC W 4203x. Graph Theory.

General introduction to graph theory, emphasizing algorithms: Eulerian paths and circuits, shortest paths, trees, minimum spanning trees, the number of spanning trees, depth-first search, network flows, leipartite matching and the marriage problem, the transportation problem, minimum-core flows, other topics as time permits.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: W 3203.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

(VI)

CSC W 4205x, CSC W 4205y. Combinatorial Theory.

Permutations and combinations, generating functions, recurrence relations, the inclusion-exclusion method. Polya's enumeration methods. Other topics as time permits.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisites: CSC W 3203 and a course in calculus.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

CSC W 4231x. Analysis of Algorithms, I.

Course E 6232 is a continuation of this course. Some of the topics described below will not be covered until E 6232. Representation and generation of combinatorial objects; methods for the analysis of algorithms; counting and asymptotic evaluation; analysis of sorting, searching, algorithms on graphs, operations on strings, arithmetic operations, matrix operations, Fourier transform; models of computation; the Turing machine model, the random-access model, circuit complexity and the VLSI model; probabilistic algorithms; elements of abstract complexity theory; complexity hierarchies; polynomial and NP problems; lower bounds on the complexity of various problems in various models; worst-case and average behavior of algorithms; diophantine complexity; applications to cryptography and public key systems; linear programming and its complexity; the simplex and Khachian methods; average behavior of the simplex method. Other topics as time permits.—Z. Galil.

Computer Science

Prerequisites: W 3131, W 3203.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

CSC W 4241x. Numerical Algorithms and Their Complexity, I.

Modern theory and practice of computation on digital computers. Covers design and analysis of numerical algorithms. Techniques for analyzing computational complexity and errors. Solutions of non-linear equations, polynomial equations, linear systems, interpolation, approximation, eigenvalues and eigenvectors, optimization, ordinary and partial differential equations. Some of these topics are covered in the sequel, CSC W 4242y.—J. Traub.

Prerequisite: Knowledge of programming language. Some knowledge of differential equations and linear algebra is desirable.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

CSC W 4242y. Numerical Algorithms and Their Complexity, II.

A continuation of CSC W 4241x.—G. Wasilkowski.

Prerequisite: CSC W 4241x.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

CSC W 4701x. Artificial Intelligence.

This course is designed to give a senior level student a broad understanding of the basic techniques in use today for building intelligent computer systems. State-space representations, problem reduction, means-end analysis, and/or graphs. Heuristic searching: depth-first, breadth-first, best-first, hill-climbing, divide and conquer, minimax, α — β ; predicate calculus, resolution theorem proving; Horn clause theorem provers; AI systems and languages; goals and contexts; issues of knowledge representation; learning and concept formation; LISP programming; other topics as time permits.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: W 3131.

3 points. Hours to be announced.

CSC W 4841y. Introduction to VLSI

—G. McGuire.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

CSC W 4705y. Natural Language Processing.

An introduction to the artificial intelligence approach to human language processing. Topics such as conceptual representation, story understanding, language generation, question answering, and the relation between computer models and cognitive psychology. Computer exercises in several of these areas. Some prior or concurrent exposure to AI and LISP would be helpful.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: W 3131.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

CSC G 4801x. Mathematical Logic.

Introduction to mathematical logic. Fundamental notions of set theory and recursion theory; detailed discussion of propositional and predicate logic: completeness, (un-)decidability, and theorem-proving.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: Permission of the instructor.

3 points. Hours to be arranged. (VI)

CSC W 4995x, CSC W 4995y. Special Topics in Computer Science.

Special topics arranged as the need and availability arise. Topics are usually offered on a one-time basis. This course may be repeated for credit. Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: Permission of the instructor.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

CSC W 4996x, CSC W 4996y. Special Topics in Computer Science.

A continuation of Course W 4995, when the special topic is to be offered over two semesters.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: Permission of the instructor.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

Computer Science-Philosophy G 4802y. Mathematical Logic II.

Axiomatic set theory: ordinals, cardinals, the axiom of choice, models of set theory. Definability; hierarchies of sets of integers. Connections between set theory and theory of computability.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: G 4801 or equivalent.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

The Barnard Dance Department offers studio classes in modern dance, ballet, tap dance, and jazz. In addition, it offers skilled dancers the opportunity to perform in workshop presentations, in concerts, and in programs integrated with theatre productions and those of other departments in the College. It sponsors symposia, master classes conducted by guest artists, and other special events. Interested students should confer with the dance faculty.

In keeping with the philosophy of liberal education, the dance course offerings aim to provide students with both conceptual and technical background in the craft of the art form today, as well as an understanding of its historical development. After graduation, a student interested in performance, choreography, or critical writing would continue to develop as an artist through the practice of the craft. Those interested in teaching, in dance therapy, in historical research, or in the specialized systems of dance notation would pursue further study in graduate school or in a special institute.

Students looking toward a career in dance performance or choreography should consult the announcement on the Program in the Arts, Page 77, and should discuss their plans with the department chairman as soon as possible.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR (Program in the Arts)

Students wishing to major in Dance within the Program in the Arts are required to take the following thirteen courses:

Arts BC 3031

Imagery and Form in the Arts

Arts BC 3351

Junior Colloquium

Arts BC 3591

Senior Seminar

Dance BC 2561, BC 2562

Dance Workshop I, II

Dance BC 2563, BC 2564

Dance Composition

Dance BC 2565, BC 2566

History of Dance

Dance BC 2567

Fundamentals of Music for Dancers

Dance BC 3571, BC 3572

Dance Workshop III, IV

Dance BC 3574

Contemporary Choreographers and their Works

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

A total of 6 courses to be selected in consultation with the department chairman are required for the minor. The selection must include three from courses BC 1555, BC 2561, BC 2562, BC 2563, BC 2564 and BC 3571, BC 3572; and three from BC 2565, BC 2566, BC 2567, BC 2568, BC 3574 and BC 3576.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

DAN BC 1551x, DAN BC 1552y.

Modern Dance Technique and Theory.

Studio work in intermediate modern dance technique, including study of the elements of movement based on the theories and techniques of selected modern dance artists. Emphasis is on experiencing dance; readings, films, and discussion accompany the studio work.—S. Genter.

Prerequisite: Intermediate skill level in modern dance technique.

2 points. Tu Th 4:10-6:00

DAN BC 1553x, DAN BC 1554y. Ballet Technique and Theory.

Studio work in intermediate ballet technique, including study of the components of movement using examples selected from various ballet traditions. Emphasis is on experiencing ballet as a dance technique. Comparison of the styles of the different schools through the study of variations; readings, films, and discussion accompany the studio work.—J. Ansley.

Prerequisite: Intermediate skill level in ballet technique.

2 points. M W 4:10-6:00

DAN BC 1555y. Ensemble Dance Repertory.

The learning of excerpts and an entire dance work from the ensemble repertory of major choreographers as well as a commissioned work by a professional choreographer-in-residence. Introduction to reading Labanotation. Films, videotapes, readings, and discussion accompany the studio work.

—J. Soares.

Prerequisite: Intermediate skill level in ballet or modern dance.

2 points. Tu Th 2:40-3:55.

DANCE WORKSHOPS: ANALYSIS OF STRUCTURE AND FUNCTION IN DANCE.

Studio work in ballet and modern dance technique, plus a weekly session of lecture/discussion. Emphasis on either ballet or modern dance; all students must schedule five studio classes per week in addition to the lecture/discussion session.

DAN BC 2561x. Dance Workshop I.

Functional anatomy for the dancer; study of the structural and mechanical principles of human movement. Assignments include readings and keeping a journal.—S. Genter.

Prerequisite: Intermediate skill in either ballet or modern dance.

4 points. F 12:30-2:00, plus studio classes as described above.

DAN BC 2562y. Dance Workshop II.

Analysis of space, time, and force in dance movement, including exploration of how these elements operate in producing dance style. Assignments include readings, keeping a journal, and developing short movement studies.—S. Genter.

Prerequisite: Intermediate skill in either ballet or modern dance.

4 points. F 12:30-2:00, plus studio classes as described above.

DAN BC 3571x. Dance Workshop III.

Advanced analysis of movement with emphasis on interrelationships and varying uses of rhythm, space, and dynamics for the developing dancer. Assignments include learning excerpts from dance repertory, readings, keeping a notebook, and presentations of individual research for discussion.—J. Soares.

Prerequisites: Dance BC 2561 and BC 2562.

4 points. F 12:30-2:00, plus studio classes as described above.

DAN BC 3572y. Dance Workshop IV.

Advanced analysis of the relationship of technique to style in dance movement through the study of specific dance works. Assignments include study of the materials through readings, films, and video tapes; keeping a notebook with analysis of works; and performance of the dances, with students responsible for lighting and costuming the presentation.—J. Soares.

Prerequisites: Dance BC 2561, BC 2562, and BC 3571.

4 points. F 12:30-2:00, plus studio classes as described above.

Dance

DAN BC 2563x. Form in Dance Composition.

Development of dance form through the manipulation, according to formal composition principles, of rhythm, energy and design in movement.—J. Soares.

Prerequisite: Facility in dance technique.

Permission of the instructor required. Enrollment limited to 12 students.

3 points. M W 1:10-2:25.

DAN BC 2564y. Content in Dance Composition.

Research in the source materials of dance composition and exploration of their uses in choreography, including gesture, movement texture, rhythmic structure, movement shape, and literary ideas. Emphasis on unity of style in the work of each student.—J. Soares.

Prerequisite: Facility in dance technique. Permission of the instructor required. Enrollment limited to 12 students.

3 points. M W 1:10-2:25.

DAN BC 2565x, DAN BC 2566y. History of Dance.

History and aesthetics of dance explored through film, slides, readings, and studio demonstration. Autumn Term: dance as ritual, dance in antiquity, folk and ethnic dance forms, and dance in the theater of the East—C. Novack. Spring Term: ballet and modern dance from the Renaissance to the present time.—J. Roosevelt.

3 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:50. (I)

DAN BC 2567y. Fundamentals of Music for Dancers.

An intensive study of musicianship skills and musical literacy designed for students of dance. Analysis of the elements of rhythm, tonality, musical structure, texture and style, with laboratory work in ear-training, pitch reading, rhythm skills, score-reading and elementary composition.—E. Fleischer.

Alternate years. Not offered in 1985-86.

3 points.

DAN BC 2568y. Dance and Movement: An Anthropological Approach.

An investigation of the theories and methods used to observe and analyze dance and movement in symbolic and social contexts. Critical examination of texts from the literature of anthropology and of dance. Course includes film-viewing, practice in making observations, and a fieldwork project. Open to students in dance, anthropology, and related fields.—C. Novack.

Alternate years. Offered in 1985-86.

3 points. Tu Th 2:40-3:55.

DAN BC 3574y. Contemporary Choreographers and Their Works.

Form, style and content of selected contemporary choreographers. Sources include film, videotape, attendance at rehearsals and concerts, and interviews.—A. Kisselgoff.

Alternate years. Offered in 1985-86.

3 points. F 2:10-4:00.

DAN BC 3576y. Dance Criticism.

Intensive practice in writing about dance. Readings drawn from nineteenth- and twentieth-century dance criticism. Observation includes weekly performances and classroom videotape sessions.—T. Tobias.

Prerequisite: facility in writing, sample of which must be submitted to Dance Office prior to first class meeting. Permission of the instructor required. Enrollment limited to 12 students. Alternate years. Not offered in 1985-86.

3 points.

STUDIO DANCE COURSES

Courses listed below may be offered in fulfillment of the physical education requirement.

For information regarding time and place of classes and instructors, consult the Directory of Classes for the appropriate semester.

Modern Dance

Technique of contemporary dance with particular emphasis on good alignment and an understanding of the principles of body movement; opportunities for experiments in improvisation and in creating movement phrases.

DAN BC 1330x, DAN BC 1330y. Beginning Modern Dance. (A)

DAN BC 1331x, DAN BC 1331y. Low Intermediate Modern Dance. (B)

DAN BC 2332x, DAN BC 2332y. Intermediate Modern Dance. (C)

DAN BC 3333x, DAN BC 3333y. Advanced Modern Dance. (D)

Ballet

Technique of classical ballet.

DAN BC 1135x, DAN BC 1135y. Beginning Ballet. (A)

Previous study of another dance style strongly recommended before beginning ballet.

DAN BC 1136x, DAN BC 1136y. Low Intermediate Ballet. (B)

DAN BC 2137x, DAN BC 2137y. Intermediate Ballet. (C)

DAN BC 3138x, DAN BC 3138y. Advanced Ballet. (D)

Jazz Dance

Incorporation of ballet and modern dance technique in the distinctive style of jazz dance.

DAN BC 2248x, y. Jazz Dance (B, C)
Section I Low Intermediate Jazz (B).
Section II Intermediate Jazz (C).

Tap Dance

Basic tap dance steps and dances of traditional tap styles, including buck, soft shoe, and rhythm buck.

DAN BC 1446x. Beginning Tap Dance. (A)

DAN BC 2447y. Intermediate Tap Dance. (C)

The Department of Economics offers a broad course of study in economic theory and applied economics. The study of economics is an important foundation for a student's general understanding of modern history and society. The major programs in economics also prepare students for graduate work in economics, business, law, public administration, international relations and related fields, as well as for careers in business, finance, and government. The aim of the Barnard program is to foster a critical understanding of economics and its relations to other disciplines in the course of developing students' mastery of modern economic theory and tools of analysis.

Students planning to major in economics or political economy should complete Economics BC 1001 and BC 1002 before the beginning of their junior year. The department recommends that students plan their programs so as to complete all major requirements except one or two elective courses before they begin to write their senior essay.

For information regarding credit for advanced placement, students should consult the department chairman.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

There are two tracks for the major in economics equal in rigor and number of courses required, but different in scope and focus. The track in Economics will prepare students with the analytical, mathematical, and economic tools now expected of entering graduate students in economics and useful for graduate study in related fields such as business. The track in Political Economy embraces some techniques of contemporary analysis but emphasizes the rediscovery of the roots and traditions of economic thought and focuses on interconnections between social forces, political institutions, and economic power. This track constitutes an excellent preparation for a variety of professional schools and careers.

Prospective majors should discuss their programs with any member of the department no later than their sophomore year. At the time of declaring a major the student also chooses a major adviser who will advise her as to choice of program and courses, and help in the choice of a senior essay topic and adviser.

Students who wish to complete a double or joint major including economics should consult the chairman of the department as early in their planning as possible.

Economics

The Economics major requires 2 courses in Calculus and 10 in Economics, including

Economics BC 1001, BC 1002	Introduction to Economics
Economics BC 3033	Intermediate Macroeconomic Theory
Economics BC 3035	Intermediate Microeconomic Theory
Economics V 1411	Introductory Probability and Statistics for Economics

3 electives, 2 of which require Economics BC 1001-BC 1002 as a prerequisite; and Economics BC 3061-BC 3062.

Political Economy

The Political Economy major requires 12 courses, including

Economics BC 1001, BC 1002	Introduction to Economics
Economics BC 3034	Intermediate Macroeconomic Theory
or
Economics BC 3035	Intermediate Microeconomic Theory
Economics BC 3041	The Theoretical Foundations of Political Economy
Economics BC 3042	The Policy Applications of Political Economy

5 electives, including 2 Economics courses that require Economics BC 1001 and BC 1002 as prerequisites, and an upper-level course in Political Science; and Economics BC 3061, BC 3062.

Political Economy majors must have their elective programs approved by their major advisers and file a major elective form with the department no later than registration of the first semester of their senior year.

Political Economy majors who wish to take International Economics, Industrial Organization, Labor Economics, Comparative Economic Systems or Public Finance in their elective programs should take Intermediate Microeconomic Theory. Students who wish to take electives in Monetary Economics, Development, or International Finance should take Intermediate Macroeconomic Theory.

Political Economy majors who plan to go to graduate school in Business or in International Relations with an Economics concentration should take one semester of credit college math (either pre-calculus or calculus), both Intermediate Theory courses, and Economics V 1411.

Economics

Political Economy majors who plan to go to graduate PhD programs in Economics should take one year of calculus, both Intermediate Theory courses, and Economics V 1411 and Econometrics among their Economics electives.

Mathematics Training for the Major

The department expects all majors to have a working knowledge of arithmetic, high-school algebra, and the fundamentals of analytic geometry. Beyond that, we highly recommend that majors take at least two semesters of calculus (required of economics-track majors). General information for Economics students (available at the department office) contains specific departmental suggestions concerning appropriate mathematics courses.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

The minor in economics requires 5 courses, including Economics BC 1001, BC 1002, BC 3033 or BC 3034 or BC 3035, or an equivalent, and two electives, one of which has Economics BC 1001, BC 1002 as prerequisite.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

Barnard Economics BC 1001 and BC 1002 are equivalent to Columbia Economics W 1104 and 1103, Barnard Economics BC 3033 and BC 3034 to Columbia W 3213, and Barnard BC 3035 to Columbia W 3211.

GENERAL COURSES

Courses listed under this heading may be taken without previous study of economics.

ECO BC 1001x, ECO BC 1001y.

Introduction to Economics.

The department posts sign-up sheets for admission to sections of Economics BC 1001 and BC 1002 outside Lehman 4A. For Autumn Term courses, these are posted March 15, and for Spring Term courses, November 1.

Basic concepts of economic analysis, with emphasis on the aggregate economy; essentials of supply and demand, national income and its determination, United States economic institutions, government, finance and monetary economics, economic growth and inequality. (Macroeconomic Principles)—Staff.

Enrollment limited to 40 students per section.

See department for sign-up sheets.

CONTEMPORARY PROBLEMS COURSES

The analysis of contemporary problems using institutional and traditional approaches.

Prerequisite: One course in economics or sophomore standing.

ECO BC 2010y. Sex, Discrimination, and the Division of Labor.

An introduction to the role of women in the economy, including the productive uses of women's labor in the labor market, housework and childbearing; role of government and unions in structuring women's options, and some international comparisons.—C. Conrad.

3 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:50.

ECO BC 2025x. World Economy.

Not offered in 1985-86.

3 points. (V)

ECO BC 2026y. Modern Capitalism.

Organization of Production under contemporary capitalism and resulting class structure. Contemporary mainstream economic analysis contrasted with that of the institutionalists, traditional Marxists, and current radical schools of thought.—J. Greenbaum.

3 points. Hours to be arranged. (V)

ECO BC 2032y. Money and Capital Markets.

Institutional nature and economics function of money and capital markets, primarily in U.S., but also “Euro-currency” credit markets. Each market described and related to broad issues of credit flows from savers to investors, interest rate determination, financial liquidity, etc.—P. Linton.

Prerequisite: BC 1001 or BC 1002.

3 points. Hours to be arranged. (V)

SPECIALIZED COURSES

ECO BC 3011x. Poverty and Income Distribution.

Issues of definition and measurement relating to poverty and distribution of income in the U.S., analysis of cross-section and time-series data; alternative economic theories of poverty and income distribution; empirical tests; evaluation of policies on poverty and distribution, e.g., transfers, wage subsidies, training programs.—G. DeFreitas.

Prerequisites: BC 1001 and BC 1002, or permission of the instructor.

3 points. M W 1:10-2:25. (V)

ECO BC 3016x. Government Finance and Fiscal Policy.

Principles of government expenditure and taxation; alternative theoretical perspectives on government’s role in a “mixed economy”; structure of U.S. tax system, with emphasis on tax incidence, the effects of taxes on economic behavior, and detailed analysis of selected policy issues.—D. Arsen.

Prerequisites: BC 1001, BC 1002, and BC 3035, or permission of the instructor.

3 points. Tu Th 2:40-3:55. (V)

ECO V 1411x. Introductory Probability and Statistics for Economics.

Introduction to probability and statistics with applications to economics; descriptive statistics; basic probability theory; point and interval estimation; hypothesis testing; basic aspects of regression and correlation analysis.—G. Hardouvelis.

Prerequisite: Sophomore standing or permission of the instructor.

3 points.

The Barnard Education Program is open to Barnard, Columbia, and General Studies students who are interested in teaching children or adolescents on the elementary or secondary level, who are considering working with young people or adults in human service agencies, or who are preparing for careers related to education. The Education Program concentration is taken in conjunction with a major in an approved field of study and may constitute a minor. Interested students should consult with the Education Program faculty.

Applicants are accepted on the basis of good academic standing, evidence of interest in the field of education, and capacity for growth in areas vital to the teaching-learning experience. Students may apply for admission during the sophomore year, and applications are available in the Program office at the beginning of the Autumn Term.

The Education Program is approved by the New York State Education Department. Graduates of the Program are recommended for New York State Provisional Certification which makes them eligible for membership in the Interstate Certification Agreement, a reciprocal certification arrangement among thirty-one states. Consistent with the program requirements, certification is based on demonstration of competency in both academic and field settings. Beginning September 2, 1984, students must take the National Teachers Exam as part of the certification process.

Elementary School Program

This track leads to the New York State Provisional Common Branch Certificate (N-6). Students participating in the elementary program must complete the following course of study:

One Psychology course, chosen from among:

Psychology BC 1105

Psychology BC 1127 or BC 1129

Psychology BC 1130 or BC 1132

Psychology BC 1134

Psychology of Learning

Developmental Psychology

Human Memory and Learning

Educational Psychology

One Foundations course, chosen from among:

Philosophy of Education

Education

Sociology V 3225
Education BC 2032
History BC 3461

Sociology of Education
Contemporary Issues in Education
Education in American History

A third course from either of the above categories; and

One methods course.

Education BC 2052

Competency Development in Elementary Education

During the junior year Spring Term, all students entering the elementary education program take Education BC 2052, which involves a classroom internship one morning per week.

Secondary School Program

Programs leading to the New York State Provisional Secondary Certificate (7-12) are offered in the fields of English, Foreign and Ancient Languages, Mathematics, the Sciences, and Social Studies. Students participating in the secondary program must complete the following course of study:

One Psychology course, chosen from Psychology BC 1105, BC 1127 or BC 1129, BC 1130 or BC 1132, or BC 1134; and

One Foundations course, chosen from Philosophy V 3758, Sociology V 3225, Education BC 2032, or History BC 3461; and

One methods course.

All students entering the secondary education program take one methods course in the student's specific subject area during the junior year. The following course is available at Barnard:

English BC 3192

Senior Program

Senior students in the Education Program participate in Education BC 3063, Teaching in the Elementary or Secondary Schools, the field-based student teaching experience for one semester during their last year. This course provides students with the opportunity to teach. Through close supervision, the student examines the teaching experience and the interrelationship between the subject area, child and human development, the role of the school in society, and the teacher as a decision-maker. Student teaching includes observation and teaching five mornings a week for the semester.

Education BC 3064, Seminar in the Teaching-Learning Process, is taken concurrently with student teaching. The seminar provides a forum for discussions of the principles and practices of classroom teaching and examines in depth the education process in our society. Student teaching and the seminar should be registered for as Education BC 3063x and BC 3064x in the Autumn term, or Education BC 3063y and BC 3064y in the Spring term. It is strongly advised that no more than two other courses be taken with student teaching and the seminar.

Education

Senior year student teaching may conflict with other training opportunities at Barnard (e.g. Psychology BC 3465, BC 3466, assisting at the Center for Toddler Development). Students with these interests should arrange their schedules appropriately.

Requirements for the Minor

The minor requires a minimum of 5 courses: Education BC 3063, Education BC 3064, one Methods course, one Foundations course, and one Psychology course from those courses cited above.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

EDU BC 2032x. Contemporary

Issues in Education.

The offering in English is designed to foster good writing, effective speaking, and heightened understanding of literary works that enrich our cultural heritage.

Students majoring in English are encouraged to develop their responsiveness to the literary imagination and their sensitivity to literary form through disciplined attention to language and to critical and scholarly methods.

Non-majors may satisfy the distribution requirement in literature by electing appropriate courses listed under LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

A major program consists of at least ten courses planned in sequence:

1. In the sophomore or junior year, the student will complete three required courses: an introduction to the methods of literary analysis (BC 3193, Critical Writing), and an introduction to literary works of the Renaissance and the Enlightenment (BC 3159-BC 3160, The English Colloquium).
2. In addition, she will elect five advanced courses so distributed as to extend her knowledge of English and American literature of different periods. Two of these courses must be in literature before 1900 (BC 3153-BC 3179). She may select two of the five from courses BC 3103-BC 3140.
3. As a senior, she will complete advanced work in two seminars (BC 3997, BC 3998). For one of these seminars a student with a particular interest in writing, speech, or theatre and who has had two courses in her special field, may substitute an independent project in an advanced course in that special field.

English

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

A minor consists of at least five English courses: BC 3155, Chaucer, or BC 3163 or BC 3164, Shakespeare, or BC 3167, Milton; two additional courses in literature before 1900 (BC 3153-BC 3179); and two electives.

Program in the Arts: Students interested in this Program should see the announcement on page 77 and should consult with the Program Chairman or a member of the Program Committee.

stage image in set, costume, and lights.—Theatre staff.

3 points. M W 1:10-2:25.

Laboratory hours to be arranged.

ENG BC 3134x, BC 3134y. Play Production.

x: I. Scenic Design.

Study and practice of the basic elements of scenic design for the realization of dramatic texts in performance. The course includes guest lecturers from the professional theatre.—Theatre staff.

Prerequisite: BC 3133x or permission of the instructor.

3 points.

M W 4:10-5:25. Laboratory hours to be arranged.

y: II. Costume Design.

Study and practice of the basic elements of costume design for the realization of dramatic texts in performance. The course includes guest lecturers from the professional theatre.—Theatre staff.

Prerequisite: BC 3133x or permission of the instructor.

M W 4:10-5:25. Laboratory hours to be arranged.

III. Lighting Design.

Study and practice of the basic elements of lighting design for the realization of dramatic texts in performance. The course includes guest lecturers from the professional theatre.—Theatre staff.

Prerequisite: BC 3133x or permission of the instructor. Not offered in 1985-86.

ENG BC 3135x, ENG BC 3136y.

Actor's and Director's

Interpretation of Dramatic Literature.

3 points.

I. Scene Study for the Actor.

The basic problems of the actor as she encounters text. Methods of script analysis from the point of view of the actor, physical and vocal exercises as tools of exploration and interpretation, and the application of those tools to scene study.—A. Brody.

Prerequisite: BC 3131, BC 3132, or permission of the instructor.

Tu Th 2:40-5:25.

II. Scene Study for the Director.

The basic problems of the director as she encounters text. Script analysis from the point of view of the director, directorial conceptualization, and the translation of concept into stage dynamics.—Theatre staff.

Prerequisite: BC 3131, BC 3132, or permission of the instructor.

M W 9:00-10:50. Laboratory hours to be arranged.

ENG BC 3139x, ENG BC 3139y.

Special Studies in Theatre.

Advanced study of specialized problems in the theatre for the actor or director, with particular attention to the demands of verse, style and experimental forms, textual analysis from the point of view of the actor or director, the collaborative process, the sustained through-line.

—Theatre staff and guest artists.

Prerequisites: BC 3135x, BC 3136y, or permission of the instructor.

Environmental Science studies the energy and material levels and pathways of natural earth systems in order to assess the effect of exceedances of these levels caused by the inadvertent impacts of human technologic systems, such as the exposure to radioactive materials, release of toxic substances, carbon dioxide build-up, elimination of species, and despoliation of the landscape. It provides a rational scientific basis for the management of earth space and resources. Environmental Science combines the traditional sciences into a holistic view of natural systems, especially with regard to their connections to human designed systems. While dependent on the findings of the natural sciences to describe the separate pieces of environmental systems, it uncovers convergent relations that reflect coherences among the disciplines. The holism of environmental science is a thinking process that focuses on a unique dynamics on life on earth and presents this material as an organized body of knowledge.

The curriculum recognizes the need for broad and well-trained scientists to cope with the complexities of contemporary and anticipated disruptions of environmental systems. Majors must acquire a real world understanding of hybrid built and natural systems, as well as the content and methodology of science. They will study the theoretical and applied aspects of environmental science and will be exposed to a range of current and future problems.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

- I. Environmental Science BC 1001, BC 1002
- II. One of the following options:
 1. 2 courses from each of 3 of the following departments: Biology, Chemistry, Geology, Physics,
or
 2. 5 course concentration in one of the following: Biology, Chemistry, Geology, Physics
- III. Four courses to be selected from the following:

Environmental Science

Environmental Science BC 3015

Environmental Science BC 3016

Environmental Science BC 3019

Environmental Science BC 3022

Environmental Science BC 3035

Environmental Science BC 3037

Hydrology and Water Resources

Graduating seniors are required to submit a report on an environmental research project by taking Environmental Science BC 3999, or as an extension of another course.

Majors in Environmental Science are encouraged to take courses in the social sciences in order to become familiar with the languages and approaches of these disciplines to environmental issues.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

Five courses are required:

Environmental Science BC 1001, BC 1002, and electives that form a coherent program in conjunction with the student's major field.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

ENV BC 1001x, ENV BC 1002y.

Environmental Science.

Global and local dynamics of natural systems of the planet Earth, and their capacities to satisfy human demands for land, food, water, energy, minerals, open space, waste disposal. Impact of population growth, technology, and urban life-styles on planetary and regional equilibria. Autumn Term: physical processes of the atmosphere, hydrosphere, pedosphere, and lithosphere, and their vulnerabilities to human activities. Spring Term; ecosystem analysis of local and global processes in the biosphere, geographical ecology and biome classification; disturbances of the integrity of the environment by the technologies of modern agriculture and urban-industrial processes; remedial measures and planning a sustainable ecology for the future.—S. Carson.

Enrollment limited to 100 students. Permission of the instructor required. Laboratory required, including field work. Permission for laboratory assignment required.

4½ points.

Lecture M W 1:10-2:25.

Laboratory M 2:40-5:30, Tu 2:40-5:30.

W 2:40-5:30, Th 2:40-5:30, F 2:40-5:30.

ENV BC 3015x. Chemical Cycles in the Environment.

A detailed study of the cycles of chemical species in the environment including carbon, nitrogen, phosphorus and sulfur compounds, major cations trace metals, and organic pollutants. Emphasis will be placed on man-induced perturbations of natural cycles.—R. Bopp.

Prerequisite: Chemistry BC 1601 and Environmental Science BC 1001. BC 1002 or equivalent or permission of the instructor. 3 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:50.

ENV BC 3016y. Environmental Measurements.

Modern methods used in analysis of environmental samples for monitoring and research purposes. Standard and advanced techniques of air, water, sediment and soil analysis will be covered including spectrometric and chromatographic methods.—R. Bopp.

Prerequisite: Chemistry BC 1601, or equivalent and permission of the instructor. Enrollment limited to 16 students. Alternate years. Not offered in 1985-86. 3 points.

ENV BC 3019x. Resources and Wastes.

A scientific description and evaluation of the current status and future of our energy, mineral, and food resources including methods of treating wastes generated during resource production and use.—S. Carson.

Environmental Science

Prerequisite: One year college science and permission of the instructor.

3 points. Tu Th 9:10-10:25.

ENV BC 3022y. Environmental Case Studies.

Investigation of the scientific aspects of particular cases that illustrate major environmental problems. Legal and social implications will also be explored. Included will be such topics as ocean dumping of sewage sludge, eutrophication of L. Erie, acidification of German forests and PCB contamination of the Hudson River.—S. Carson and R. Bopp.

Prerequisite: Environmental Science BC 1001, BC 1002, or equivalent or permission of the instructor.

Alternate years. Offered in 1985-86.

3 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:50.

ENV BC 3035y. Environmental Hazards and Disasters.

Prediction and avoidance of catastrophic events that originate in natural systems and technologic systems; risk assessment, response strategies to minimize damage before, during and after events such as earthquakes, floods, nuclear breakdowns.—S. Carson.

Alternate years. Not offered in 1985-86.

3 points.

ENV BC 3037x. Environmental Monitoring.

Design and use of surveillance methods to safeguard the quality of life and public health; air, water, soils, home and occupational safety, food and consumer goods, disposal of toxic substances and sanitary, industrial, and household wastes. Determination of background levels, setting of standards and enforcement procedures, visits to public and private agencies.—Instructor to be announced.

Not offered in 1985-86.

3 points.

ENV BC 3038y. Environmental Planning and Site Development.

Introduction to the site planning process based upon environmental, scientific, sociological, legal and economic considerations. Steps include data collection, site analysis, development of resource protection goals, development and evaluation of plan alternatives, and plan preparation and implementation. Two sites are used: A suburban site involving natural ecosystems and an urban site in Manhattan.—C. Swick.

Limited enrollment; permission of the instructor required.

3 points. Tu 4:10-6:00, plus studio design projects.

Environmental Science—Philosophy ESP BC 3025y. Ethics and the Environment.

A philosophical examination of the relationship between humanity and nature with a focus on the moral justifications for environmental policies. Topics include: the utility of the natural environment, responsibilities to future generations, and the moral consideration of nature. Readings from several disciplines: philosophy, ecology, economics, political theory, and law.—E. Katz.

3 points. Tu Th 2:40-3:55.

(III)

ENV BC 3999x, ENV BC 3999y. Problems and Projects in Environmental Science.

Advanced laboratory and/or field studies for students who have adequate backgrounds to work independently with guidance from a member of the faculty.—Staff.

Permission of chairman required.

Variable points. Hours to be arranged.

Geography GEO 4111x. Pedology and Soil Resources.

Introduction to biogeochemistry of soils and their genesis, morphology, and classification; ecology, management, and conservation of soils in different agricultural systems; evaluation, mapping, and planning of land sites for agricultural, open space, and urban uses.—L. Zobler.

Prerequisite: Environmental Science BC 1001, BC 1002, or equivalent, or permission of the instructor.

Two one-day field trips and reports required.

Alternate years. Not offered in 1985-86.

3 points.

Geography GEO W 4112x. Hydrology and Water Resources.

Hydrologic cycle analysis of surface and ground water flows and their application to water management in urban and rural areas; resource planning for potable supplies, waste disposal, and other uses, case studies of water quality and flood control problems.—L. Zobler.

Prerequisite: Environmental Science BC 1001, BC 1002, or equivalent or permission of the instructor. Alternate years. Offered in 1985-86. Two one-day field trips and reports required.

INTERNSHIPS AND INDEPENDENT PROJECTS

The Experimental Studies Program provides students with the opportunity to expand and enrich their education through independent projects, internships, and interdisciplinary studies.

The basic component of the Program, Experimental Studies BC 3001, BC 3002, takes students out of the classroom to undertake independent work of a kind not provided for by regular departmental offerings—and then brings them back to the classroom to analyze and reflect on these activities and experiences. The students in Experimental Studies BC 3001, BC 3002, fall into two broad categories: those doing internships in New York City, exploring careers and other interests, and those doing independent projects. Occasionally, students focus primarily on mastering special skills. In their projects, students can explore practical or interdisciplinary aspects of their major field of academic interest, or can extend their interests and abilities into new areas.

Recent projects include: medical illustration, writing case studies for a public health dentistry course, translating Spanish documents for the International League for Human Rights, doing research on the Cold War for a documentary film, exploring the connections between poetry and photography, working with developmentally delayed children, doing a study of the New York video community, working with a literary agent evaluating manuscripts, publishing a magazine on Venezuela for the United Nations newspaper, doing cancer research, and working on writing and singing projects. Students have recently held internships at the Vivian Beaumont Theatre, the Chinatown Health Clinic, Mount Sinai Hospital, WNYC Radio, New York Magazine, the Urban Homesteading Assistance Board, Family Planning Advocates, the International Indian Treaty Research Council, the Multiple Sclerosis Society, the Whitney Museum of Art, Channel 13, Kidder Peabody and Company, and the Manhattan District Attorney's Office.

In addition to the supervision in the setting of their internships and projects, students choose Barnard faculty members (or, where appropriate, faculty members from other branches of Columbia University) to guide and supervise their work. Meetings with faculty sponsors usually occur every two weeks, and in addition to reading, writing or research required by the project, students are usually asked to keep journals in which they reflect on their activities and experiences. Beyond this individual supervision which focuses on the content of the project, students meet weekly in seminars with the Director of the Program. In these seminars students discuss their projects with each other and analyze the social and cultural contexts in which their internships or projects are carried out. They compare experiences and use these as bases for analyzing how organizations, institutions and professions work. Ethical, political, and social issues are discussed, including issues relating to women and work. Evaluations for this pass/fail course are determined by the Director on the bases of the sponsors' evaluations and the student's contribution to the seminar. Except in unusual circumstances, this course is not open to freshmen.

Some of the issues raised in the seminars are dealt with in the interdisciplinary course, Experimental Studies BC 3003, Contemporary Issues in Feminist Thought.

Students may neither major nor minor in Experimental Studies.

REGISTRATION PROCEDURES: INTERNSHIPS AND INDEPENDENT PROJECTS

Before the beginning of the semester each student who intends to register for Experimental Studies BC 3001, BC 3002 should follow these procedures:

(1) Develop a proposal for a project or an internship. A semester internship can be obtained through the Office of Career Services, through the student's own contacts, or by consulting the list of recently completed internships available outside 316 Milbank Hall. A January or summer internship can be continued into the Spring or Fall, or can serve as the starting point for a project in BC 3001, BC 3002.

(2) Consult the Director of the Experimental Studies Program, who advises on the feasibility and appropriateness of the project plan, suggests possible faculty sponsors, and discusses the project form.

(3) Arrange for a faculty sponsor.

(4) Return the project form, signed by the faculty sponsor, for approval.

(5) Sign up for one section of the seminar.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

EXS BC 3001x, EXS BC 3002y. Experimental Studies Seminar.

For students doing independent or interdisciplinary projects or internships. In class discussion, students examine the social and cultural contexts of their projects, as well as the ethical, political, and social issues that arise from them.—J. Dulchin.

Limited to students with approved project forms. Mandatory pass/fail (this will be noted on transcript). Enrollment limited to 20 students per section. This course may be taken for one or two semesters, in either order, and not necessarily consecutively.

Foreign Area Studies

Office: 321A Milbank Hall

Telephone: 280-8312

This program is supervised by the Committee on Foreign Area Studies:

Professor of Anthropology

Professor of Political Science

Peter H. Juviler

Professor of German

Gertrud M. Sakrawa

The purpose of Foreign Area Studies is to provide introduction to the study of some one foreign region or country of the world. The work is divided into three elements: language, a scholarly discipline, and a diversified approach to a region. The student who wishes to major may choose one of the regions listed below. The courses named under each region include only those most commonly elected. Other courses, or other regions of concentration, may be chosen upon approval of the project by an adviser. Concentrations in African Studies can be arranged in certain departments; for information see advisers in Anthropology, Geography, History, and Political Science. For fuller descriptions of the courses listed, see under the appropriate department.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

A major in Foreign Area Studies is open to a limited number of qualified students whose applications are approved by the committee in charge. Freshmen and sophomores anticipating such a major should consult their class advisers and the officer in charge by March 1 of the sophomore year.

The senior requirement varies according to the region studied. Majors should consult their advisers for details.

There is no minor in Foreign Area Studies.

Asia (Adviser: Professor Miller). See Oriental Studies, page 197.

British Civilization (Adviser: Professor Ulanov)

This program emphasizes historical and literary traditions of British Civilization and is comprehensive enough to include specialized interests in the fields of imperial and commonwealth studies. A student who wishes to major should plan, in consultation with her adviser, a program to include (a) four courses in history, (b) four additional courses, of which two must be in English literature, and (c) two courses in senior seminar in History or English.

Foreign Area Studies

European Studies (Adviser: Professor McNeil)

A program for students with a strong base in European languages and a focused interest in contemporary European affairs. Students interested in one Western European country should also consult the subsection on Western Europe.

Requirements:

European Studies BC 3352

European Nation-State Building: France, Germany, and Italy.

5 courses on one country or region, in more than one discipline. See the list of courses under Western Europe.

4 courses on general European subjects, to be selected after consultation with the program adviser.

2 courses of senior seminar under the direction of the program adviser.

Associated requirement (not counted towards the average in the major): competence (the equivalent of four Barnard semesters) in each of two European languages, usually French and German.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

(IV)

Italian Studies (Advisers: Professors Colombo, Harrison, and Lorch)

The program aims to encourage the interest of students in contemporary Europe by focusing on Italy, both for its own sake and as a kind of test-case for the study of a rapidly changing European society. It offers a specialization to students who have an interest in one social science and in Italy at the same time.

Specific programs are planned with the adviser on the basis of a major's particular interests and needs. In all a major must take at least 14 courses with concentration in one particular discipline:

Italian V 1301-V1302

Comprehensive Elementary and Intermediate Italian

or show sufficient proficiency;

Italian V 3333-V 3334

Introduction to Italian Literature or one year of other Italian courses in Italian or English;

3 History courses.

Italian Studies BC 3003

Italian Cultural History, 1914-1944

Italian Studies BC 3004

Italian Cultural History,

1944 to the present

History W 4215

Italy since 1815

Two courses in Italian culture to be chosen with the advisers.

Italian Studies BC 3191, BC 3192, Senior Seminar, in which the student will prepare her senior essay; and a minimum of three additional courses in one social science of the student's choice.

Double majors whose language requirement is met in Italian are welcome.

Courses in the French Department have a twofold objective: to perfect fluency in the written and the spoken language, and to develop an understanding and appreciation of the literature and culture of France and French-speaking countries.

New students who have already given evidence of advanced training in French (Advanced Placement Examination, CEEB examinations) may automatically be exempted from the language requirement. All other new students who intend to satisfy their requirement in French will, depending upon their preparation, be placed immediately in the appropriate language course or be asked to take a placement test, offered at the start of each semester (see College Calendar for exact dates). Those receiving a sufficiently high grade fulfill the requirement. The others may do so by completing French BC 1204. For additional information about language courses, students should consult the department chairman.

Students who have satisfied the language requirement may take literature courses conducted entirely in French (BC 3020, BC 3021, BC 3022, BC 3023, BC 3024); courses in which the readings are in French, but with lectures, discussions, and papers in English (BC 3047, BC 3048); and advanced language course BC 1306.

In cooperation with Columbia College, the department offers a program at Reid Hall in Paris open to majors and non-majors. See Study Abroad, page 40.

The department holds many of its advanced classes in a special seminar-library, the French Room (306 Milbank). This is also where the Société Française de Barnard et de Columbia meets and plans its many activities.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

All majors are required to take the Junior French Test, a short-answer examination on literary history, literary terminology, and translation. Students will take the Major Examination, a written critical essay on a prepared question and an individual oral explication de texte.

Majors who plan to do graduate work are encouraged to acquire a reading knowledge of Latin and German.

In consultation with the adviser of her choice, the student majoring in French may select either of the following options:

Language and Literature

Ten courses are required for the major:

French BC 3021
and BC 3022

or

French BC 3023
and BC 3024

*Masterpieces of Literature from the Middle

French BC 3014	Advanced Translation
French BC 3015	Advanced Translation into French
French BC 3016	Advanced Oral French
French BC 3017	The Translation of Dialogue

5 literature courses chosen from BC 3031-BC 3046; and

One-term seminar numbered BC 3052 or a Senior Essay in Literature.

Translation and Literature

The major requires 10 courses:

French BC 3021 and BC 3022, or BC 3023 and BC 3024;

French BC 3014 and two other advanced language courses chosen from courses BC 3013, BC 3015, or BC 3017;

4 one-term literature courses numbered BC 3031-BC 3046; and one-term seminar numbered BC 3059 or a Senior Essay in Translation.

The student is expected to declare her option by the end of the junior year. Either program may include additional courses in French literature and language, or in other subjects which vary with the interest of the student.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

Seven courses are required for a minor:

French BC 3021 and BC 3022, or BC 3023 and BC 3024;

2 advanced language courses (French BC 3012-BC 3017); and

3 advanced literature courses (French BC 3031-BC 3046).

A student who elects French as part of a combined, double, or interdisciplinary major will establish her individualized program with the departments concerned.

STUDY IN PARIS

Columbia-Barnard Reid Hall Programs.
419 Lewisohn Hall.

Reid Hall, at 4, rue de Chevreuse, in Montparnasse, is the Paris campus for Barnard and Columbia Colleges. Barnard and Columbia sponsor three distinct programs there during the academic year. The programs are open to students with majors in all fields. To assure validation of credits student should work closely with their major advisers. Students should consult the current Reid Hall bulletin about course offerings, which are subject to change.

There are three semester-long institutes in French culture, language and literature. During the Autumn Semester, the institutes are conducted at the intermediate and advanced levels. During the Spring Semester only the advanced level institute is offered. The Spring Advanced Institute, however, includes the opportunity to take one or two courses in the French University system as well as fine arts and an anthropology course at Reid Hall.

The program is more fully described in this catalogue under the heading of Women's Studies (see page 266).

ACADEMIC YEAR PROGRAM

The two courses listed below constitute a full year's program. Primarily for juniors sufficiently advanced in French and in their majors (should the major not be French) to be able to profit from the program and particularly from the tutorial (H 3997-H 3998) in the direction of a French expert on the student's particular area of interest.

This program, designed to meet the needs of those students capable of immersion in the French University system and of direct communication with the tutor in the areas of their choice, is distinguished by a tutorial. The program of courses is selected individually for each student. The tutorial consists of weekly hour-long meetings with the tutor and culminates in a thesis which is an original and carefully researched work. Eminent members of the French intellectual community serve as tutors.

Students register for appropriate courses in the French University system in major and elective fields. Both the course work and the tutor are selected in close consultation with the Director of Studies and with members of the appropriate Barnard or Columbia faculties.

FRE H 3991x-FRE H 3992y. Supervised Study in the French University System.
 Special study under the supervision of the Director of Studies. The program requires that students follow the equivalent of 9 hours of class instruction per week per semester. Permission of the major adviser and the chairman of the Barnard Department of French is required.
1 to 15 points.

FRE H 3997x-FRE H 3998y. Supervised Study in France.
 Special research under the supervision of the Director of Studies involving individual work with an established specialist in the student's major field. Permission of the major adviser and the chairman of the Barnard Department of French is required.

Purpose and Structure

Every Barnard freshman is required to take a Freshman Seminar during her first or second semester at Barnard. The purposes of the Freshman Seminars are threefold:

1. To develop further the essential and prerequisite skills a student brings to Barnard in the critical reading and analysis of important texts, in effective speaking, and in writing well—this last especially.
2. To develop these skills within an intellectually challenging context where students and teacher alike, through an examination of important and relevant texts, engage in an extended consideration of a theme central to human concerns and which goes beyond departmental boundaries.
3. To develop these skills and encounter this intellectual challenge in a small-class setting with instruction by a regular member of the Barnard faculty who has chosen to participate in the program. As such, Freshman Seminars should provide entering Barnard students with an early and positive additional measure of institutional identity.

Freshman Seminar Program

Accordingly, all Freshman Seminars share a common structure:

- Each will meet at least twice a week in regularly scheduled class periods.
- Each will have its enrollment limited to twenty or fewer students.
- Reading assignments will consist of a maximum of six book-length assignments or their equivalent (about 2000 pages).
- Writing assignments will consist of a minimum of an assignment every other week. These assignments will vary in character (e.g., an assigned topic; a selected topic; reworking of an earlier assignment; editing the work of others) and length.
- The regular grading practices of the College will be followed.
- Upon completion of the course, students will be provided an opportunity to evaluate their Freshman Seminar and to offer suggestions as to how it might be improved in subsequent years.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

The 1985-86 Freshman Seminar Program consists of twenty-eight seminars, organized into five clusters:

- I. Literary Reflections on the Human Condition
- II. The Individual and the Social Order
- III. Women in Literature and Culture
- IV. Aspects of the Modern Condition
- V. Cross-Cultural Encounters

These clusters identify thematic concerns or textual emphases common to more than one seminar, while reflecting varying levels of faculty collaboration that went into the development of the individual seminars. They are also intended to facilitate the process by which a student selects the seminar of her first or second choice. Student preferences will be indicated by cluster, not by individual seminar. (Procedures for selecting Freshman Seminars are described in Freshman Registration materials.)

I. LITERARY REFLECTIONS ON THE HUMAN CONDITION.

Each of these seminars focuses on an enduring theme or genre through a close reading of texts drawn from the sweep of classical and western literature.

FSM BC 1101y. The Comic Mode.

This seminar explores the comic tradition in plays, fiction, and theory, focusing on its forms, techniques, and points of view, and especially on the use of comedy as criticism of institutions, conventions, and moral values.

Aristophanes, The Clouds

William Shakespeare, A Midsummer Night's Dream

Miguel de Cervantes, Don Quixote (Book One)

Voltaire, Candide

Nikolai Gogol, Dead Souls

Leo Tolstoy, War and Peace

Richard Gustafson, Russian Department
Spring, Tu Th 2:40-3:55.

FSM BC 1106x, BC 1106y. Perspectives on Mortality.

Different responses to the fact of mortality will be studied: its unblinking acceptance in the Iliad and Odyssey, and ordeals of the quest to transcend it in Plato, Plutarch and Apuleius, and the ordeal of election to full godhood in the Aeneid.

Helen Bacon, Classics Department

Fall, Tu Th 1:10-2:25.

Alan Segal, Religion Department

Spring, Tu Th 10:35-11:50.

Freshman Seminar Program

FSM BC 1108x. Subjective/Objective.

The question to be considered is how to formulate the distinction between those topics, feelings, opinions, judgments, that are properly called "subjective" and those (if any) that are not. The subjective/objective distinction will be examined in literary, scientific, philosophical and legal contexts. Readings include:

Plato, Euthyphro, Gorgias
Epictetus, Discourses
Montaigne, Essays

Fall, M W 4:10-5:25.

FSM BC 1110x. The Art of Feigning.

A study of theater and theatricality in four societies: classical Athens, Elizabethan England, the court of Louis XIV, and modern Europe. Dramatic form and technology as they relate to specific social institutions: spectacle, masquerade, sincerity, artificiality, play-acting and identity as artistic problems and as distinctive values in human life. Plays of Aeschylus, Sophocles, Euripides, Aristophanes, Shakespeare, Racine, Molière, Pirandello, and Brecht; supplementary readings in Aristotle, Machiavelli, Diderot, and others.

Aeschylus, Oresteia
Sophocles, Oedipus the King
Euripides, Bacchae
Aristophanes, Frogs

Shakespeare, A Midsummer Night's Dream
As You Like It

Racine, Phèdre
Pirandello, Henry IV
Brecht, Threepenny Opera
Daniel Selden, Classics Department
Spring M W 2:40-3:55.

II. THE INDIVIDUAL AND THE SOCIAL ORDER

These seminars focus on the tensions between the claims of the individual to autonomy and the demands placed upon the individual by society. Each seminar will draw half its readings from the works of authors of the instructor's choosing and half from among the following:

Plato
The Bible
Thomas More
Nicola Machiavelli
William Shakespeare
Thomas Hobbes/John Locke
Jean-Jacques Rousseau
Henry David Thoreau
Karl Marx and Friedrich Engels
William James
Sigmund Freud
Max Weber
George Orwell

FSM 1201x. The Artist and Society.

Peter Juviler, Political Science Department
Spring, Tu Th 1:10.

FSM BC 1210x. The Dialectics of Morality.

While most literature deals at some level with moral issues, this seminar will focus on texts that deal directly with moral dilemmas, concentrating on conflicting moral codes and the role of language in their articulation and evaluation. Readings will include Robert Bolt, A Man for All Seasons; Lope de Vega, Justice Without Revenge; Kate Chopin, The Awakening; Nadine Gordimer, Something Out There.

Marcia Welles, Spanish Department
Fall, M W 11:00-12:15.

III. WOMEN IN LITERATURE AND CULTURE

An investigation of the ways in which women's experience has been imagined in literature and constructed in culture and in society. Emphasis will be on female destiny and desire—rites of passage; modes of rebellion; possibilities and limits; knowledge, freedom and duty; alternative visions and strategies. Attitudes toward myth, female sacrifice, courtship, marriage, motherhood, adultery, and work will be considered. Readings will include major works of Western and non-Western literature in the critical context of the new scholarship on women.

Each seminar will draw approximately two-thirds of its readings from the following core list of writings:

Virginia Woolf, A Room of One's Own

Homer, The Odyssey

Sophocles, Antigone

Kalidasa, Sakuntala

William Shakespeare, As You Like It

Leo Tolstoy, Anna Karenina

Alice Walker, The Color Purple

Lyric Poetry: by Sappho, early Buddhist nuns, Emily Dickinson, Anna Akhmatova,

Sylvia Plath, Adrienne Rich, Audre Lorde.

Selected essays by Chodorow, Gilligan, Ortner.

The sections of this cluster will meet twice as a group: at midsemester, to see a film and at the final course meeting, to attend a symposium on lyric poetry in several languages.

FMS BC 1301x.

Special texts:

Ivan Turgenev, A Nest of Gentle Folk

Christine de Pizan, The Book of the City of Ladies

Marina Astman, Russian Department

Fall, M W 11:00-12:15.

FSM BC 1302x.

Special texts:

Homeric Hymn to Demeter

Charlotte Brontë, Villette

Helene Foley, Classics Department

Fall, T Th 1:10-2:25.

FSM BC 1303y.

Special texts:

Euripides, Medea

E.M. Forster, A Passage to India

Barbara Miller, Oriental Studies

Spring, M W 2:40-3:55.

FSM BC 1305x.

Special texts:

Jane Austen, Persuasion

Colette, The Vagabond

Celeste Schenck, English Department

Spring, Tu Th 10:35-11:50.

FSM BC 1306y.

Special texts:

Christine de Pizan, The Book of the City of Ladies

Sigmund Freud, Dora: Analysis of a Case History of Hysteria

Susan Sacks, Education Program

Spring, Tu Th 2:40-3:55.

Freshman Seminar Program

FSM BC 1307x.

Special texts:

The Martyrdom of St. Perpetua

Christine de Pizan, The Book of the City of Ladies

Suzanne Wemple, History Department
Fall, M W 2:40-3:55.

FSM BC 1308x.

Special texts:

Charlotte Brontë, Jane Eyre

Jean Rhys, Wide Sargasso Sea

Janice Thaddeus, English Department
Fall, M W 1:10-2:25.

IV. ASPECTS OF THE MODERN CONDITION

These seminars concern themselves with the different ways literary artists portray and social critics analyze the contemporary Western world. Readings will include works of fiction, biography, and social theory.

FSM BC 1401x. The Modern Idea of Freedom.

This seminar examines texts, from the seventeenth to the twentieth century, which constitute a meditation on the relationship of language to freedom and on the individual's freedom to express his individuality in the language everyone else uses. Readings include:

Pedro Calderon de la Barca, Life Is a Dream

Jonathan Swift, Travels into Several Remote Regions of the World

Charles Darwin, The Origin of Species

Sigmund Freud, Beyond the Pleasure Principle

Jorge Luis Borges, "Tlong, Ugbar, Orbis Tertius"

Alfred MacAdam, Spanish Department
Fall, T Th 10:35-11:50.

FSM BC 1402x. Twentieth Century Humanism.

Close textual analysis of the multiple aspects of twentieth century humanism through a study of some of the major European literary, historical, philosophical and ideological sources. Readings include:

Ossip. E. Mandel'shtam, Selections from Complete Poems

Bertold Brecht, The Good Woman of Szechuan

André Malraux, Man's Fate

Maxim Gorki, The Lower Depths

Georges Bernanos, Diary of a Country Priest

Cesar Vallejo, Selections from an anthology of his poetry.

Serge Gavronsky, French Department
Fall, T Th 9:10-10:25.

FSM BC 1403x. The Rise and Fall of Modern Liberalism.

Liberalism, with its social, political and economic ethos, has been at the ideological center of the modern, industrial world. This seminar examines classic statements of the liberal ideal, major challenges to it, and how liberal ideas have changed over time. Readings include:

John Locke, Two Treatises on Government

Adam Smith, Wealth of Nations

Mary Wollstonecraft, A Vindication of the Rights of Women

John Stuart Mill, On Liberty

Rosa Luxemburg, "Leninism or Marxism?"

V.I. Lenin, What Is To Be Done

Sigmund Freud, Civilization and Its Discontents

Milton Friedman, Capitalism and Freedom

William McNeil, History Department
Fall, M W 11:00-12:15.

FSM BC 1409y. Music in Literature.

The ways music has affected authors as reflected in their literary production. How this mixture of art forms takes shape. How a writer's view of music affect the narrative structure of the work. Readings include:

Shakespeare, The Tempest

E.T.A. Hoffmann, The Sandman or Councillor Krespel

Thomas Mann, Tristan or The Blood of the Walsung

George Sand, The Bagpipers

Willa Cather, Lucy Gayheart

Aldous Huxley, Point Counter Point

Proust, Swann's Way

Selection of poetry from Pirandello, Verlaine, Yeats, T.S. Eliot, Goethe and Baudelaire.

David Powell, French Department
Spring, Tu Th 2:40.

V. CROSS-CULTURAL ENCOUNTERS

These seminars either consider imaginative and analytic efforts on the part of one culture to comprehend aspects of another culture or are themselves instances of such an effort.

FSM BC 1506x. Utopian Dreams and Schemes: East and West.

An examination of the ideas of visionaries such as Plato, Confucius, and the New England Puritans; an exploration of attempts to transform these visions into reality. Readings from the work of Confucius, Mencius, John Bunyan, Robespierre.

Freshman Seminar Program

Mark Carnes, History Department

Fall, M W 11:00-12:15.

FSM BC 1507y. Intercultural Frontiers.

Focus will be on the progressive narrowing of intercultural frontiers as a consequence of the abolition of geographical distances separating the Family of Man; the ever-advancing global self-reflection of contemporary West traced back to the world of Marco Polo. Readings include:

Marco Polo, Description of the World: The Travels

Shusako Endo, Silence

Pierre Loti, Madame Chrysantheme

Marguerite Duras/Alain Resnais, Hiroshima, Mon Amour

Italo Calvino, Invisible Cities

Konrad Czynski, French Department
Spring, M W 1:10-2:25.

FSM BC 1508x. Independence and Authority.

An introduction to questions on the interplay of personal freedom, social requirements, and moral education. Readings from Aristotle, Aquinas, J.S. Mill, Jean Piaget, The Book of Documents, The Tso Commentary, Mencius, Hannah Arendt, and others.

John Meskill, Oriental Studies

Fall, M W 1:10-2:25.

FSM BC 1509y, BC 1510y. Evil, Justice, and Sacrifice.

Study of the themes of evil, justice and sacrifice in select Biblical texts, as well as interpreted in classical, medieval and modern literature of both East and West. Readings include:

The Old Testament

The Song of Roland

Joseph Conrad, The Heart of Darkness

Soren Kierkegaard, Fear and Trembling

Herman Melville, Billy Budd

Shusako Endo, Silence

Marilyn Harran, Religion Department

Spring, Tu Th 4:10-5:25.

Brian Smith, Religion Department

Spring, M W 4:10-5:25.

Geology is the scientific study of the Earth for the purpose of understanding how past activities have led to present conditions and of how present conditions affect the future. Modern geology involves application of mathematics, physics, chemistry, biology, and computers toward solving problems of the Earth as a planet in the Solar System, of the large-scale dynamics of the Earth, of the locations of supplies of natural resources, of the fabric and history of the rock record, and of the origin and history of life. Geology can be applied at many levels, from providing a basis for understanding one's surroundings to background for careers in law, architecture, land-use planning, and real estate to professional careers in research.

Special resources for study of geology at Barnard include those within the College, within the University, and in and around New York City. Barnard facilities in Milbank Hall include photographic darkroom and sedimentology laboratory. Columbia University facilities in Schermerhorn Hall include teaching laboratories and collections of specimens, and a large research library. The Lamont-Doherty Geological Observatory offers the Geoscience Library, extensive collections of deep-sea sediments and sea-floor rock specimens, and research facilities in geochemistry, seismology, marine geology and geophysics, mineral physics and micropaleontology, all available to qualified undergraduate majors. The School of International and Public Affairs houses a large collection of maps and U.S. government documents. New York City resources include the American Museum of Natural History with a large collection of research materials, the Goddard Institute of Space Studies, the New York Public Library, Engineering Societies Library, and United Nations Library.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Students contemplating a major in geology should consult with the chairman of the department. Majors should plan their programs for their junior and senior years with a view toward including, as desired, courses that are offered only in alternate years. Those who are considering careers for which a doctorate is required should include two foreign languages (German, French or Russian are usually specified) in their programs, as well as the basic science background courses expected of geology majors (one year of physics, chemistry, and mathematics through calculus; familiarity with computers is desirable).

Various major options are possible, including but not limited to classical geology, with emphasis on biologic or nonbiologic aspects; geophysics; geochemistry; environmental geology; and Earth sciences.

Majors should plan to spend at least one summer in geological mapping at an approved geologic field camp, in research activities at an oceanographic institution, or as a participant in an approved field research program being carried out elsewhere.

There is no major examination, but a satisfactory research paper prepared in conjunction with a senior seminar is required.

A minimum of 8 courses is required for the major including

V 1011, V 1012	Introduction to Earth Sciences, I and II
or
V 1021, V 1022	Physical Geology and Historical Geology
W 3001x	Time in the Earth Sciences
W 4113	Introduction to Mineralogy I
W 4701	Introduction to Igneous and Metamorphic Petrology
BC 3060	Seminar in Geology
and one of the following courses
W 4223	Introduction to Sedimentary Geology
W 4232	Concepts and Methods in Biostratigraphy
W 4411	Principles of Structural Geology
W 4661	Introduction to Invertebrate Paleontology

Exceptions may be made with the approval of the chairman of the department.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

A minimum of 5 courses is required for the minor, including V 1011-V 1012 or V 1021-V 1022 and any three upper-level courses.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

GEY V 1011x. Introduction to Earth Sciences, I.

Evolutionary processes and history of planet Earth, its oceans, and atmosphere. Part I: Cosmochemical and geochemical evidence of the evolution of the solar system and early history of Earth. Part II: Geological evolution and history of Earth's crust and lithosphere.—W. Broecker and J. Hays.
Prerequisite: Basic high-school chemistry, physics, and mathematics.
4 points. Lecture M W F 10:00. Laboratory (3 hours), M Tu W Th 2:10-5:00; Tu Th 9:00-11:50.

GEY V 1012y. Introduction to Earth Sciences, II.

Evolutionary processes and history of planet Earth, its oceans, and atmosphere. Part III: Evidence from oceanography and atmospheric science for dynamics of Earth's oceans, atmosphere, and climate. Part IV: Evidence from heat flow, seismology, gravity, and magnetism for the large-scale structure and dynamics of the whole Earth.—A. Gordon and A. Watts.
Prerequisite: Basic high-school chemistry, physics, and mathematics.
4 points. Lecture M W F 10:00. Laboratory (3 hours), M Tu W Th 2:10-5:00; Tu Th 9:00-11:50.

GEY V 1021x. Physical Geology.

Composition and structure of Earth; internal and external forces acting upon it, and surface features resulting. Laboratory includes study of common rocks and minerals, of contour maps as means of depicting the Earth's morphology. Three required field trips to local geologic features.
Not offered in 1985-86.
4 points.

GEY V 1022y. Historical Geology.

History of Earth and of life upon it from the beginning to modern times. The laboratory and assigned work include study of invertebrate fossils and of geologic maps and structures, museum trips, and a required one-day field trip. A research paper on a geologic topic is required.
Not offered in 1985-86.
4 points.

GEY V 1411x. Introduction to Earth Sciences, I.

The same course as V 1011x, but without laboratory.—W. Broecker and J. Hays.
Prerequisite: Basic high-school chemistry, physics, and mathematics.
3 points. Lecture: M W F 10:00.

Geology

GEY V 1412y. Introduction to Earth Sciences, II.

The same course as V 1012y, but without laboratory.—A. Gordon and Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: Basic high-school chemistry, physics, and mathematics.

3 points. Lecture: M W F 10:00.

GEY V 1053x. Planet Earth.

Accelerated look at how the Earth works. The unifying concept of plate tectonics used to examine surface and internal processes in the Earth. The formation of the Earth followed by a phenomenological analysis of the forces affecting the surface and the body of the Earth with its heat engine, vulcanism, seismology, magnetism, and gravity. Earthquake prediction, ridge-axis hot springs, volcanicity, and deep-sea drilling used to present basic concepts of Earth Science.—R.N. Anderson.

Prerequisite: High-school physics, chemistry, and mathematics.

3 points. Tu Th 9:00-10:15.

GEY W 3001x. Time in the Earth Sciences.

Fundamentals of paleontological and radiochemical methods by which relative and absolute time are estimated throughout the geologic record. Attention will also be given to isotope measurements or rates of significant processes occurring in the present-day ocean.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: V 1011x-V 1012y or permission of the instructor.

3 points. Tu Th 9:00-10:15.

GEY V 3522y. Exploration Geology and Mining Geophysics, I.

Geological environment of mineral deposits and their structural control. Orogenetical principles as a guide to mineral deposits. Geochemical and geophysical anomalies related to mineral and hydrocarbon deposits, their detection and interpretation.

—P. Carrion.

Prerequisite: V 1011-V 1012 or V 1021-V 1022.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

GEY W 4008x. Introduction to Atmospheric Science.

Basic physical processes controlling atmospheric structure; thermodynamics; radiative physics and radiative transfer; principles of atmospheric dynamics; cloud processes; applications to Earth's atmospheric general circulation, climatic variations, and the atmosphere of other planets.

Prerequisite: Advanced calculus and general physics or permission of the instructor.

3 points. Tu Th 11:30-12:45.

GEY W 4009x. Chemical Geology.

Thermodynamics as applied to Earth systems.—D. Walker.

3 points. Tu Th 10:00-11:15.

GEY W 4113x. Introduction to Mineralogy, I.

Elementary crystallography and crystal structures, optical properties of minerals, mineral associations and phase equilibria, economic minerals in hand specimen, chemical and physical tests, and use of petrographic microscope.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisites: V 1011-V 1012 or V 1021-V 1022, and elementary college physics, and chemistry, or permission of the instructor.

3 points. Lecture Tu Th 2:30-3:45. Laboratory Tu 4:30-7:30.

GEY W 4223x. Introduction to Sedimentary Geology.

Historical and philosophical foundations; sedimentary processes and deposits' composition, textures, fabrics, primary structures, strata; classification; diagenesis; correlation; seismic stratigraphy; stratigraphic and palinspastic maps; analysis of subsidence history.—N. Christie-Blick, J.E. Sanders.

Required field trips: two for one day and two for two days.

Laboratory and field-trip fee: $50.

Prerequisite: W 4113 or the instructors' permission.

4 points. Lecture Tu Th 12:30-3:45. Laboratory Tu 4:30-7:30.

GEY W 4232y. Concepts and Methods in Biostratigraphy.

History and philosophy of biostratigraphy; biologic classification; the nature of living and fossil taxa; correlation and concepts of zones; relationships among evolution, biogeography, and correlation; biofacies concepts; review of important organisms; applications, including regional correlation, economic geology, and evolutionary studies.—P.E. Olsen.

Prerequisite: Geology V 1011-V 1012 or the instructor's permission.

Alternate years.

Not offered in 1985-86.

3 points.

GEY W 4411y. Principles of Structural Geology.

Elementary stress and strain theory; stress and strain determination from geologic structures, folds, and faults; geologic structures of divergent, transform, and convergent plate boundaries. Laboratory work consists of time analysis of geologic structures in maps, cross-sections, hand specimens, and thin sections. Mandatory field trip.—I. Dalziel.

Prerequisites: V 1011-V 1012 or V 1021-V 1022 or the equivalent; W 4113 and W 4701. 3 points. Lecture Tu Th 1:00-2:15. Laboratory Tu 4:30-7:30.

GEY W 4501y. Introduction to Economic Geology.

Broad survey course suitable for students majoring in sciences and engineering. The following topics discussed: mineral resources of the world; geological descriptions of metallic and non-metallic mineral deposits, geochemical theory of the formation of mineral deposits, and exploration and mining methods.—T. Takahashi.

Prerequisites: Chemistry C 1407 and Geology W 4113, or their equivalents, or the instructor's permission. Alternate years. Not offered in 1985-86. 3 points.

GEY W 4661y. Introduction to Invertebrate Paleontology.

The history of life as revealed in the fossil record. A systematic survey of the morphology, ecology, taxonomy, and evolutionary history of groups of invertebrate animals commonly found as fossils.—P.E. Olsen and J. Hays.

Prerequisite: V 1011-V 1012 or V 1021-V 1022 or permission of the instructor. Alternate years. Lecture Tu Th 2:30-3:45. Laboratory Tu 4:30-7:30. 3 points.

GEY W 4701y. Introduction to Igneous and Metamorphic Petrology.

Compositional characteristics of igneous and metamorphic rocks as indicators of their genesis and evolution. Petrologic aspects of Earth's crust and upper mantle. Development of igneous and metamorphic rocks in a plate-tectonic framework. Students not majoring in terrestrial geology may elect to write a substantial term paper rather than attend the laboratory.—C. Langmuir.

Prerequisite: V 1011-V 1012 or V 1021-V 1022. W 4113 and knowledge of chemistry recommended. 4 points. Lecture Tu Th 2:30-3:45. Laboratory Th 4:30-7:30.

GEY W 4883x. Principles of Geochemistry, I.

Introduction to radiochemistry; the radiometric dating; processes responsible for chemical makeup of the solar system and the Earth; geochemistry of crust-mantle processes.—G.A. Zindler.

Recommended preparation: A sound background in basic chemistry. 3 points. Tu Th 1:00-2:15.

GEY W 4884y. Organic Geochemistry.

Survey of organic geochemistry suitable for students with a strong chemistry background majoring in geology, chemistry, or biology. Origin of organic compounds in oceans, lakes, and sediments; and transport and fate of organic pollutants.—R. Bopp.

Prerequisite: One year of college chemistry. Permission of the instructor required. Alternate years. Not offered in 1985-86. 3 points.

GEY W 4885y. Principles of Geochemistry, II.

Introduction to geochemical cycles involving the atmosphere, ocean, land and biosphere; chemistry of precipitation, weathering reactions, rivers, lakes, estuaries, and sedimentary rocks; stable-isotope and radioactive tracers of transport processes in continental waters and the ocean.—W. Broecker.

Recommended preparation: A sound background in basic chemistry. Alternate years. Not offered in 1985-86. 3 points.

GEY W 4925y. Principles of Physical Oceanography.

Physical properties of sea water, water masses, and their distribution, sea-air interaction influences on the ocean structure, basic ocean-circulation pattern, relationship of diffusion and advection with respect to distribution of ocean properties, measurement techniques, and methods of data processing and analysis.—A. Gordon.

Recommended preparation: A sound background in mathematics, physics, and chemistry. Not offered in 1985-86. 3 points.

GEY W 4926y. Principles of Chemical Oceanography.

Factors controlling the average concentration and distribution of dissolved chemical species within the sea. Application of tracer and natural-radioisotope methods to large-scale mixing of the ocean, to the geologic record preserved in marine sediments and to the fate of fossil-fuel carbon dioxide.—W. Broecker and J. Simpson.

Geology

3 points. Tu Th 11:30-12:45.

GEY W 4928x. Submarine Geology.

Survey of the geology of deep-sea topography, sediments, crustal rocks, tectonic- and sedimentary processes.—W.B.F. Ryan.

Prerequisite: V 1011-V 1012 or V 1021-V 1022 or the equivalent. Alternate years. Not offered in 1985-86.

3 points.

GEY W 4941y. Principles of Geophysics.

Structure of Earth as inferred from geophysical investigation. Principles of measurement and interpretation. Gravity, isostasy, earthquake seismology, refraction and reflection methods, geomagnetism, marine geophysics.—D. Hayes.

Prerequisites: Calculus through Mathematics V 1202 and Physics through Physics C 1007. 3 points. Tu Th 10:00-11:15.

GEY W 4949x. Introduction to Seismology.

Basic methods of seismogram analysis; classification of seismic waves and elementary theory of body waves and normal modes; elementary aspects of seismic prospecting, earthquake-source theory, instruments discriminating between explosions and earthquakes, inversion of seismic data to infer Earth structure, earthquake engineering, estimation of seismic risk, and earthquake prediction.—L. Sykes.

Prerequisite: One year of college physics and calculus.

3 points. Tu Th 11:30-12:45. Two-hour laboratory every other week at Lamont-Doherty Geological Observatory to be arranged.

GEY BC 3060y. Seminar in Geology.

Discussions, problems, and readings on various problems in geology.—J.E. Sanders.

Required of senior majors. Students should consult with the chairman at the beginning of the senior year. Prerequisite: At least one year of geology.

4 points. Hours to be arranged.

COLUMBIA COURSES

The following courses, listed by subdivisions of the Columbia Department of Geological Sciences, are open to qualified students with the permission of the Barnard chairman.

TERRESTRIAL AND MARINE GEOLOGY

Courses in the German Department are designed to develop proficiency in language skills and to present the traditions as well as the current developments in the literature and culture of the German-speaking countries: Austria, West Germany, East Germany, and Switzerland.

The language requirement in German is fulfilled by the completion of BC 1204, Intermediate Course II. Entering students with a previous knowledge of German will be placed in the appropriate course on the basis of their CEEB scores or in accordance with their achievements on a placement test taken prior to registration.

In language instruction, the department offers two tracks: 1) a full-year course, German BC 1001-BC 1002, Elementary Full-Year Course, and two one-semester courses, German BC 1203-BC 1204, Intermediate Course I and II, with an equal emphasis on reading, writing, and speaking; 2) two one-semester courses, German BC 1007, Elementary German: Intensive Reading, and German BC 1208, Intermediate German: Intensive Reading. The second track courses are designed for students interested in acquiring only a reading knowledge of German. They may not be used to fulfill the language requirement.

Students who have completed, or have been exempted from, BC 1204 may enroll in BC 3005 or BC 3006, Advanced Oral German and Composition, or in literature courses taught in German. Special permission is required for enrollment in German BC 3061, BC 3062, the Seminar and Senior Essay, respectively.

The literature courses taught in German have the twofold objective of combining the study of significant works and cultural manifestations with advanced practice in the use of German both as a written language and as a medium of communication. The department recommends that German BC 3011, Introduction to German Literature and Civilization, be elected as the first literature course. There are no prerequisites for courses in German literature in translation.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

The major in German includes 9 courses—German BC 3005 or BC 3006, BC 3011 and BC 3061, and six additional advanced courses taught in German. The major examination consists of a three-hour written section (in English) and of an individual oral examination of one-half hour (in German). With special permission a student may submit a senior essay (BC 3062) in place of the written section.

The department recommends that majors include in their programs a minor in another field. While a major in German prepares students for graduate study in German, both a major and, to a lesser degree, a minor in German prepare them also for advanced study in any subfield of a discipline in which competence in the German language and/or a knowledge of the culture of the German-speaking countries is either required or recommended.

German

A combined major includes a total of twelve courses, six of them in German: BC 3005 or BC 3006 and five literature courses taught in German, one of which may be BC 3061. At the completion of her program, a student submits an essay on a topic representative of the two fields combined in her major. A combined major is designed with the chairpersons of the two departments and with the approval of the Committee on Programs and Academic Standing.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

The minor in German requires five courses, German BC 3005 or BC 3006, BC 3011, and three additional literature courses taught in German, one of which may be BC 3061.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

LANGUAGE COURSES

GER BC 1001x-GER BC 1002y. Elementary Full-Year Course.

Fundamentals of German grammar, comprehension of the spoken language, reading, writing, and speaking. Aural-oral exercises and intensive practice in pronunciation.—M. Shulman and Staff.

Work in the language laboratory is required.

4 points. No credit is given for BC 1001 unless BC 1002 has been satisfactorily completed.

Section I M W F 9:00.

Section II M W F 10:00.

Section III M W F 12:00.

Health and Society is an interdisciplinary program created to address historical and contemporary issues in the field of health care from health science, social science, and humanistic perspectives. The Program has three objectives: to introduce the logical processes for establishing causes in the health sciences, to identify the limits of scientific knowledge in the health sciences, and to develop decision-making skills under conditions of scientific uncertainty. The Program applies this approach to undergraduate education by developing an interdisciplinary curriculum that focuses upon the distinction between and interconnection of scientific fact and value judgments.

Acquiring the substantive background and the methodological skills necessary to address problems in areas which do not adhere to traditional academic disciplines will prepare students for a variety of post-graduate options: graduate study in the social science or humanities, professional study in medicine and allied health areas, and careers in public health and health administration. Equally important, the Health and Society Program seeks to satisfy the intellectual needs of students not planning graduate study, but concerned about the social context of health and health care.

Health and Society

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

Five courses are required for the minor:

Health and Society BC1001	Fact and Value in the Health Sciences
or
Health and Society BC1004	Health, Illness, and the Social Environment
Philosophy V3720	Ethics and Medicine

One of the following courses:

Anthropology V3128	Medical Anthropology
Sociology V3228	Sociology of Medicine
Economics W4460	Health Economics
Health and Society BC1008	Political Economy of Health Care
Geography W4039	Medical Geography

Health and Society BC1010	The Disabled in Contemporary Society
Health and Society BC3011	Institutionalization
Health and Society BC3013	Women, Health, and Health Care

Students interested in this minor should consult with the Health and Society Program as early as possible in their academic program. Those who wish to coordinate the Health and Society minor with work in their major should seek the advice and approval of both departments. Such coordination with the major is not necessary to fulfill the above requirements for the minor in Health and Society.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

HEA BC 1001y. Fact and Value in the Health Sciences.

A historical and cultural overview of medicine and public health; the societal context of health and health care. Problems defining and assessing states of well-being and illness, the logic of scientific inquiry in the health sciences, fundamental concepts of public health biology, bases of clinical decision-making, values and value conflicts in clinical decision-making, and the imperatives of decision-making under conditions of scientific and clinical uncertainty.—N. Rango.

Background in science not required. Alternate years. Not offered in 1985-86.

3 points.

(V)

HEA BC 1004y. Health, Illness, and the Social Environment.

Examination of how the social environment influences an individual's state of health. Emphasis on two kinds of stress: social and illness-induced, the former referring to stressful life experiences, the latter to the psychological and emotional consequences of illness.

Special attention to the doctor-patient relationship in the management of stress.—N. Rango. Alternate years. Offered in 1985-86.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

(V)

HEA BC1005y. Medical Care in Twentieth Century America.

A historical and institutional analysis of the American experience in the delivery of medical care. The focus will be on critical trends during this century that have influenced the organization, control, and content of medical services today. These trends include the reform of medical education and of allied health professions, the rise of specialization, the increasing sophistication of costly medical technologies, the imbalance between personal medical services and public health concerns, and the rise of a non-professional health care system.—Theresa Rogers.

3 points. M W 1:10-2:25.

(V)

HEA BC 1006x. Social Gerontology.

The later stages of the human life cycle and current policies and programs for the aged; demographic changes in American society; the biological, clinical, social, psychological, and HEA BC 1007x. History of Mental Illness and Its Treatment.

The history of psychiatric thought and treatment and the changing role of the mentally ill in Western societies. Clinical and epidemiological aspects of mental disorders, and diagnostic problems and ethical issues in psychiatric treatment. The effect of social and economic change on the prevalence, theory, and treatment of mental disorders.—R. Neugebauer.
Recommended: BC 1001y.
Alternate years. Not offered in 1985-86.
3 points. (V)

HEA BC 1008y. Political Economy of Health Care.

Relation of medicine and society with particular reference to the organizational structure of the medical sector. Distribution of economic resources and changing political alignments; need for health reform; critical review of key proposals for new services. The interrelationship of economic, professional, and social factors in the creation and implementation of health policy.—E. Ginzberg.
Prerequisite: One year's work in social science.
Enrollment limited to 35 upperclassmen.
Permission of the instructor required for sophomores.
3 points. Tu 11:00-1:00. (V)

HEA BC 1009x. Caring for the Mentally Ill: Treatment and Policy Issues.

Contemporary problems in the treatment of mental illness. Comparative analysis of approaches in United States and selected countries. Influence on diagnosis and therapy of age, gender, race, and class. Critical policy issues emphasized such as deinstitutionaliza-tion controversy, informed consent in the psychiatric setting, and third-party-reimbursement.—N. Friedman.

3 points. M W 4:10-5:25. (V)

HEA BC 1010y. The Disabled in Contemporary Society.

The impact of disability on the individual, the family, and the institutions of contemporary American society. The relationship of disability to other economic, political and ethical issues. Texts include autobiographical and literary accounts as well as clinical, psychological, social science, legal, and public policy sources.—A. Asch.
3 points. M W 4:10-5:25. (V)

HEA BC 3011x. Institutionalization: Individual, Family, and Professional Perspectives.

Long-term institutionalization analyzed from three perspectives: individual patient, family, and professional. Conflicts of interest and ethical issues inherent in the decision to institutionalize or deinstitutionalize. Contemporary American institutions, including mental hospitals, homes for emotionally disturbed children, homes for the retarded, nursing homes, and hospices.—N. Rango.
Prerequisite: BC 1001 or BC 1004. Enrollment limited to 15 students. Offered in alternate years. Not offered in 1985-86.
4 points. (V)

HEA BC 3013x. Women, Health, and Health Care.

Changing perspectives of women in American society and the consequences of these changes for public policy, health education, and research priorities. Readings from clinical, social science, historical and psychological sources provide a context for study of the evolving relationship between women and the medical sector.—T. Rogers.
Permission of the instructor required. Enrollment limited to 16 upperclassmen.

History, which includes the whole of human experience, helps us understand ourselves in the context of our own times and traditions through the study of times and traditions different from our own. It provides perspective on the present through examination of change and continuity in the development of our political, economic, social, religious, and cultural ideas and institutions in preceding centuries. History means not only the narrative record of the past but also the discipline of investigation and interpretation of the past. There is no one way of doing history, but doing history necessarily involves the collection and evaluation of various kinds of evidence from primary sources. The study of history, which encourages habits of critical thinking and careful analysis, should be of interest and use not only to those who intend to pursue advanced degrees in the field, but to all undergraduates intent upon expanding their cultural horizons and enhancing their analytic skills.

Barnard history courses are numbered according to the following scheme of classification:

10xx-level introductory lectures

30xx-level advanced lectures

34xx-level seminars

37xx-level senior research seminars.

Lectures are defined more broadly—chronologically, geographically, and/or thematically—than seminars, which characteristically involve reading and discussion of primary and secondary sources on more specialized subjects. Students are expected to secure the permission of instructors for admission to seminars.

Students should consult the Columbia College catalogue for full descriptions of Columbia lectures and seminars, and regulations concerning enrollment in these courses. Application forms for Columbia seminars are available in 523 Fayerweather and should be submitted to instructors prior to the registration period.

Students with a score of 5 on the Advanced Placement examination will receive six points credit; students with a score of 4 will receive three points credit.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Students who intend to major in history are urged to consult an adviser in the department at the beginning of the sophomore year in order to plan their academic programs for the remaining three years in college.

The history major requires a minimum of eleven courses distributed in the following manner:

- 1) At least six courses in an area of concentration. Two of the six courses must be the senior research seminar in which students write a senior essay. While majors usually concentrate in European or American history, they may, with the approval of the chair, concentrate in any field of interest, such as ancient, medieval, Jewish, Oriental, African, cultural, or urban history.
- 2) At least three history courses outside the field of concentration.
- 3) At least two seminars, which may be distributed among any of the nine courses taken in addition to the senior research seminar.

Two of the eleven courses may be taken in other departments, provided that such courses are closely related to the field of concentration and approved by the major adviser.

Certain Columbia graduate ("G") courses are open to qualified majors with the approval of the Barnard chair and the Columbia instructor. These courses are described in the bulletin of the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences.

The senior research seminar represents the culmination of the undergraduate history major. It offers students the opportunity to discuss the nature of history as a discipline and to complete their work in the department through independent investigation of topics of their choice. Students are expected to consult with major advisers concerning tentative topics by the end of the junior year. During the first semester of the senior year, students meet to discuss common readings, while pursuing their own topics. They present reports on their work at sessions to which the American/European members of the department are invited. At the end of the first semester students submit a detailed prospectus, defining the problem under investigation, outlining the research involved, discussing the primary and secondary sources consulted. During the second semester students complete their research and write their essays, of article length (30-50 pages).

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

Five courses are required for a minor in history, four in a concentration, and one outside the concentration. One of the five must be a seminar.

Undergraduate instruction in Italian has long been fully and successfully integrated among the various undergraduate schools—Barnard College, Columbia College, and the School of General Studies. All courses are open to Barnard students. For students who have had some Italian, or who have a good knowledge of French or Spanish, but do not feel their background is strong enough for the intermediate course, the comprehensive elementary and intermediate course is recommended as the best way to review what they already know and rapidly proceed beyond it. The course in Italian written and oral style, though part of the requirements for a major in Italian, is open to all qualified students whose main goal is to improve their competence in the language as distinct from its literature.

A major in Italian offers the advantages of closely supervised work for a small number of students. Through the seminar in Italian literature, the major can study in a chosen area under the experienced guidance of a specialist.

The courses given in English have no prerequisites and should be attractive to students majoring in other departments who, nevertheless, wish to study Italian literature.

The Barnard Italian department office is 206 Milbank Hall, and the Columbia department is housed in the Casa Italiana. The Center for International Scholarly Exchange and the Center for Italian Studies sponsor a program of lectures, concerts, poetry recitations, films, and informal gatherings, which will enrich the learning experience of the student and offer opportunities for meeting distinguished Italian and Italian-American visitors to the University. The Paterno Library contains the Italian literature and language collections.

The department offers a summer school in Florence using the facilities of Syracuse University.

Graduate courses are open to qualified students upon consultation with the chairman.

Italian Studies

The program aims to encourage the interest of students in contemporary Europe by focusing on Italy, both for its own sake and as a kind of test-case for the study of a rapidly changing European society. For details of the program, see page 134, under Foreign Area Studies.

Italian

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

The courses in the Department of Italian are designed to develop proficiency in all the language skills and to present the literary and cultural traditions of Italy. The program of study is to be planned as early as possible with the Chairman.

The following courses are required unless advanced standing is attained by the department achievement test or by the Advanced Placement examination:

Italian V 1101-V 1102	Elementary Full-Year Course
Italian V 1201-V 1202	Intermediate Course
or
Italian V 1301-V 1302	Comprehensive Elementary and Intermediate Course;

Twelve courses are required for the major including:

Italian V 3333-V 3334	Introduction to Italian Literature
Italian V 3335-V 3336	Italian Written and Oral Style
Italian V 3993-V 3994	Seminar in Italian Literature

plus at least 24 more points in Italian courses numbered above Italian V 1302.

Work in another foreign language or in Italian Studies is highly recommended.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

A minimum of five courses are required for the minor to be selected from courses including and numbered above V 3333-V 3334.

Language Requirement

The language requirement can be fulfilled with Italian V 1101-V 1102 and V 1201-V 1202 (or their equivalents) or with Italian V 1301-V 1302 followed by a one-year course in Italian literature. Students who have taken courses in Italian elsewhere (whether in high school, in college, or both) but not at Barnard, must take the Italian placement test before registering for any Italian course. The test is given during the registration period.

Language Laboratory

Each student in Italian V 1101-V 1102 has the option to choose a weekly fifty-minute Language Laboratory period at the beginning of the term.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

ITA V 1101x-ITA V 1102y. Elementary Full-Year Course.

Professor

Joseph L. Malone (Chairman)

Assistant Professor

Robert May

The study of linguistics develops understanding of the nature of language. The major is designed to provide the student with a broad appreciation of the fundamental problems of language analysis, some training in the techniques of linguistics research, as well as insight into the interrelations of linguistics with the other social and communication sciences, the humanities, and philosophy and mathematics.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Majors in Linguistics may choose among four major course programs: the general major, Language Sciences, Linguistics and Literature, and Anthropological Linguistics. Each program consists of a minimum of eleven courses, including the following:

Linguistics V 1101
Linguistics W 4108
Linguistics W 4204
Linguistics W 4500
Linguistics V 3901

Introduction to Linguistics
Principles of Historical Linguistics
Introduction to Phonology
Generative Syntax
Seminar in Linguistics

Students are also encouraged to take Philosophy V 3415 Formal Logic, as well as appropriate courses in ancient and modern languages.

Students enrolled in the general major program are required to take six further courses.

The Language Sciences, Linguistics and Literature, and Anthropological Linguistics major programs offer courses of study relating the contemporary study of language to other closely related fields in the sciences, social sciences and humanities.

LANGUAGE SCIENCES

The study of language in its philosophical, psychological and computational setting. The major consists of a minimum of six of the following courses, of which at least two must be in linguistics:

Linguistics W 4502 (Generative Phonology), Linguistics W 4600 (Transformational Grammar), Linguistics W 4602 (Issues in Semantics), Linguistics W 4702 (Linguistic Theories as Psychological Theories), Psychology BC 3160 (Cognitive Psychology), Psychology BC 3164 (Language and Perception), Psychology W 1501 (Communication Behavior: The Psychology and Structure of Language), Psychology W 3180 (Language and Communication), Philosophy V 3483 (Theory of Meaning), Computer Science W 3261 (Computability and Formal Languages), Computer Science W 4705 (Natural Language Processing).

Other appropriate courses may be substituted upon permission of the student's adviser.

LINGUISTICS AND LITERATURE

The role of linguistics in the analysis of literary language in the widest sense: prized types of language in literate and pre-literate societies (e.g. belles lettres and folklore); translation; versification; registers (e.g. journalese, legal language). The major consists of at least six courses to be selected in consultation with the adviser, drawn from the following categories:*

1. Linguistics courses, V3410, V3412, V3414; also Columbia courses subject to availability, e.g. W4004 (Linguistics and the Verbal Arts).

2. Language and literature courses, to be chosen in consultation with faculty members of the language and literature departments.
3. Other courses relevant to the major, for example, Anthropology V3404 (Ethnolinguistics), Philosophy V3850 (Concept of Literature).

A student desiring to limit her courses under category 2 to one language will normally be required to take additional courses under category 3.*

ANTHROPOLOGICAL LINGUISTICS

The study of language in culture and society. The major consists of at least six courses, to include Anthropology V3033 (Sociolinguistics), Anthropology V3034 (Ethnolinguistics), and four other relevant courses to be selected in consultation with the adviser, e.g. Anthropology V3020 (Men's and Women's Speech), Anthropology V3044 (Symbolism), Linguistics V3414 (Linguistics and the Structure of Texts), Psychology W1501 (Communication Behavior: the Psychology and Structure of Language).

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

Students minoring in Linguistics must take five courses in the department, including V1101.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

LIN V 1101x, LIN V 1101y. Introduction to Linguistics.

Nature of language; characteristics of phonological and grammatical systems and the lexicon; evolution of language; role of linguistics in related disciplines; modern techniques of linguistic analysis.—Staff.

Enrollment limited to ca. 100 students per section.

Advance sign-up required.

3 points.

x: Section I Tu Th 9:10-10:25.

y: Section I Tu Th 10:35-11:50.

LIN V 3410y. The Science of Linguistics and the Art of Translation.

Linguistic patterns and the application of linguistic techniques in both the process of translation and the comparison of original and translated versions of a text. Texts include literary, Biblical, and journalistic material in bi- or multilingual versions, and students will use materials in languages familiar to them for analysis and translation.—J. Malone.

Prerequisite: V 1101.

Enrollment limited to 25 students. Advance sign-up required. Offered in rotation with V 3412 and V 3414.

Not offered in 1985-86.

3 points.

(V)

LIN V 3412y. Linguistics and the Translation of Poetic Language.

Linguistics as a tool in the translation of poems and other kinds of texts whose structure depends on phonetic and phonological patterns. Recent developments in linguistics (e.g. by Paul Kiparsky) relevant to the analysis of rhyme, meter, parallelism, and other sound-based configurations. Materials include monolingual and bilingual texts (poems, proverbs, etc., in several languages), some chosen by the instructor and others by the students.—J. Malone.

Prerequisite: V 1101.

Enrollment is limited to 25 students. Advance sign-up required. Offered in rotation with V 3410 and V 3414.

3 points. Tu Th 9:10-10:25.

(V)

LIN V 3414y. Linguistics and the Structure of Texts.

Application of linguistics techniques for elucidation of meaning and structure in various types of texts, especially poetry and prose. Modern techniques and traditional methods. Texts used for illustration and analysis will be in various languages.—J. Malone.

Prerequisite: V 1101.

Enrollment is limited to 25 students. Advance sign-up required. Offered in rotation with V 3410 and V 3412. Not offered in 1985-86.

3 points.

(V)

LIN V 3901y. Seminar in Linguistics.

Supervised research in the student's area of specialization, preparation of a research paper.—J. Malone.

Limited to senior majors.

3 points. W 9:00-10:50.

LIN W 4108y. Principles of Historical Linguistics.

Principles of historical and comparative linguistics.—J. Malone.

Prerequisite: V 1101. Offered annually.

3 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:50.

3 points. M 2:10-4:00.

LIN W 4204x. Introduction to Phonology.

Basic concepts and issues in phonological theory; development of the phonemic and morphophonemic levels of representation.—J. Malone.

Prerequisite: V1101.

Offered annually.

3 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:50.

LIN W 4500x. Generative Syntax.

Principles and analytic techniques of generative syntax; formal and substantive aspects of transformations, base, lexicon, and semantic interpretation.—R. May.

Prerequisite: V1101.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

LIN W 4600y. Transformational Grammar.

Development of contemporary thought in theoretical linguistics, focusing on syntactic analysis. Topics include the Standard and Extended Theories, Government-binding framework.—R. May.

Prerequisite: W 4500 or permission of the instructor.

3 points. Tu Th 2:40-3:55.

LIN W 4602x. Issues in Semantics.

Determination of meaning by properties of grammatical form. Issues to be discussed include relation of syntactic and argument structure, anaphora, scope of quantification.—R. May.

Prerequisite: W 4500 or permission of the instructor.

3 points. Tu Th 2:40-3:55.

LIN W 4702x. Linguistic Theories as Psychological Theories.

Foundations and consequences of taking linguistics as a branch of cognitive psychology. Discussion of the philosophical basis of this perspective, and its effect on research in linguistics and psycholinguistics.—R. May.

Prerequisite: W 4602x or W 4600y or permission of the instructor.

Not offered in 1985-86.

The Mathematics Department offers a wide range of courses, which fall into four groups: non-credit courses for students who lack a firm grasp of basics in mathematics, service courses for students who need to learn the tools of mathematics for applications to other areas, courses in the majors' program in pure mathematics (including a regular track and an honors track), and courses in the majors' program in applied mathematics.

Students interested in Computing Science should consult the program listing of that department, page 99.

General Information

The non-credit offering is V 0077, Pre-Calculus.

V1002, Introduction to Basic Concepts of Mathematics. Not offered Spring 1986.
V 1100, Brief Calculus. Not offered in 1985-86.

The systematic study of college mathematics begins with one of the following three alternative four-term sequences: Calculus IA, IIA, IIIA, IVA (Mathematics V1101, V1102, V1201, V1202); Calculus IB, IIB, IIIB, IVB (Mathematics V1103, V1104, V1203, V1204). Honors Mathematics I, II, III, IV (Mathematics V1107, V1108, V1208.) The A-sequence is a standard course in differential and integral calculus, intended primarily for students who need calculus for its applications. The B-sequence covers substantially the same material as A, but places more stress on theoretical foundations and moves at a more rapid pace.

The four-term Honors Mathematics sequence is designed for students with strong mathematical talent and motivation. Included in the course is the material of the calculus sequences, so it does not presume high school calculus. However, it is a much more general introduction to mathematical methods and thought, including topics that are applicable in a wide variety of fields. It will not be repetitious for students who have had high school calculus. Students who perform well in these courses are prepared, after two years, for certain graduate mathematics courses. Classes are typically small and congenial. This is the most attractive and efficacious course available to mathematically talented freshmen, whether or not they intend to be mathematics majors. Students who contemplate taking Honors Mathematics should consult with the instructor. If this is not possible ahead of time, they should register and attend the first class. Transfer to a calculus course, if appropriate, can be easily arranged. Mathematics majors are required to take the B or Honors levels. A fourth sequence on the first year level, IE, IIE, is designed for prospective economics majors.

Mathematics

Mathematics V1220, Theory of Equations with Applications, is a possible alternative to Calculus IV for non-mathematics majors, or supplement to Calculus IV for mathematics majors in the second year of study.

Placement in the proper term (I, II, III) and level (A, B, Honors) is guided by the following criteria. Students who have studied calculus in high school and have passed the Advanced Placement Test (AB level) with a grade of 4 or 5 are awarded 3 points credit and may begin with Calculus IIA or IIB, or Honors Math I. Those who have received a grade of 3 will be awarded 3 points credit only if they begin with and pass IIA or IIB, or Honors Math I. Students who have studied calculus in high school and have passed the Advanced Placement Test (BC level) with a grade of 4 or 5 are awarded 6 points credit and may begin with IIIA or IIIB (Section II, for freshmen only), or Honors Math I. Those who have received a grade of 3 will be awarded 6 points credit only if they begin with and pass IIIA, IIIB, or Honors Math I-II and will be awarded 3 points credit if, instead, they begin with and pass IIA or IIB. Students cannot receive both AP credit (3 points) and credit for Calculus IA or IB, or both AP credit (6 points) and credit for Calculus IA, IIA, or IB, IIB.

CEEB-Placement exam policies: Students who receive scores under 550 in the CEEB Mathematics Achievement Test, Level I or II, are required to take the departmental placement exam before they may be admitted to any of the department's offerings. Students who do not pass this examination must take non-credit V 0077 in order to be allowed to register for Calculus. The placement exam is administered during the Autumn and Spring registration period.

Students who have special placement problems should go to Room 404 Mathematics to arrange an appointment with a faculty member or the Chairman, either during Freshman week or during the semester.

The Help Room on the 4th floor of the Mathematics Building is open during the day, Monday through Friday, for students seeking individual help and counseling from the instructors and teaching assistants in the A-sequence.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

In the second half of the sophomore year or earlier, prospective majors should register with the chairman (604 Mathematics) or with the administrative assistant (410 Mathematics) to be assigned to a departmental adviser. The major programs in both pure and applied mathematics are appropriate for students who plan to continue their training in graduate school.

Fourteen courses are required for the major in mathematics, distributed as follows according to two tracks:

Pure Mathematics

MAT V 1103-MAT V 1104,
MAT V 1203-MAT V 1204

or

MAT V 1107-MAT V 1108,
MAT V 1207-MAT V 1208
MAT W 4061-MAT W 4062
MAT V 3040-MAT V 3041
MAT V 3951 or MAT V 3952

Calculus IB, IIB, IIIB, IVB

Honors Math I-IV

Introduction to Modern Analysis

Introduction to Modern Algebra

Undergraduate Seminars in Mathematics and 15 points in any combination of mathematics and cognate courses, such as physics, chemistry, astronomy, computing science, etc., to be approved by the adviser.

Mathematics

Students who elect to take Honors Math I-IV should see the discussion under “General Information” on page 181.

Eng-Math E 4903-E 4904	Seminar in Applied Mathematics (4 points each)

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

Six courses are required for the minor, consisting of courses numbered 1200 or above from the departmental offerings, subject to the approval of the chairman.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

MAT V 0077x, MAT V 0077y. Pre-Calculus.
Graded on a pass-fail basis.
This course does not carry credit toward the bachelor's degree.

For students who wish to study calculus but do not have a firm enough grasp of high school mathematics. Topics studied: review of algebra, coordinate geometry, trigonometry, exponents, and logarithms, rates of change. —Staff.
3 points, for tuition charges.

Section I M W F 1:10-2:00.

Section II M W F 4:10-5:00.

Section III Tu Th 6:10-7:25.

Section IV M W 7:10-8:25.

MAT V 1001x. Introduction to Basic Concepts of Mathematics.

Not open to students who have completed another credit-bearing course in the department. A terminal course for students not intending to continue the study of mathematics. A glimpse into the world of mathematics and its application. Although the material is elementary, it is approached from a thoroughly contemporary scientific point of view.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: High school mathematics through intermediate algebra or the equivalent and the permission of the chairman.

3 points. M W F 11:00-11:50.

MAT V 1002y. Introduction to Basic Concepts of Mathematics.
3 points. Not offered in 1985-86. (VI)

MAT V 1007x, MAT V1007y. Applied Linear Algebra.

Topics, especially suitable for the social sciences, include: linear and quadratic equations, systems of linear equations, matrices, linear programming, the simplex method, difference equations, applications to economics and finance. —Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: High school algebra or V 0070.

3 points. x: Tu Th 4:10-5:25.

y: Tu Th 1:10-2:25. (VI)

MAT V 1100x. Brief Calculus.

S. Humphries.

Prerequisite: High school mathematics through trigonometry or Mathematics V 0077.

Not offered in 1985-86.

3 points. (VI)

MAT V 1101x. MAT V 1101y. Calculus IA.

Functions, limits, derivatives; introduction to integrals. Help-Room on the 4th floor of the Mathematics Building is open to students seeking individual help and counseling by instructors and teaching assistants during the day, Monday to Friday.—H. Hiller and staff.

Mathematics

Prerequisite: a firm grasp of high school mathematics through trigonometry, or Mathematics V 0077 or the equivalent.

3 points.

Section I M W F 10:00.

Section II M W F 11:00.

Section III x: M W 1:10-2:25.

y: M W 4:10-5:25.

Section IV x: Tu Th 6:10-7:25.

y: Tu Th 6:10-7:25.

Recitation: One hour chosen by the student during the first week of classes from fixed schedule. (VI)

MAT V 1102x, MAT V 1102y. Calculus IIA.

Methods of integration; applications of the integral; Taylor's Theorem; infinite series.—H. Hiller and staff.

Prerequisite: Course V 1101 or the equivalent.
3 points.

Section I M W F 10:00.

Section II M W F 11:00

Section III x: Tu Th 6:10-7:25.

Section IV y: Tu Th 6:10-7:25.

Recitation: One hour chosen by the student during the first week of classes from a fixed schedule. (VI)

MAT V 1103x. Calculus IB.

Same topics as Calculus IA, with greater emphasis on underlying theory.—Instructor to be announced.

3 points. M W F 11:00.

Recitation: Tu or Th 8:00 or 12:00. (VI)

MAT V 1104x, MAT V 1104y. Calculus IIB.

Same topics as Calculus IIA, with greater emphasis on underlying theory.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: Course V 1103 or the equivalent.
3 points. M W F 11:00.

Recitation: Tu or Th 8:00 or 12:00. (VI)

MAT V 1107x, MAT V 1108y. Honors Mathematics I-II.

For further information see the discussion under "General Information," page 181.

Instructor to be announced.

3 points. M W F 11:00. (VI)

MAT V 1111x, MAT V 1112y. Calculus for Economics.

The level of this course is the same as that of Mathematics V 1101, V 1102, but the syllabus is modified to meet the special needs of economics students. x: Derivatives, transcendental functions, curve-sketching, optimization problems in one variable, integrals; y: Partial derivatives, notions from linear algebra implicit functions, optimization problems in several variables, complex numbers, linear differential and difference equations with constant coefficients.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: Same as for V 1101-V 1102.

3 points. Section I: M W F 10:00. Section II: M W F 11:00.

Recitation: M 12:00 or W 8:00. (VI)

MAT V 1201x, MAT V 1201y. Calculus IIIA.

Vectors in dimensions 2 and 3; vector valued functions and their derivatives; curves. Functions of several variables; partial derivatives; gradients; surfaces; extrema; double and triple integrals.—Instructors to be announced.

Prerequisite: Course V 1102 or the equivalent.
3 points.

Sections I, II, III x: Tu Th 10:35-11:50.

Section I y: M W F 10:00-10:50.

MAT V 1207x, MAT V 1208y.

Honors Mathematics III, IV.

Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: Courses V 1107-V 1108. Course V 1207 is the prerequisite for V 1208.

3 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:50. (VI)

MAT V 1220y. Theory of Equations with Applications.

Topics in abstract algebra extensively used in science and engineering; basic notions of set theory; induction; groups, rings, fields; rings of integers and of polynomials; finite abelian groups; finite rings and fields; elementary combinatorics; difference equations.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: One year of calculus.

3 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:50. (VI)

MAT V 2040x. Number Theory.

Congruences, quadratic residues, Gaussian sums; number-theoretic functions; distribution of primes; algebraic and transcendental numbers.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: Calculus II.

3 points. Tu Th 1:10-2:25. (VI)

MAT V 3007x. Complex Variables.

Elementary course in functions of a complex variable; fundamental properties of the complex numbers, differentiability, Cauchy-Riemann equations; Cauchy integral theorem, Taylor and Laurent series, poles and essential singularities; residue theorem and conformal mapping.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: Calculus IV.

3 points. T Th 2:40-3:55. (VI)

MAT V 3010x. Fundamental Concepts of Mathematics.

Introduction to logic. Sets, mappings, relations, ordered sets, well-ordering, natural numbers, cardinal numbers, ordinal numbers, choice function, Zorn's lemma, induction.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: Mathematics V 1204 or the equivalent, or at least one term of a 3000-level course.

3 points. T Th 9:10-10:25. (VI)

MAT V 3027x. Ordinary Differential Equations.

Equations of order one; linear equations series solutions at regular and singular points; boundary value problems; selected applications.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: Calculus III or the equivalent.

3 points. Tu Th 6:10-7:25. (VI)

MAT V 3028y. Partial Differential Equations.

Introduction to partial differential equations; first-order equations; linear second-order equations; separation of variables, solution by series expansions; boundary value problems.

—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: Course V 3027 or the equivalent.

3 points. Tu Th 6:10-7:25. (VI)

MAT V 3029x-MAT V 3030y. Linear Algebra and Differential Equations.

An integrated course in linear algebra and ordinary differential equations, the latter serving as the major source of motivation for and applications of the former; the contents of V 3027 and V 3202 with applications to population biology, economics, physics, chemistry, electrical circuits, and manifold theory.—Instructor to be announced.

The second term of this course may not be taken without the first.

Prerequisite: Calculus III or the equivalent.

3 points. Tu Th 9:10-10:25. (VI)

MAT W 4032x. Fourier Analysis.

Basic elements: Fourier series and integrals, inversion and Poisson summation formulae, applications to number theory, geometry, and mathematical physics. Additional topics to be selected from: a) Eigenfunction expansions, harmonic oscillators; Mehler kernel; b) Radon and x-ray transforms; c) Fourier analysis on groups, integral geometry, etc.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: 3 semesters of calculus. Some knowledge of linear algebra is suggested but not required.

3 points. Tu Th 2:40-3:55.

MAT W 4033y. Calculus of Variations.

Basic elements: Euler-Lagrange equations, symmetry and conservation laws, Noether's theorem, Legendre transform. Direct methods in eigenvalue problems: min-max principles, Rayleigh-Ritz and Galerkin methods, Dirichlet and Neumann bracketing. Additional topics to be selected from differential geometry, dynamics, or the theory of non-linear waves.—Instructor to be announced.

Mathematics

Prerequisite: Same as for W 4032.

3 points.

Tu Th 2:40-3:55.

MAT V 3040x, MAT V 3041y. Introduction to Modern Algebra.

The second term of this course may not be taken without the first. Groups, homomorphisms, ring ideals, fields, polynomials, and field extensions. Galois theory.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: Calculus IV.

3 points. Tu Th 1:10-2:25. (VI)

MAT W 4061x, MAT W 4062y. Introduction to Modern Analysis.

The second term of this course may not be taken without the first. Real numbers, metric spaces, elements of general topology. Continuous and differentiable functions. Implicit functions. Integration; change of variables. Function spaces. Further topics chosen by the instructor.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: Calculus IV or the equivalent.

3 points. M W 4:10-5:25. (VI)

MAT V 3202y. Linear Algebra.

Vector spaces, linear transformations, matrices, quadratic and hermitian forms, reduction to canonical forms.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: Calculus III or the equivalent.

3 points. Tu Th 9:10-10:25. (VI)

MAT V 3375y. Geometric Topology.

The fundamental group of a topological space; Seifert-Van Kampen theorem, covering spaces, classification of 2-manifolds, simplicial homology.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: Courses V 3040 and W 4061 or their equivalents. This course is intended primarily for mathematics majors.

3 points. Tu Th 2:40-3:55. (VI)

MAT V 3386x. Differential Geometry.

Local and global differential geometry of submanifolds of Euclidean 3-space; Frenet formulas for curves; various types of curvatures for curves and surfaces and their relations; Gauss-Bonnet theorem.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: Calculus IV or the equivalent.

Primarily for majors in Mathematics.

3 points. M W 1:10-2:25. (VI)

MAT V 3901x, MAT V 3902y. Supervised Readings in Mathematics.

Guided reading and study in mathematics. A student who wishes to undertake individual study under this program must present a specific project to a member of the staff and secure his or her willingness to act as sponsor. Sponsorship is limited to full-time instructors listed on the staff list. Written reports and periodic conferences will be required.—Staff.

Permission of the chairman and of the staff member who agrees to act as sponsor are required. The written permission must be deposited with Ms. Georgiadis, Room 410 Mathematics Building, before registration is completed.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

MAT V 3951x, MAT V 3952y.

Undergraduate Seminars in Mathematics.

Subject matter announced at the start of registration and is different in each section. Each student prepares talks, to be given to the seminar, under the supervision of a faculty member or senior teaching fellow.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: Two years of calculus and at least one year of additional mathematics courses, and the permission of the department chairman.

3 points.

Consult 4th floor bulletin board, Mathematics Building, for organizational meeting date and time, during registration period.

GRADUATE COURSES

Certain graduate courses given in the University are open to qualified majors with the consent of the major adviser. These courses are described in the Bulletin of the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences.

Medieval and Renaissance Studies

Office: 206 Milbank Hall

Telephone: 280-5418, 5417

This program is supervised by the Committee on Medieval and Renaissance Studies:

Associate Professor of Classics

Lydia Lenaghan

Assistant Professor of Classics

Daniel Selden

Professor of Italian

Maristella Lorch (Chairman)

Professors of English

Ruth Kivette, Anne Prescott

Assistant Professor of English

Christopher Baswell

Professor of French

Tatiana Greene

Professor of History

Suzanne Wemple (Adviser)

Professor of Music

Hubert Doris

Associate Professor of Spanish

Marcia Welles

Assistant Professor of Spanish

Helene de Aguilar

Associate Professor of Art History

Jane Rosenthal

Lecturer in German

Regina Ayre

This program enables undergraduates to acquire a thorough knowledge of the most important aspects of the Medieval and Renaissance civilizations, and to gain an awareness of the interdependence of historical and cultural developments.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Major programs are established individually with a concentration in one of the disciplines: art history, history, one of the literatures, philosophy, romance philology, music, or religion. A sequence of five courses to be taken in the field of concentration has been developed by the relevant department.

A minimum of twelve courses is required for the major in Medieval and Renaissance Studies, distributed as follows:

- 5 courses in the area of concentration.
- 2 history courses;
- 3 Medieval and Renaissance Studies courses;
- 2 electives to be chosen in consultation with the adviser.

Students are required to write a senior essay, either in a Medieval and Renaissance Studies course or in a senior level seminar in the discipline of their concentration.

Medieval and Renaissance Studies

Language Requirements

Medieval Studies. A reading knowledge of one Romance or Germanic language is required. In special cases students may petition for another language. Students are expected to acquire a reading knowledge of Medieval Latin before graduation. (See Latin BC 3033, Medieval Literature.)

Renaissance Studies. A reading knowledge of two languages, preferably Latin and Italian, must be acquired before graduation.

Mimeographed lists of concentration courses are available from the Program Adviser, 413 Lehman Hall.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

There is no minor in Medieval and Renaissance Studies.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

History-Italian HII V 3197x. Dante's World.

Historical background of Dante's political, social, and ethical thought, and literary analysis of its poetical rendering.—M. Lorch and S. Wemple.

3 points. Tu 4:00-6:00, plus third hour to be arranged. (IV)

English ENG BC 3197x. Myth and History at the Court of Elizabeth I.

—A. Prescott.

4 points. Not offered in 1985-86. (I)

MRS BC 3080x. The Court of Este: Myth and History.

Exploration through history and fiction of the origins and dimensions of the court of Este in Ferrara and the birth and development of Renaissance theatre, chivalric and epic poetry.

—M. Lorch and R. Pettinelli.

4 points. Not offered in 1985-86. (III)

Italian-Music ITM V 3034y. Italian Renaissance: Courts and the Theatre.

Relation of the textual to the dramatic, musical, choreographic, and visual elements, and the social nature of the encounter between the public and the actors and performers.—H. Doris and M. Lorch.

Not offered in 1985-86.

3 points.

MRS BC 3082y. Iconography and Allegory.

Central forms and procedures of medieval and Renaissance iconography and allegory; movement of signs, symbols and narratives from religion and philosophy into literature.—E. Cousins and B. Ulanov.

3 points. Not offered in 1985-86. (III)

MRS BC 3086x. Women in the Middle Ages: Ideals and Reality.

Position of women in the medieval social structure and as reflected in the image of women in literature and art. Women's contributions to art and literature and some common medieval stereotypes examined on the basis of primary evidence, letters, manuals, documents, literary texts, and works of art.—J. Rosenthal and S. Wemple.

Not offered in 1985-86.

4 points. (III)

MRS BC 3909y. Senior Seminar.

Texts central to the continuity and reappraisal of medieval and Renaissance traditions. Readings linked to the student's experience in various fields provide a context for the preparation of a senior thesis.—Members of the Committee.

4 points. Hours to be arranged.

Italian ITA V 3469y. Renaissance

Humanism: Its Sources, Forms and Legacy. Advanced Seminar.

Humanistic literature in Europe (1400-1500) forms of humanistic literature, the humanist concern with Christianity as religion, humanism and education, politics and the visual arts.—R. Harrison.

3 points. Tu Th 2:40-3:55.

OTHER MEDIEVAL AND RENAISSANCE STUDIES COURSES

Art History ARH BC 3351x. Early Christian and Early Medieval Art.

The origins of Christian art and architecture before Constantine and the subsequent development of architecture, sculpture, and painting under the patronage of church and state in Western Europe from the 4th through the 11th centuries.—J. Rosenthal.

3 points. M W 2:40-3:55. (I)

Medieval and Renaissance Studies

Art History ARH BC 3352y. Art of the Later Middle Ages.

Architecture, sculpture, and painting in the Romanesque and Gothic periods, with emphasis on the French contributions.—S. Gardner.
3 points. M W 2:40-3:55. (I)

Art History ARH W 3400x. Italian Renaissance Painting.

The work of the major masters who flourished in the 15th and early 16th centuries with special emphasis given to Masaccio, Piero della Francesca, Leonardo da Vinci, Giovanni Bellini, Giorgione, Titian, and Michelangelo.—J. Beck.

3 points. Tu Th 6:10-7:25. (I)

Art History ARH V 3420y. Italian Sculpture during the Renaissance.

Survey of developments from the 13th to the 16th century with special emphasis given to the art of Nicola Pisano, Giovanni Pisano, Quercia, Donatello, and Michelangelo.—J. Beck.
Not offered in 1985-86.

3 points. (I)

Art History ARH V 3437y. Italian Painting of the Sixteenth Century.

The styles and significance of painting in Italy, with discussion of the concepts of High Renaissance and Mannerism. Emphasis on major figures.—D. Rosand.
Not offered in 1985-86.

3 points. (I)

Art History ARH V 3460x. Renaissance and Baroque Architecture in Italy.

Architecture and urban design from 1400 to 1675, focusing on the major works and ideas of Brunelleschi, Alberti, Bramante, Michelangelo, Palladio, Bernini, and Borromini, the architecture of Humanism, the Renaissance city, villas and gardens, baroque Rome, the diffusion of the style outside Italy.—J. Connors.
Not offered in 1985-86.

3 points. (I)

Art History ARH BC 3661x. European Architecture from the Renaissance to 1700.

Development of Renaissance and Baroque architecture in Italy, France, Germany, and England from the 15th century to 1700. Architects studied include Brunelleschi, Bramante, Michelangelo, Delorme, Cortona, Borromini, François Mansart, Hardouin-Mansart, Inigo Jones, and Wren.—D. Nyberg.

3 points. Tu Th 2:40-3:55. (I)

Art History ARH W 3935x. Renaissance Art in Florence.

A detailed study and analysis of the art and architecture of Florence from 1280-1512 with emphasis on contemporary literary, social and political currents.—J. Beck.

Not offered in 1985-86.

4 points.

Art History ARH BC 3953y. The Art of Medieval Manuscript Illumination.

Principal forms of decoration and illustration in medieval manuscripts, including examination of original works in collections in New York City.—J. Rosenthal.

Not offered in 1985-86.

4 points.

(I)

Art History ARH W 4358x. Art and Architecture of Medieval Spain.

The principal monuments of Christian and Islamic artistic traditions on the Iberian peninsula from the 6th to the 12th century. Emphasis on architecture and architectural decoration, with some discussion of manuscripts and wall painting. Attention will be given to the political, social, and cultural context of the works studied.—J. Dodds.

Not offered in 1985-86.

The offerings of the department are designed to encourage the study of music as an art and a craft within the framework of the liberal arts. The courses in the Theory sequence are intended to develop an understanding of the way Western music has developed from the Renaissance to the present. These courses prepare the student practically and analytically for the courses in the History sequence. The History sequence covers the period from the Middle Ages to the mid-twentieth century, emphasizing not only the purely historical development of music, but also its place as an art in society.

The department provides practice rooms at nominal charge. Preference in assigning hours is given in order of application to music majors and those enrolled in courses given by the department. Application for practice time should be made at the Office of Buildings and Grounds, Milbank Hall, during registration and the first week of classes by music majors, and by all others during the week following.

Books, scores, and records are available at the Barnard College Library. The Columbia University Music Library contains an extensive collection of music materials for reference, research and circulation. In addition, phonographs with a large collection of recordings are also available for use by students registered in music courses other than Music BC 1001-BC 1002, An Introduction to Music.

Students contemplating a career in performance or composition should also consult the announcement for the Program in the Arts, page 77.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

The music major is a demanding one, but it is hoped that the student will find time to follow special courses of particular interest from among those presented in the Literature and History section of the departmental offering.

A total of 14 courses is required for the major:

V 2100-V 2101, V 2300-V2301, V 2303, V 2305	Theory I, II, III, IV, V, and VI
V 3123, V 3124, V 3125, V3126 V 3179-V 3180	History I, II, III, and IV Seminar: Historical and Analytical Studies in the Literature of Music
V 3373-V 3374	Orchestration, Conducting, and Score Reading

A student intending to major in music should start with V 2100 and V3123 as early as possible. BC 1001-BC 1002, though prerequisite for more advanced literature courses, is not required of music majors, since it covers the same kind of materials in greater depth in the courses already required of them. Applied music (a maximum of two courses) may be counted toward the degree, but is not required.

Students planning to do graduate work in theory or ethnomusicology must know at least two foreign languages, including German and French. Those planning graduate work in historical musicology must know Latin, and German or French. Courses in art history, history, philosophy, literature, and foreign languages are recommended for their relationship with musical studies, and should be elected after consultation with the department.

Students are advised to consult the Bulletin of the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences for those courses open to seniors and others with advanced training.

Piano requirement: the student must present herself for an audition with a member of the piano faculty immediately upon acceptance as a music major, and by appointment during the exam period of each term thereafter, until she has reached an appropriate level of proficiency at the keyboard, such proficiency to be certified by a member of the piano faculty no later than the end of the first term of the senior year. It is the student's obligation to make an appointment for these auditions prior to each exam period.

Majors must have participated for two years in the chorus, orchestra, choir, concert band, collegium musicum, chamber music, or other musical ensembles by the time they are graduated. A senior major is required to prepare a research paper, project or a recital with essay to be planned in consultation with her adviser no later than the beginning of the senior year.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

A minimum of six courses is required for the minor, four terms in the Theory sequence and two terms in the History sequence.

The primary aim of Oriental Studies is to introduce major Asian civilizations, their works and values, as a means of expanding knowledge of the varieties and unities of human experience. The General Courses below are designed for any student, whatever her major interests, who wishes to include knowledge of Asian life in her education.

The satisfactory completion of one of the following courses offered in the departments of East Asian Languages and Cultures, and Middle East Languages and Cultures satisfies the college requirements in the respective languages: Akkadian G 4204, Intermediate Akkadian: Introduction to Old Babylonian; Arabic W 1122, Intermediate Modern Arabic; Armenian W 1124, Intermediate Armenian; Chinese C 1202 or F 1202, Intermediate Chinese (second stage); Hebrew W 1122, Intermediate Modern Hebrew; Hindi W 1122, Intermediate Hindi; Japanese C 1202 or F 1202, Intermediate Japanese (second stage); Iranian W 1122, Intermediate Persian; Sanskrit G 6102, Intermediate Sanskrit; Turkish W 1122, Intermediate Turkish, or Urdu W 4002, Advanced Urdu.

Literature courses in the departments of East Asian Languages and Cultures and Middle East Languages and Cultures in which readings are in the original languages may be used to fulfill the Barnard distribution requirements only with the permission of the Chairman of Oriental Studies.

Students who wish to enter Chinese, Japanese or Korean language courses above the introductory level must pass a language placement test before registering. Placement exams are given during the week before classes begin—contact Department of East Asian Languages and Culture (407 Kent) for exact dates. For placement above the introductory level in Arabic, Hebrew, Hindi, Persian, Sanskrit, Turkish, or Urdu, contact the Department of Middle East Languages and Cultures (609 Kent). All students wishing to enter the Hebrew language program or wishing exemption from the Hebrew language requirement must take a placement test. The test is administered every Wednesday during August from 11-1 in 609 Kent Hall.

The department offers a wide range of courses designed to acquaint the student with traditional and contemporary work in ethics, metaphysics, theory of meaning, aesthetics, theory of knowledge, and philosophy of logic. The courses are designed to facilitate student participation and each class is conceived as a workshop. The student is expected to develop a competence in technique of conceptual analysis, argument, and the interpretation of texts.

Philosophy BC 1001, Introduction to Philosophy, although not a requirement for the major, is recommended to students who have not had previous training in philosophy.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

A major in Philosophy consists of at least 10 courses:

One of the following courses:

Philosophy

Philosophy V 3601 Metaphysics
Philosophy V 3501 Theory of Knowledge

Two semesters of Philosophy BC 3288-BC 3289 Majors' Seminar, and three electives

The sequence of courses is to be determined in consultation with the major adviser. Philosophy BC 3288-BC 3289 may be taken either in the senior year or beginning in the second term of the junior year. The topic for the seminar is set each year on the basis of consultation with the students. A number of short papers will be required or, subject to departmental approval, a student may elect to write a Senior Essay.

Students who wish to complete a double or joint major including philosophy should consult the chairman of the department at as early a point in their planning as possible.

Philosophy BC 3398, BC 3399, Supplementary Readings in Philosophy, is open to students who have a well-developed individual project with departmental approval and permission of the instructor.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

Five courses constitute a minor in philosophy. Courses are to be selected on the basis of consultation with the adviser.

Curriculum

The curriculum is organized and administered by the faculty of the Department of Physical Education. Instruction is offered in the areas of sports, aquatics, movement, fitness, and other specialized courses. Modern dance, ballet, tap, and jazz dance courses are offered under the auspices of the Dance Department and may be taken to fulfill the Physical Education requirement. Courses are designed to promote the development and enjoyment of lifetime motor skills which will afford opportunities to realize one's potential, and to provide vigorous exercise to release tensions often generated by strong academic commitments and intense urban life.

Intercollegiate Athletics

The Barnard/Columbia Athletic Consortium provides the opportunity for eligible undergraduate women to compete together as members of University-wide athletic teams. Nine varsity sports are currently sponsored: Archery, Basketball, Cross Country, Fencing, Swimming & Diving, Tennis, Indoor and Outdoor Track & Field, and Volleyball. Governed by NCAA and Ivy League rules, all teams have Division I status except basketball, which is currently Division III. Competition is scheduled with teams from the Ivy League, the metropolitan area, and the eastern region. In addition, students are eligible to qualify for state, regional, and national championships. Physical Education credit may be earned through satisfactory participation on a varsity team.

For more information contact Margie Tversky, Associate Director of Athletics, at the Columbia Dodge Fitness Center, or check for information in the Physical Education Department in room 209, Barnard Hall.

Recreation

Recreational use of the gymnasium, swimming pool, track, weight room, and bowling alleys are available at specified times. All students, faculty, and staff are encouraged to participate and use the facilities.

Intramurals

The Physical Education Department offers an extensive intramural program which features competition in archery, badminton, basketball, bowling, fencing, indoor soccer, wiffle ball, softball, tennis, ultimate frisbee, volleyball, fun runs, and recreational games. For more information contact the intramural office, 206 Barnard Hall, or call 280-2085.

Health Status

Freshmen and transfer students must submit a medical report to the Office of Health Services upon admission to the college. Students who have failed to submit a medical report may not participate in physical education classes and activities.

Students with permanent or temporary disabilities will be individually advised and placed in a suitable activity where possible, based upon the recommendations of the College Physician.

Posture Analysis

Freshmen students may elect to have a complete posture analysis with follow-up examinations. Posture Laboratory is offered for students who wish to improve body alignment.

Physical Education

Requirement

Students admitted as freshmen must complete two semesters of Physical Education. One semester of Physical Education must be taken in the freshman year, and the requirement must be completed at the end of the sophomore year. Transfer students are required to complete one semester of Physical Education at Barnard.

Registration

Registration for the fall semester takes place starting the Tuesday after Labor Day and continues through that week outside of 209 Barnard Hall. A complete schedule of courses is prepared each fall for preregistration for the spring semester. Preregistration should be confirmed before filing programs with the Registrar. Students must include the physical education course by number, title, section, and I.D. number on final programs filed with the Registrar. Students who do not preregister may register during the first two days of the semester in the Physical Education office.

An agreement between the Department of Physical Education of Barnard College and Columbia College permits limited enrollment of Barnard students in some Columbia courses. Columbia College and Engineering School students may register for some Barnard courses through the Columbia Physical Education Department. Other Columbia University students must receive permission of the Physical Education Department to register before completing registration procedures.

PED BC 1364x, PED BC 1364y. Beginning Tennis. (A)

Basic forehand, backhand, drives and volleys, and introduction to the serve; scoring.

PED BC 1365x, PED BC 1365y. Low Intermediate Tennis. (B)

Refinement of forehand, backhand, volley and serve; scoring; simulated games.

PED BC 2366x, PED BC 2366y. Intermediate Tennis. (C)

Further development of strokes, service return; net play; doubles play.

PED BC 2367x, PED BC 2367y. Intermediate and Advanced Tennis. (CD)

Advanced net play, overheads; strategy, singles and doubles.

Permission of the instructor required.

PED BC 1470x, PED BC 1470y. Beginning and Low Intermediate Volleyball. (AB)

Introduction of forearm pass, overhead fingertip pass, serve and spike, and basic offensive and defensive strategies.

PED BC 2471x, PED BC 2471y. Intermediate and Advanced Volleyball. (CD)

Power volleyball skills and various offensive and defensive strategies.

SPECIAL COURSES

PED BC 1680x, PED BC 1680y. Beginning Movement Workshop. (A)

Creative exploration, analysis and observation of movement.

PED BC 1681y. Low Intermediate Movement Workshop. (B)

Exploration of student's individual movement patterns. Works of Laban and Bartenieff will be used as tools for analysis.

PED BC 1582x, PED BC 1582y. Aerobic Dance.

Vigorous movement routines choreographed to popular music to develop cardio-vascular endurance and muscle tone.

PED BC 1583x, PED BC 1583y. Beginning Fitness. (A)

Introduction to a variety of conditioning programs; improvement of flexibility, strength, and cardio-vascular efficiency.

PED BC 2584y. Intermediate Fitness. (C)

Intensive fitness program for students who have taken BC 1583 or who have been engaged in a vigorous conditioning program.

Physical Education

PED BC 1585x, PED BC 1585y. Weight Training.

Introduction to principles of weight training; use of the Universal Weight Machine. Programs tailored to individual needs.

PED BC 1686x, PED BC 1686y. Posture Laboratory.

Exercises to strengthen and stretch the skeletal muscles; practice in the release of muscle tension and in the correct alignment of the body.

PED BC 1688x, PED BC 1688y. Stress Management.

Techniques of releasing muscle tension in the skeletal muscles of the body.

PED BC 1690x, PED BC 1690y. Beginning Self Defense. (A)

Development of poise and confidence, using basic defensive and offensive moves, so that a person can handle a threatening situation effectively and with minimal confrontation.

PED BC 1693x, PED BC 1693y. Beginning Yoga. (A)

Basic Hatha yoga positions; body awareness; relaxation.

PED BC 1695x, PED BC 1695y. Low Intermediate Yoga. (B)

Basic standing poses and inverted postures—plough, shoulderstand, headstand, handstand.

PED BC 2694x, PED BC 2694y. Intermediate Yoga. (C)

Advanced Hatha yoga postures; inverted positions; breathing and concentration techniques.

PED BC 2799x, PED BC 2799y. Independent Study.

Enrollment in a course of instruction.

Not open to freshmen or transfer students. Approval of Department required. Limited to one semester of credit.

DANCE

See Dance Department (page 104) for course listings. Studio Dance Courses may be taken to fulfill the Physical Education requirement.

Courses offered are:

Ballet—Beginning, Low Intermediate, Intermediate, Advanced.

Jazz—Low Intermediate, Intermediate.

Modern—Beginning, Low Intermediate, Intermediate.

Tap—Beginning, Intermediate.

The study of physics ranges from disciplined preparation for professional work in physics itself, or a basic education in physics necessary for the study of, or work in, other sciences and medicine, to a more general familiarity with physics and its historical development as part of contemporary culture.

In cooperation with the faculty of the University, Barnard offers a thorough pre-professional curriculum. The faculty represents a wide range of expertise, with special strength and distinction in elementary-particle and theoretical physics.

The unique facilities of Barnard's History of Physics Laboratory, oriented to the broader perspective, are available to students at all levels—from introductory classes to individual studies and researches.

The department offers four distinct introductory sequences, only one of which may ordinarily be taken for credit.

1. C1001-C1002, Elementary Physics and V 1305-V 1306, Physics in Historical Perspective, are intended for liberal arts students whose aim is to achieve some qualitative understanding of science.
2. Either V 1003, V 1004, General Physics, or V 1103, V 1104, General Physics, is satisfactory preparation for medical school. Both cover the same material, but V 1103, V 1104 is somewhat more intensive and is designed for students majoring in sciences; V 1003, V 1004 is not recommended as a foundation for more advanced work in physics.
3. An entering student with a serious interest in physics should enroll in the Autumn Term in C 1006, General Physics I. Mechanics, which begins a four-term sequence (C 1007, C 1011, C 1012, General Physics II-IV), leading to more advanced courses. (These courses may be taken without laboratory by nonmajors. See the Columbia College bulletin for the appropriate course numbers.)
4. Freshmen with exceptional aptitude for physics and a good mathematical background may be admitted into the two-semester sequence, C 1021, C 1022, General Physics, which replaces all four terms of the sequence starting with C 1006. Admission is by special interview with the instructor. A student interested in this course should, if possible, attend the "Physics Placement Meeting" announced in the Columbia College Freshman Week Program.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

The courses required for a major in physics are:

C 1006, C 1007 or C 1107, C 1011 or C 1111, and C 1012 or C 1112; or C 1021 and C 1022.

With special permission V 1103 and V 1104 may be substituted for all or part of the above courses.

W 3003	Mechanics
W 3007, W 3008	Theory of Electricity and Magnetism
W 3021	Quantum Physics
W 3022	Statistical Physics
W 3083	Electronics Laboratory

and 4½ points of intermediate laboratory work (W 3081, Intermediate Laboratory Work; BC 3011, BC 3012, History of Physics Laboratory), of which a minimum of three points of laboratory work in W 3081 is required.

All 1000-level courses must be taken with laboratory.

Four terms of calculus are required, and some additional work in mathematics is recommended. The program should also include a year of chemistry, although in some instances astronomy, geology, or biology may be substituted.

In addition, students planning to study physics in graduate school are strongly urged to take:

G 4003	Lagrangian Mechanics
G 4021	Quantum Mechanics
G 4022	The Physics of Atoms, Solids, Nuclei, and Particles
W 3072	Seminar in Current Research.

The major examination consists of the Graduate Record Examination in physics.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

Five courses are required for the minor, including C 1006, C 1007 or C 1107, C 1011 or C 1111, C 1012 or C 1112, and one course at the 3000-level.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

PHY V 1305x, PHY V 1306y. Physics in Historical Perspective.

Topics in classical and modern physics with an emphasis on the historical development of physical theories. The experimental work is done in the History of Physics Laboratory.—K. Barad.

Although this course is oriented primarily to non-science students, the course does require a willingness to review and use elementary algebra. Enrollment limited to 50 students. Permission of the instructor required. 4½ points. Lecture Tu Th 1:10-2:25.

Laboratory 3 consecutive hours weekly to be arranged.

PHY C 1001x, PHY C 1002y. Elementary Physics.

Introduction to physics for students with no previous background. In the first semester the course deals with the physics of energy and in the second semester with relativity and subatomic physics.—W. Smith

This course uses very little mathematics. It does not fulfill the physics requirement for admission to medical school. It is primarily addressed to non-science students. 3 points. Lecture M W 1:10-2:25.

PHY V 1003x, PHY V 1004y. General Physics.

Mechanics and heat, electricity, magnetism, optics, and modern physics.—Instructor to be announced, S. Cummins.

Calculus is not a prerequisite for this course. 4 points.

Lecture and Recitation:

Section I M W F 11:00.

Section II Tu Th 11:00-12:15.

Laboratory 3 consecutive hours to be chosen from M Tu W Th F 1:10-4:00 or 4:10-7:00.

Recitation and laboratory sections are arranged after the first class meeting.

PHY V 1103x, PHY V 1104y. General Physics.

Same topics as V 1003-V 1004 discussed at a somewhat higher level, using calculus.—C. Baltay.

Prerequisite: Calculus I and II.

4 points. Lecture M W 11:00-12:15.

Laboratory 3 consecutive hours to be chosen from M Tu W Th F 1:10-4:00 or 4:10-7:00.

Laboratory sections are arranged after the first class meeting.

PHY C 1006x. General Physics I. Mechanics.

Fundamental laws of mechanics; kinematics, dynamics; work and energy; rotational dynamics and angular momentum; introduction to special relativity and relativistic kinematics.—Instructors to be announced.

Corequisite: Calculus I or the equivalent.

3½ points.

Lecture and Recitation:

Section I M W F 9:00.

Section II M W 8:35-9:50.

Section III Tu Th 11:00-12:15.

Laboratory 3 hours every other week. Times to be arranged after first class meeting.

PHY C 1007y. General Physics II. Electricity and Magnetism.

Electrostatics; direct currents; electromagnetism; alternating currents; wave motion.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: C 1006. Corequisite: Calculus II or the equivalent.

3½ points.

Lecture and Recitation:

Section I M W F 9:00.

Section II Tu Th 11:00-12:15.

Laboratory 3 hours every other week. Times to be arranged after first class meeting.

PHY C 1011x. General Physics III. Optics and Thermodynamics.

Acoustical waves; nature of light; polarization; geometrical optics; interference and diffraction of light; heat; states of matter; gas laws, the laws of thermodynamics; kinetic theory of gases.—Instructors to be announced.

Prerequisite: C 1006. Corequisite: Calculus III.

3½ points. Lecture Tu Th 9:00-10:15.

Laboratory 3 hours every other week. Times to be arranged after first class meeting.

PHY C 1012y. General Physics IV. Modern Physics.

Quantum effects; atomic structure and spectra; nuclear structure and reactions; fission and fusion; elementary particles.—Instructors to be announced.

Prerequisites: C 1011 and C 1007 or the equivalent.

3½ points. Lecture Tu Th 9:00-10:15.

Laboratory 3 hours every other week. Times to be arranged after first class meeting.

PHY C 1107y, PHY C 1111x, PHY C 1112y. General Physics II-IV.

Honors sections of C 1007y, C 1011x, C 1012y, respectively.—Instructors to be announced.

Prerequisites: See C 1007y, C 1011x, C 1012y; also, permission of the instructor.

3½ points.

C 1107y: Tu Th 11:00-12:15.

C 1111x: Tu Th 9:00-10:15.

C 1112y: Tu Th 9:00-10:15.

PHY C 1021x, PHY C 1022y. General Physics.

Mechanics, heat, electricity, magnetism, and light.—F. Sciulli.

Prerequisite: Advanced placement in mathematics or some knowledge of differential and integral calculus, and permission of the departmental representative. (A special placement meeting is held during Freshman Orientation.)

4 points. Lecture Tu Th 11:00-12:15.

Laboratory 3 hours to be arranged at the first class meeting.

PHY BC 3011x, PHY BC 3012y. Advanced History of Physics Laboratory.

Experimental investigations in the historical development of physics studied by both laboratory and literary work. Students work individually or in collaboration with other students, choosing one or two examples (ranging from physics in the 17th to the 20th century), and study these thoroughly.—S. Cummins.

Prerequisite: Good basic knowledge of physics, aptitude for laboratory work and individual initiative. Permission of the instructor required. Not offered in 1985-86.

2 points.

PHY W 3003x. Mechanics.

Newton's laws of motion. Conservative forces and potential energy. Central forces. Planetary motion. Rutherford scattering. Free and forced oscillations. A brief introduction to Lagrange's equations and Hamilton's equations.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisites: General physics and integral calculus.

3 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:50.

PHY W 3007y. Electricity and Magnetism.

Electrostatics and magnetostatics. Laplace's equation and boundary-value problems. Multipole expansions. Dielectric and magnetic materials. Faraday's law. AC circuits. Maxwell's equations. Lorentz covariance and special relativity.—R. Friedberg.

Physics

Prerequisites: C 1007 or the equivalent, and differential and integral calculus.

3 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:50.

PHY W 3008x. Electromagnetic Waves and Optics.

Maxwell's equations and electromagnetic potentials. The wave equation. Propagation of plane waves. Reflection and refraction. Geometrical optics. Transmission lines, wave guides, and resonant cavities. Radiation. Interference of waves. Diffraction.—R. Friedberg.

Prerequisite: W 3007.

3 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:50.

PHY W 3021x. Quantum Physics.

Wave-particle duality and the Uncertainty Principle. Order-of-magnitude estimates in atomic physics. Basic principles of the quantum theory. Energy levels in one-dimension potential wells. The harmonic oscillator, photons, and phonons. Reflection and transmission by one-dimensional potential barriers. Introduction to atomic and molecular physics. Electron spin resonance. Nuclear magnetic resonance.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: C 1012 or C 1022 or the equivalent.

3 points. Tu Th 9:00-10:15.

PHY W 3022y. Statistical Physics.

Thermodynamics, kinetic theory, and statistical mechanics presented from a unified point of view. Classical and quantum statistics. The ideal gas. Black-body radiation. Liquid helium and superfluidity. Introduction to solid-state physics. Properties of metals, semiconductors, and insulators. Transistors.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: W 3021x.

3 points. Tu Th 9:00-10:15.

PHY W 3072y. Seminar in Current Research Problems.

Detailed study of a selected field of active research in physics; motivation, techniques, and results obtained to the present, as well as the difficulties and unsolved problems.—Instructor to be announced.

Permission of the department representative required. Open only to senior physics majors.

2 points. Th 4:10-5:25.

PHY W 3081x, y. Intermediate Laboratory Work.

The laboratory has available 14 individual experiments, of which two are required for 1½ points. Each experiment is chosen by the student in consultation with the instructor. Registration in each section is limited by the laboratory capacity. Experiments (classical and modern) cover electricity, optics, and atomic and nuclear physics topics.—A. Sachs. For junior and senior physics majors. Other majors require the instructor's permission. May be repeated for credit by performing different experiments.

1½ points. Hours to be arranged.

PHY W 3083x, PHY W 3083y. Electronics Laboratory.

Experiments in solid state electronics, with introductory lectures.—P. Franzini.

Permission of the instructor required. Corequisite: W 3003 or W 3007. Registration is limited to the capacity of the laboratory.

2 points. M W 1:00-4:00.

PHY W 3900x, y. Supervised Individual Research.

—Staff.

3 or 6 points.

PHY G 4003y. Lagrangian Mechanics.

Lagrange's formulation of mechanics. The calculus of variations and the action principle. Hamilton's formulation of mechanics. Applications to rigid body motion and normal modes.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisites: W 3003 or the equivalent, and differential and integral calculus.

3 points. Tu Th 2:15-3:30.

PHY G 4021x. Quantum Mechanics.

The formulation of quantum mechanics in terms of state vectors and linear operators. Three-dimensional spherically-symmetric potentials. The theory of angular momentum and spin. Identical particles and the exclusion principle. Methods of approximation. Multi-electron atoms.—J. Shaham.

Prerequisite: W 3021.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

PHY G 4022y. The Physics of Atoms, Solids, Nuclei, and Particles.

Time-independent and time-dependent perturbation theory. Scattering theory. Selected phenomena from each of atomic physics, solid-state physics, and elementary particle physics will be described and then interpreted using quantum mechanical models.—J. Shaham.

Prerequisite: G 4015.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

ASTRONOMY COURSES

The purpose of the study of political science is to develop understanding of the basic political institutions and processes in human society. This understanding involves analysis and evaluation of political systems and public policies in the context of the challenges they face and the changes they undergo. The major is designed to equip the student to play an effective role as citizen in a democratic political order, to participate more actively in political life as public or party official, civil servant, lawyer, or political commentator, or to undertake graduate training in political science in preparation for a career in college teaching. Students interested in public service careers should inquire about the five-year joint degree program with the Columbia Graduate Program in Public Policy and Administration of the School of International and Public Affairs.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

A student majoring in Political Science is required to take a minimum of nine semester courses from the department's listed offerings, including

A. Political Science BC 3001 Dynamics of American Politics

B. One of the following courses

Political Science V 3505

Comparative Politics

Political Science V 3611

International Politics

Political Science B 3013, BC 3014 Political Theory

C. Two colloquia or other courses having a research paper from among those courses designated by an asterisk (*); and

D. Two semesters of research seminar for the thesis (see below).

In order to have the opportunity for independent specialized work in depth, and to explore more fully the techniques of scholarly investigation, both majors and concentrators are required to write a senior essay as part of the work for the required two-semester research seminar (either Political Science BC 3761-BC 3762, Research Seminar, or V 3711-V 3712, Research Seminar in American Politics).

Political Science

The department's requirements are flexibly drawn to permit a major, in consultation with her adviser, to plan an overall program that, while providing some background in various areas of government and politics, can place special emphasis on such particular interests as the American political system (including its urban subsystem), foreign political systems, international relations, or political theory.

A student majoring in Urban Affairs with a concentration in Political Science is required to take a minimum of six semester courses, including

Political Science BC 3001
Political Science V 3313

Dynamics of American Politics
American Urban Politics

Two from the following courses:

Political Science BC 3322
Political Science BC 3326
Political Science BC 3327

The American Congress
Colloquium on Civil Rights and Liberties
Colloquium on the Content of American Politics

Political Science BC 3535

Colloquium-Workshop in Urban Administration and Management

Political Science V 3306
Political Science G 8202

Political Economy of Cities
Colloquium on Congress and Policymaking

Two semesters of research seminar for the thesis.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

A student minoring in Political Science is required to take a minimum of five semester courses, including Political Science BC 3001.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

GENERAL COURSES

Courses listed under this heading may be taken without previous study of political science.

POS BC 3001x, POS BC 3001y. Dynamics of American Politics.

Examination of the dynamics of the American political system at the national level including political participation, elections, political parties and national political institutions: the Presidency, the Congress and the Judiciary.—Staff.

Sign-up sheets for sections are posted outside 408 Lehman.

3 points.

Credit is not granted for both this course and C 3305.

x: Section I M W 11:00-12:15. R. Pious.

Section II M W 2:40-3:55. B. Ferman.

Section III Tu Th 9:10-10:25. T. K. Gais.

y: M W 11:00-12:15. R. Pious. (V)

POS V 3505x, POS V 3505y. Introduction to Comparative Politics.

An introduction to major issues and theories in comparative politics.

3 points.

x: M W 4:10-5:25. Instructor to be announced.

y: Tu Th 10:35-11:50. P. Juviler. (V)

POS W 4311x. American Parties and Elections.

The changing role of political parties and elections in the American political system. The historical development of party conflict; the structure of party organization at the local and national levels; the roles of party and the media during presidential elections; who votes and why; and the future of American political parties.—B. Ferman.

3 points. M W 11:00-12:15. (V)

POS BC 3007x. Modern Political Movements.

Dynamics of movement politics in the twentieth century. Factual and moral analysis; case studies of Bolshevism, Indian nationalism, Nazism, and the women's movement.—L. Calman.

3 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:50. (V)

POS V 3313y. American Urban Politics.

Patterns of government and politics in America's large cities and suburbs. Urban socio-economic environment, influence of party leaders, local officials, social and economic notables, racial, ethnic and other interest groups, press, the general public, and federal and state governments; impact of urban government on ghetto and other urban problems.—K. Yatrakis.

3 points. M W 2:40-3:55. (V)

Political Science

POS V 3611x, POS V 3611y. International Politics.

Setting and dynamics of global politics; application of theories of international relations to selected historical and contemporary problems.
3 points.

x: Section I M W 2:40-3:55. D. Miller.

Section II Tu Th 6:10-7:25. F. Kratochwil.
y: Tu Th 9:10-10:25. R. Jervis. (V)

POS BC 3012y. The United Nations in International Politics.

Role of international organizations in world politics. Issues focused on include arms control and disarmament, nuclear proliferation, and human rights as well as international trade and multinational corporations. Experiences of the League of Nations, the United Nations, the European Community, and other contemporary international and regional organizations are considered.—D. Miller.

3 points. M W 2:40-3:55. (V)

POS BC 3013x, POS BC 3014y. Political Theory.

Major texts of political theory from Plato to the present. Emphasis on comparison of basic concepts such as those of human nature and the ideal society, freedom and authority, equality and leadership, methods of creating change.—D. Dalton.

3 points. Tu Th 2:40-3:55. (V)

POS BC 3345y. Introduction to Statistical Analysis of Politics and Policy.

Use of quantitative reasoning in analysis of problems in the political process and public policy; practical applications; introduction to the use of the microcomputer in statistical analysis.

—D. Caraley.

Satisfies college-wide Quantitative Reasoning requirement. Colloquium credit for Political Science majors.

Prerequisite: BC 3001 and permission of the instructor.

3 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:50. (V)

SPECIALIZED COURSES

AMERICAN GOVERNMENT AND POLITICS

POS V 3316x. The American Presidency.

Growth of presidential power, creation and use of the institutionalized presidency, presidential-congressional and presidential-bureaucratic relationships, and the presidency and the national security apparatus.—R. Pious.

Prerequisite: BC 3001 or the equivalent.

3 points. M W 2:40-3:55. (V)

POS BC 3322y. The American Congress.

Dynamics, organization, and policy-making processes of the American Congress. Relationship of legislators to constituents, lobbyists, bureaucrats, the President, and one another.—T. Gais.

Prerequisite: BC 3001 or the equivalent.

3 points. Tu Th 11:00-12:15. (V)

POS BC 3325x. The Judicial Process.

Introduction to the American judicial system; origins and strategies of litigation, factors which influence the hearing of cases by the Supreme Court, and controversies over judicial review and the commerce clause.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: BC 3001 or a course in American history.

Not open to students who have taken W 3399.

3 points. Not offered in 1985-86. (V)

POS BC 3326y. Colloquium on Civil Rights and Liberties.

The uses and limitations of the judicial process to protect individual rights and affect public policy. Readings, discussion, and reports on selected topics including libel and the press, criminal procedure, equal protection, and ethics in government.—K. Rodgers.

Prerequisite: BC 3001 and permission of instructor.

4 points. W 4:10-6:00. (V)

POS W 3399x. The Supreme Court and American Politics.

Role of the judiciary and constitutional law in American politics; U.S. Supreme Court, civil liberties, civil rights, federalism, and economic and social regulations. Students write case studies of recent Supreme Court decisions.—A. Westin.

Prerequisite: BC 3001 and junior standing.

Not open to students who have taken BC 3325.

3 points. M W 11:00-12:15. (V)

POS W 3400y. Law and Politics of Civil Liberties.

A survey of existing law on civil liberties and rights, followed by discussion of issues of democratic theory, the role of groups in bringing test cases, and the dynamics of civil liberties litigation and conflict, covering topics such as political surveillance, racial equality, church-state issues, consumer rights, women's rights, and other issues.—A. Westin.

Prerequisite: Open only to juniors and seniors who have had a course in American government or constitutional law. Not open to students who have taken BC 3326.

Not offered in 1985-86.

3 points. (V)

Political Science

POS V 3328x. Women and American Politics. Analysis of changes and continuities in the roles of women as they have been involved in and affected by American politics and public policy.—E. Klein.

Prerequisite: BC 3301, C 3305, or permission of the instructor.

3 points. Tu Th 2:40-3:55. (V)

POS BC 3327x. Colloquium on the Content of American Politics.

Readings, discussions and reports on changing cleavages and policy issues in American national politics with special attention to economics, social welfare, and regulating programs.—T. Gais.

Prerequisites: BC 3001 and permission of the instructor.

² Emeritus and Special Lecturer

Psychology is the study of behavior and experience, and therefore of a diversity of phenomena, from love to aggression, from the first babblings of infants to creative intellectual behavior, from understanding sexual behavior to the mechanisms of taste. Faculty members in Psychology have a wide range of research interests, including social and cognitive development, memory, sexual and parental behavior, animal learning, leadership, and intimate violence.

Common to all areas of psychology is a concern with adequate and appropriate methodology. The student will be exposed, therefore, to many psychological facts and to the methods of their discovery through lecture, laboratory, field courses, and various other offerings.

Opportunities are available for supervised research, teaching, and field experiences. Independent study and the Senior Seminar involve participation in research with a faculty member. The Toddler Center and a course in Field Work in Psychological Services provide a different sort of direct contact with the raw material of psychology.

The department sponsors a Psychology Club.

Psychology as a major is a good preparation for many careers. Many majors enter graduate school in psychology, neurosciences, education and professional schools, including medical, law, and business schools. There is no set sequence for a major with a given career goal, but the department recommends a balance between courses that are directly preparatory and exposure to material the student may never encounter formally again.

Students should preregister for courses in April and November for the following semester. Preregistration information is available in Room 415 Milbank.

A laboratory fee of $15 is charged for each laboratory course: BC 1105, BC 1108, BC 1117, BC 1127, BC 1130, BC 1136, and BC 3256.

Students interested in Biopsychology should consult page 82.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

The student majoring in Psychology is exposed to the diversity of the discipline through the required core courses and the selection of appropriate electives.

Eight courses in psychology (of which two must be lab courses) and three courses in related disciplines are required for the major. Six of the eight required psychology courses must be taken at Barnard College. Statistics cannot be taken during the summer.

Psychology

Psychology BC 1001

Introduction to Psychology (prerequisite for further psychology courses)

Psychology BC 1609

Statistics (preferably in the sophomore year)

One course chosen from:

Psychology BC 1105

Psychology of Learning

Psychology BC 1130 or BC 1132

Human Learning and Memory

One course chosen from:

Psychology BC 1125

Psychology of Personality

Psychology BC 1136 or BC 1138

Social Psychology

Psychology BC 3141

Abnormal Psychology

In choosing her four electives, a student should try to achieve a balance in her training by taking at least one course from each of the following categories:

Developmental, Social, Clinical: BC 1125, BC 1127 or BC 1129, BC 1136 or BC 1138, BC 3141, BC 3143, BC 3151, BC 3158, BC 3161, BC 3371, BC 3372, BC 3473

Methodology and Research: BC 3168, BC 3256, BC 3591-BC3592, BC 3599, W 4107

Physiological, Perception, Learning: BC 1105, BC 1108 or BC 1110, BC 1117 or BC 1119, BC 1130 or BC 1132, BC 3154, BC 3160, BC 3164, BC 3169, BC 3374

A maximum of two of the following courses may count towards the major: BC 3465, BC3466, BC 3591, BC 3592, BC 3498, and BC 3599.

The three required courses in related disciplines should be distributed as follows: a one-year laboratory course sequence in either biology, chemistry, or physics; a course from one of the cognate disciplines: anthropology, linguistics, sociology, philosophy, economics, computer science.

The eight required psychology courses must be taken for a letter grade; the grade must be C— or better.

The major examination consists of either the Graduate Record Examination in Psychology or satisfactory completion of Psychology BC 3591-BC 3592, Senior Research Seminar.

When in doubt, the student should consult with her major adviser, whom she should select when she decides to major in psychology, and who will be her chief academic adviser. The student may select the appropriate adviser in consultation with the administrative assistant or chairman.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

Five courses are required for the minor, including Psychology BC 1001, BC 1609 and one laboratory course. Two additional electives, excluding Psychology BC 3465-BC 3466, BC 3591-BC 3592, BC 3498, and BC 3599, are required. These electives may be selected from the Psychology Department course offerings. Three of the five psychology courses must be taken at Barnard.

Introduction to behavior of individuals and small groups in work organizations. Recent theory and research emphasizing both content and research methodology. Motivation and performance, attitudes and job satisfaction, power, influence and authority, leadership, cooperation and conflict, decision making, and communications.—T. Revenson.

Prerequisite: BC 1001. Enrollment limited to 45 students.

3 points. Tu Th 1:10-2:25.

PSY BC 3152y. Psychological Aspects of Human Sexuality.

A survey and critical evaluation of research investigating psychological, biological and social factors in human sexual behavior. Topics will include sexuality throughout the life span, sexual dysfunction and cultural attitudes towards sexuality.—W. McKenna.

Psychology

Prerequisite: BC 1001. Enrollment limited to 30 students. Preference given to seniors. 3 points. M W 1:10-2:25.

PSY BC 3154x. Hormones and Reproductive Behavior.

Biological basis of parental and sexual behavior from a comparative perspective. Complex relations among genetic, hormonal, environmental, and experiential factors in mediating sexual, parental, emotional, and feeding behavior. Aspects of biology and physiology necessary to understand those behavioral processes are covered in class and are not prerequisites.—R. Silver.

Prerequisite: BC 1001 or Biology BC 1101-BC 1102.

Enrollment limited to 45 students.

Not offered in 1985-86.

3 points.

PSY BC 3256y. Psychological Measurement.

Introduction to test theory, including test construction, standardization, reliability, validity, and item analysis. Other topics include: use of psychological tests in assessing intelligence, abilities, aptitudes, and personality; application of psychological tests in educational assessment and employee selection; legal issues in the use of psychological testing; unfair discrimination.—T. Revenson and assistant.

Prerequisite: BC 1001.

4½ points.

Lecture M W 11:00-12:15.

Laboratory Th 1:00-4:00.

Laboratory fee $15.

PSY BC 3257y. Psychological Measurement.

Same as BC 3256y but without the laboratory.—T. Revenson.

Prerequisite: BC 1001. Enrollment limited to 20 students.

3 points. M W 11:00-12:15.

PSY BC 3158x. Human Motivation.

Empirical study of human motivation with emphasis on motives in fantasy, action and society. Surveys different approaches to the study of human motives and their scientific status. Discusses the development of motives in childhood, their behavioral and societal manifestations. Particular emphasis is given to need for achievement, need for power, need for affiliation, fear of failure, fear of success.—J. Fleming.

Prerequisite: BC 1001. Alternate years. Offered in 1985-86.

3 points. Tu Th 1:10-2:25.

UPPER LEVEL COURSES

PSY BC 3160x. Cognitive Psychology.

Selected topics illustrating the methods, findings, and theories of contemporary cognitive psychology. Topics include attention, pattern recognition, imagery, categorization, problem solving, reasoning, and language.—J. Rabinowitz.

Prerequisites: BC 1130 or BC 1132 or permission of the instructor. Enrollment limited to 20 students.

Alternate years. Offered in 1985-86.

3 points. M W 11:00-12:15.

PSY BC 3161x. Introduction to the Psychotherapeutic Process.

Exploration of concepts intrinsic to the psychotherapeutic process: transference, countertransference, resistance, interpretation, defense analysis. Focus on assessment, choice of treatment, psychoanalysis/psychotherapy, major treatment modalities (e.g., behavioral, humanistic, interpersonal), the analytic attitude, and therapeutic change.—M. Levy-Warren.

Prerequisites: BC 1001, and any two of the following courses: Personality, Abnormal Psychology, Developmental Psychology, Human Motivation, or permission of instructor.

3 points. M W 1:10-2:25.

PSY BC 3164y. Perception and Language.

Psychological investigations of spoken communication from listener's perspective. Topics include perception of the sounds of speech and the apprehension of meaning from words and utterances; the perceptual basis for rhyme and rhythm in speech; and the natural history of vocal communication.—R. Remez.

Prerequisites: BC 1001 and one of the following: BC 1105, BC 1108, BC 1117, BC 1127, BC 1130 or equivalent. Enrollment limited to 20 students. Alternate years. Not offered in 1985-86.

3 points.

PSY BC 3465x, BC 3466y. Field Work and Research Seminar: Barnard Toddler Center.

The Barnard Toddler Center provides the focus for field work and research in applied developmental psychology, an amalgam of developmental, educational, and clinical psychology. Students assist one morning a week at the Center, make individual class presentations, carry out team research projects and participate in a 2-hour weekly seminar which integrates theory, research, and practice.—L. Aber.

Prerequisites: BC 1127 and permission of the instructor. Permission should be requested in the spring of the year preceding registration. Enrollment limited to ca. 12 students. 4 points. Tu 12:00-2:00.

PSY B 3167y. History and Systems of Psychology.

Development of the discipline of psychology examined in the context of significant events occurring in other fields (philosophy, other sciences) and in society. Major schools of psychology: Structuralism, Functionalism, Behaviorism, Gestalt Psychology and Psychoanalytic Theory.—Instructor to be announced. Open to juniors and seniors who have had BC 1001 and two other courses in psychology or permission of the instructor. Alternate years. Offered in 1985-86. 3 points. Tu Th 1:10-2:25.

PSY BC 3168x, PSY BC 3168y. The Design of Experiments.

Research reports studied through nonstatistical analysis of procedures and justifiable conclusions. Research stages include: speculation, measurement, observed relation, experiment, and theory construction; applications to current publications. Each student writes a term paper analyzing five experimental research reports in an area of her interest.—R. Youtz. Prerequisite: BC 1001. Enrollment limited to 10 students. Not offered in 1985-86. 3 points.

PSY BC 3169y. Developmental Psychobiology.

A discussion of the inherent and acquired factors in the organization of basic behavioral processes: mechanisms underlying anatomical and functional development of the nervous system, prenatal and postnatal environmental influences on behavior, development of perception and response mechanisms, and analyses of the development of motivated behaviors (e.g., feeding, sex, learning).—C. Williams. Prerequisites: BC 1001 and one other course in biology or psychology. Enrollment limited to 20 students. Alternate years. Offered in 1985-86. 3 points.

SEMINARS

PSY BC 3370x, PSY BC 3370y. Special Topics.

x: I. Psychological Analysis of Racism.

Psychological factors influencing the development and expression of racist attitudes and actions, with special references to black-white relations. Psychodynamic studies of hostility, anger, self-concept, mechanisms of defense, and other factors that produce and reduce racism. Each student will write an original research paper.—J. Fleming.

Prerequisite: BC 1001 and permission of the instructor. Enrollment limited to 20 students. Alternate years. Not offered in 1985-86. 4 points.

PSY BC 3371x. Psychology and Women.

Selected topics relevant to the scientific understanding of women's behavior and experience; sex differences in personality and abilities; development of sex differences; biological, psychodynamic and social learning theories, psychological aspects of special female experiences (e.g., menstruation, childbirth, abortion); women and therapy; women at work; and the science of psychology as it affects women.—A. Berman.

Prerequisites: BC 1001 and two other psychology courses, and junior or senior standing. Enrollment limited to ca. 20 students. 4 points. Th 2:10-4:00.

PSY BC 3372y. Topics in Developmental Psychology.

Recent work selected from a broad range of areas: infant behavior, perceptual and cognitive development, family structures, and socialization practices.—L. Braine. Prerequisite: BC 1001 and two other psychology courses. Enrollment limited to 20 students. Not offered in 1985-86. 4 points.

PSY BC 3473y. Field Work and Seminar in Psychological Services and Counseling.

Supervised field work (minimum of 7 hours per week) applying psychological principles to work and treatment in clinical, educational, medical, and other institutional settings. Seminar discussions of theoretical approaches to clinical problems and case materials.—S. Stingle.

Prerequisites: 3 psychology courses and permission of the instructor. Permission of the instructor required during program planning the previous spring. Enrollment limited to 12 students; seniors given priority. 4 points. Tu 10:00-12:00 plus supervision to be arranged.

PSY BC 3374y. Theories of Learning.

Comparative study of major accounts of learning processes, including behavioral, cognitive, and biological theories. Evaluation of qualitative and quantitative models and their logical and empirical validity.—P. Balsam.

Psychology

Prerequisites: BC 1105 and junior or senior standing. Enrollment limited to 15 students. Alternate years. Not offered in 1985-86. 4 points.

PSY BC 3375y. Organization of Movement. Selected topics pertaining to the control of action: information for determining movement; planning an act; motor systems; stabilities; locomotion; skill; hierarchies of control; perceptual influences on planning and execution of acts.—R. Remez.

Prerequisites: BC 1001 and one of the following: 1105, 1108, 1117, 1127, 1130, or 1136. Enrollment limited to 20 students. Not offered in 1985-86. 4 points.

PSY BC 3376y. Infant Development. Analysis of human development during the first year of life. Perceptual, cognitive, sensory-motor, and social development will be examined, with emphasis on critical conditions involved in early learning and attachment. Other topics include prenatal development, "high-risk" infants, exploration and play, and language development.—W. Fifer.

Prerequisites: BC 1001 and BC 1127 or BC 1129. Enrollment limited to 20 students. 4 points. Th 2:10-4:00.

PSY BC 3377x. The Psychology of Aging. Discussion of the basic areas of adult behavior. Specific topics will include biological theories of aging with specific reference to physiological and neurological changes, an examination of intellectual and cognitive functioning, and discussion of personality changes and the social psychology of aging.—J. Rabinowitz.

Prerequisites: BC 1001 and three other psychology courses. Enrollment limited to 25 students. Alternate years. Not offered in 1985-86. 4 points.

PSY W 4107y. Applications of Experimental Psychology.

Actual and potential applications of basic research in many areas of psychology. Traditional approaches to clinical situations; alternative experimental approaches to therapy, institutional design, and social planning; clinical assessment, behavior modification, self-control, creativity, law, education, and the ethics of social control.—P. Balsam.

Prerequisites: Learning course and permission of the instructor. Enrollment limited to 15 students. Offered every three years. Not offered in 1985-86. 3 points.

PSY W 4132y. Production and Perception of Language.

Review of theories and current research on the processes of speech perception. Topics include the acoustic theory of phonetic differentiation, peripheral transduction, auditory and phonetic analysis, word recognition, phrase formation, and the effects of context in perception and production. Special topics include language perception and production in the deaf, perception of metaphor, and automatic speech recognition.—T. Bever and R. Remez.

Prerequisites: Psychology W 1501, W 3180, BC 3164 or TP 4398. 3 points. W 4:00-6:30.

PSY BC 3591x, PSY BC 3592y. Senior Research Seminar.

Discussion and conferences on a research project culminate in a senior thesis. Each project must be supervised by a member of the department. Successful completion of the seminar substitutes for the major examination.—R. Remez.

Open to eight senior psychology majors who submit a research proposal which has been approved by the course instructor and the project supervisor.

Prerequisites: BC 1609, a minimum of five other psychology courses must be completed, and permission of the instructor. 4 points. Hours to be arranged.

PSY BC 3498y. Individual Projects—Field Work

Field work projects planned in consultation with the instructor.—S. Stingle.

Prerequisite: BC 3473 and permission of the instructor. Not offered in 1985-86. 4 points.

PSY BC 3599x, PSY BC 3599y. Individual Projects.

Research projects planned in consultation with members of the department.—Staff.

Open to majors on written permission of the department member who will supervise the project. 4 points. Hours to be arranged.

Quantitative Reasoning Program

Offices: 415G Milbank and Lehman Microcomputer Classroom

Telephone: 280-3930,
8476

This program is supervised by the Quantitative Reasoning Committee:

Professor of Mathematics

Joan S. Birman

Associate Professor of Chemistry

Sally Chapman

Professor of Economics

Duncan Foley

Professor of Psychology

Rae Silver (Director)

Instruction in the Quantitative Reasoning Program is provided by regular members of the Barnard and Columbia College Faculty.

Requirement

All students must pass one course in which the major topics are mathematics, methods of empirical analysis using quantitative data, or symbolic manipulation to solve problems. The requirement may be fulfilled by passing a Quantitative Reasoning course or one of the courses indicated on pp. 35-36.

Courses on Quantitative Reasoning

These courses aim to introduce the student to mathematical concepts through the analysis of quantitative topics in other disciplines. This one semester course is made up of 3 units, each lasting 4 weeks. Each unit is taught by a different professor, whose area of interest lies in a discipline within either the social or the natural sciences, or in the humanities.

Each 4-week unit will be graded separately, and each unit will contribute $\frac{1}{3}$ of the grade for the course. All 3 units must be taken in a single semester in order to complete the course. A diagnostic placement test is required prior to the course.

A student who plans to register for the Quantitative Reasoning course must pass a test that measures elementary areas of ability in mathematics. The test will be offered during registration and several times during the semester. A student who has difficulty with components of the test has two options:

- 1) She may take a five-week Basic Math Skills course, BC 1001, offered twice each semester. A student who passes this course will receive one point credit for it when she successfully completes the Quantitative Reasoning course.
- 2) She may undertake independent review of math skills and retake the diagnostic test. Computer-assisted instruction drill programs and texts for this purpose will be available in the Academic Computer Center in the Barnard College Library.

QUR BC 1001x, QUR BC 1001y. Basic Math Skills.

R. Mizner.

Tu Th 2:40-3:55.

1 point (upon completion of the Quantitative Reasoning course).

QUR BC 1101x, QUR BC 1101y.

Description, Development, and Decision.

3 points.

Tu Th 4:10-5:25.

- A. How do historians use numbers to make sense of the past? Can the computer correct our myths and enhance our understanding of our heritage? The drafting and ratification of the Federal Constitution in 1787-88 will be reconstructed statistically to demonstrate the analytic procedures of modern historians.—R. McCaughey (History).

- B. When does a difference make a difference? How do we know that a change has occurred? That it will persist? Change over time, group differences, and change processes will be considered. Examples from the social and behavioral sciences will include the effects of economic changes on mental health and the effect of Sesame Street on preschoolers' intellectual abilities.

Quantitative Reasoning Program

—T. Revenson (Psychology).

- C. When should data be doubted? Can decisions be made from flawed data? Government mortality statistics will be examined and interpreted to reveal their patterns and limitations, specifically with regard to accidental hypothermia. The risk of the "ecological fallacy" in population findings will be studied. Implications for policy decisions will be considered in the light of such non-quantitative factors as social values and competing national priorities.—N. Rango (Health and Society.)

QUR BC 1102x: Size, Symmetry, and Sequence.

3 points. MWF 9:00.

- A. How can we know the size of something as accurately as possible without measuring it directly? Unknown rates, sizes, and volumes will be estimated using deductive reasoning, sampling, graphs, and algebraic methods. Topics will include linear and exponential growth functions, interpolation, correlation, and regression.—C. Williams (Psychology).
- B. How can we describe the patterns we see in cathedral window, tiled floors, shells, and viruses? Different kinds of symmetry will be defined and classified: about a point, in a helix, and in repetition. The algebra of symmetry will be examined with the concept of the group and used to analyze the properties of group patterns.—L. Lessinger (Chemistry).

- C. Are vibrating strings, temperature cycles, patterns of daily activity, vowels, and rhythm and harmony in music related? Students will learn to make graphs of events that have recurring components and to analyze periodic phenomena according to Fourier's theorem.—R. Remez (Psychology).

QUR BC 1103x, QUR BC 1103y. Music and Mathematics.

3 points. MWF 11:00.

- A. What is the sound of a sine wave? What is the shape of a musical tone? What gives instruments their individuality? In what sorts of rooms can musicians best perform and be appreciated? Natural and synthetic sounds will be produced and analyzed and their timbre, their perceived intensity, and the influence of their surroundings discussed.—S. E. Cummins (Physics).
- B. Is there a mathematic key to the keyboard? Can music be made by the numbers? Introduction to elementary number theory and finite group theory will allow understanding of tuning and of the composing of twelve tone music. Students will analyze serial technique in the music of Schoenberg, Webern, Berg, and Babbitt, and will use microcomputers to compose short pieces.—S. Neff (Music) and H. Pinkham (Mathematics).

Approaches to the study of religion are as diverse as the world's religious traditions themselves, perhaps because the religious experience we seek to understand is inseparable from the rich diversity of human life and culture. The student of religion encounters men and women as they explore the very boundaries of their perceptions of the real. It is the challenge provoked by this encounter that makes our common involvement in the academic study of religion so fascinating, even as it leads us to scrutinize and question the boundaries of our own world view.

The inquiry into religious theory, practice, and institutional life demands a variety of methodological tools in addition to an integrating framework. The program in religion sponsored by Barnard College and Columbia College offers a unique context for this interdisciplinary study through the superb resources they command. The areas of expertise of the religion faculty (philosophy of religion, sociology and anthropology of religion, history of Eastern and Western religious traditions, comparative religion) provide the prospective student with a clear picture of the range of specialization available.

Moreover, the larger University community provides training in a broad spectrum of disciplines related to the study of religion: the social sciences, humanities, arts, and the professions. Specialized area studies programs and institutes (e.g., Middle East, Southern Asian) explore in depth the linguistic, literary, and sociocultural milieu of a particular Eastern or Western religious tradition. Barnard and Columbia offer intensive training in the languages of the major religious traditions of the world, e.g., Arabic, Chinese, Greek, Hebrew, Japanese, Latin, Persian, Sanskrit, Tibetan, and so forth. Students are encouraged to take full advantage of these and other opportunities available throughout the University.

The Jewish Theological Seminary of America and Union Theological Seminary are located within two blocks of Barnard; students are encouraged to use the resources they offer.

Religion

All courses, except those limited to majors, satisfy the College's distribution requirements.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Program of study:

To be planned with the departmental representative, taking into account the educational aims of the student.

Courses:

For the major, 10 courses are required. Students must include among the 10 courses V 1040—Introduction to Theory and Methods in the Study of Religion and at least one of the introductory courses (V 1001—Major Topics in the Study of Religion; V 1101—Introduction to the Study of Western Religion; or V 1102—Introduction to the Study of Eastern Religion), and two courses in the traditions (six points). At the levels of the introductory and traditions courses, students are expected to gain exposure to both Eastern and Western religions. The majors' colloquium, to be taken in the senior year, and 3 additional points in seminars, colloquia, or guided reading are also required.

It is strongly recommended that majors, especially those considering graduate work in religion, pursue the study of the language of one religious tradition (e.g. Arabic, Chinese, Greek, Hebrew, Latin, Sanskrit, etc.) in addition to fulfilling the College language requirement.

Senior essay:

Majors are required to prepare a senior essay or project in consultation with a member of the department. The essay may be written in connection with V 3901-V 3902—Guided Reading and Research. The department takes the senior essay into consideration when making recommendations to the Faculty Committee on Honors.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

The minor consists of 5 courses, including:

One of the introductory courses (i.e., Courses V 1040, V 1101, V 1102, V 1001);

Two courses selected from the Traditions; and

One course taken as a seminar, colloquium, or guided reading.

The Department also cooperates with related programs such as Ancient Studies, Oriental Studies, Jewish Studies, and with other departments, to arrange combined, double, joint, and special majors. These arrangements are made in consultation with the chairman.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

Courses offered by other departments and the graduate program, but integral to the study of religion are listed here only by title. For a complete description, please consult the appropriate bulletin.

INTRODUCTORY COURSES

REL V 1001x, REL V 1001y. Major Topics in the Study of Religion.

Introduction to theory and practice of religion, East and West, e.g., myth and ritual, reason and revelation, law and community, mysticism and religious organization.—Staff.

3 points.

(III)

x: M W 6:10-7:25. R. Baum.

y: M W 2:40-3:55. S. Davis.

REL V 1101x, V 1101y; V 1102x, V 1102y.

Introduction to the Study of Religion.

Phenomenology of religious experience and historical forms of religious life; presuppositions, data and documents of religions of East and West. V 1101: religions of the West. V 1102: religions of the East.—Staff.

Students may begin their study of religion with either course.

3 points.

(III)

V 1101x Tu Th 4:10-5:25. M. Harran.

V 1101y M W 5:40-6:55. R. Balmer.

V 1102x Tu Th 6:10-7:25. P. Watt.

V 1102y M W 2:40-3:55. R. Gombach.

REL V 1040x, REL V 1040y. Theories and Methods in the Study of Religion.

An introduction to the problems and methods of the study of religion, focusing on classical theorists who concentrated on the nature and origins of religion and the problems of comparison in works on “primitive” religions. Readings from Levy-Bruhl, Durkheim, Freud, Jung, Lévi-Strauss, Evans-Pritchard, and Eliade.—x: N. Steinberg; y: B. Smith.

3 points. x: M W 6:10-7:25; y: M W 11:00-12:15. (III)

THE TRADITIONS

REL V 2607x. Buddhism.

A historical introduction to Buddhist thought, scriptures, practices and institutions. Attention given to Theravada, Mahayana and Tantric Buddhism in India, as well as selected non-Indian forms.—P. Watt.

3 points. M W 11:00-12:15. (IV)

REL V 2610y. Christianity.

Survey of Christianity from its beginnings through the Reformation.—R. Somerville.

3 points. M W F 11:00-11:50. (IV)

REL V 2600y. Hinduism.

Origin and development of central themes of traditional Hinduism; basic religious literature and its relation to Indian culture. Readings include original sources in translation. — B. Smith.

3 points. M W 1:10-2:25. (IV)

Islamic-Religion ISR V 2630x. Islam.

Survey of Islamic institutions, ideas, and spirituality, their origin and development in formative and classical periods and their continued evolution in a variety of cultural settings.—P. Awn.

3 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:50. (IV)

REL V 2620x. Judaism

Historical overview of Jewish belief and practice as these have crystalized and changed over the centuries. Special attention to ritual and worship, forms of religious literature, central concepts, religious leadership and institutions, and Israel among nations.—J. Harris.

3 points. M W 4:10-5:25. (IV)

REL V 2630x. African Religious Traditions.

The variety of African religious traditions, focusing at different times on cosmology, ritual, moral systems, and dance. The distinct nature of an oral religious tradition and the problems involved in studying its doctrine and history. Examples will include Neur, Yoruba, BaKongo, Dogon, Diola.—R. Baum.

3 points. M W 1:10-2:25. (IV)

INTERMEDIATE COURSES

EASTERN RELIGIONS

REL V 3602x. Classical Texts in Eastern Religion.

Readings from such sources as the Rigveda, Brahmanas, and Upanishads.—B. Gombach.

3 points. Tu Th 1:10-2:25. (III)

REL V 3611x. Chinese Religious Thought.

Not offered in 1985-86.

3 points. (IV)

REL V 3613y. Japanese Religious Tradition.

Not offered in 1985-86.

3 points. (IV)

REL V 3620y. Folk Religion and Society in Asia.

Not offered in 1985-86.

3 points. (III)

REL V 3640x. The Chinese Religious Tradition.

A survey of Chinese religion from the classical period to the sixteenth century. Major topics include the I Ching, early Confucianism, philosophical and religious Taoism, the introduction and development of Buddhism in China, and Neo-Confucianism. Emphasis on common tendencies and polarities within the tradition.—P. Watt.

3 points. Tu Th 10:35-11:50. (IV)

Indic-Religion INR G 4301y. Hindu and Buddhist Tantrism.

Not offered in 1985-86.

3 points.

Indic-Religion INR G 4335x. History and Doctrine of Indian Buddhism.

Historical sketch of the rise, impact, and decline of Indian Buddhism, chief shared or disputed doctrines of Buddhist sects; the canons, bibliographical survey, and introduction to the world of Buddhist scholarship.—A. Wayman.

3 points. W 11:00-12:50.

Indic-Religion INR G 4340x. The Vedic Tradition.

Not offered in 1985-86.

Religion

Iranian Religion IRR W 4703x-W 4704y. Religions and Philosophies of Ancient Iran. Either term may be taken separately. W 4703: religious background of the Iranians, Zarathustra's religion, the Sassanid state culture. W 4704: Zurvanism, Manichaeism, Mithraism, Mazdakism.—J. Russell.
3 points. M W 2:40-3:55.

Oriental Studies-Religion OSR W 4399x-W 4400y. Colloquium on Major Texts of the Oriental Traditions in Religion, Ethics, Social Thought, and Literature.

Readings in translation. Autumn Term: Koran, Islamic philosophy and theology, Ibn Khaldun, Sufi poetry, the Upanishads, Buddhist sutras, Bhagavad Gita, Sankara, Indian epics and drama; Spring Term: Analects of Confucius, Lao Tzu, Mencius, Lotus Sutra, Zen texts, Dream of the Red Chamber, Tale of Genji, and Nō plays. Philosophical and religious issues and their characteristic expression in diverse cultural traditions through a variety of literary forms.—W. T. deBary, P. Anderer, J. Russell, and staff.

Knowledge of the original language is not required.

3 points. M 4:10-6:00. W 4:10-5:00. (III)

WESTERN RELIGIONS

Judaism

REL V 3201y. Introduction to the Hebrew Bible.

Introduction to the literature of ancient Israel against the background of the ancient Near East.—H. Fradkin.

3 points. Tu Th 6:10-7:25. (IV)

REL V 3210y. Judaism during the Time of Jesus.

Not offered in 1985-86.

3 points. (IV)

REL V 3303x. Judaism in the European Middle Ages and the Renaissance.

Not offered in 1985-86.

3 points. (IV)

REL V 3305x. Judaism in the Modern Western World.

Not offered in 1985-86.

3 points. (III)

REL V 3320y. Introduction to Early Rabbinic Literature.

Not offered in 1985-86.

3 points. (IV)

REL V 3330y. The Beginnings of Jewish Mysticism.

Not offered in 1985-86.

The Russian Department at Barnard offers a program designed to help the student obtain reasonable fluency in the spoken and written language, a reading command of Russian adequate for interpreting texts of some difficulty, and a general knowledge of Russian literature and culture, especially of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. The department insists upon a strong foundation in the language, because this best prepares students for future graduate study in literature, history, economics, or political science, as well as for careers in government, business, journalism, or international law.

Foreign Language Requirement for the Degree: All students must take a placement examination before entrance. This examination tests the student's knowledge of grammar, her comprehension of written and spoken Russian, and her ability in free composition. Students receiving a sufficiently high grade will automatically fulfill the requirement. All others must complete Russian V 1202, Intermediate Course, or any course beyond that level. Students whose native language is Russian should consult with the department chairman.

The Russian Club attends Russian movies, operas, and church services, and visits Russian restaurants and areas of the city where Russian is spoken.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Students must have completed two years of college Russian before entering the program. Prospective majors or minors should consult with either Professor Gustafson or Professor Astman as early as possible.

A total of 10 courses are required for the major:

Russian V 3333-V 3334	Introduction to Russian Literature
Russian V 1220	Nineteenth-Century Russian Prose
Russian V 1221	Twentieth-Century Russian Prose
Russian V 3595	Seminar

At least two courses from:

Russian V 3441, V 3442	Russian Conversation and Composition
Russian V 3443, V 3444	Russian Syntax and Style

And at least three more courses, including at least one course from the following:

Russian V 3461	Pushkin
Russian V 3462	Gogol
Russian V 3463	Tolstoy

Russian

Russian V 3464

Russian V 3465

Russian V 3467

Dostoevsky

Russian Poetry in the 19th and 20th Centuries

Twentieth-Century Prose Writers

Independent study with any of the faculty at Barnard and the Department of Slavic Languages and Literatures at Columbia University can be arranged and study in the Soviet Union is possible as part of the major.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

A total of five courses beyond the second year of Russian are required for the minor, including either V 3331, V 3332, Advanced Course, or V 3333, V 3334, Introduction to Russian Literature, but not both. No courses in translation count toward the minor.

Sociology introduces students to the scientific study of society. The basic problems common to all human societies and the varied institutional solutions to these problems make up one large area of sociological interest; hence the sociological study of the family, social class, economic and political institutions, education, science, etc. The impact on individual behavior of ethnic, racial, religious, and sexual categorizations, rural and urban differences, bureaucratic organizations and small groups, and the mass media are also of sociological interest. So is the relationship between social structure, culture, and personality. Sociology is concerned not only with the normal functioning of social institutions but also with social change and with social problems such as deviance and crime, industrial conflict, and other areas of social disorganization. In studying these subjects, materials about American society are given primary emphasis. Comparative materials from other societies, preliterate and more highly developed, are also extensively used. Finally, sociology seeks to acquaint students with its methods of investigation, from which students learn important facts about scientific method in general.

There are no special admissions requirements or procedures. Students (majors and non-majors) are encouraged to consult with members of the department regarding their choice and sequence of courses. Combined and double majors may be arranged. In addition, the Columbia department offers a wide variety of sociology courses which are open to interested Barnard students.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

The major prepares students for graduate work in sociology as well as in other disciplines; for professional schools (law, business, social work, journalism, urban planning), and for all occupations requiring general knowledge of society and social interaction as well as basic skills of social research.

A minimum of ten courses is required for the major, including

Sociology BC 1001, BC 1002	Introduction to Sociology
Sociology V 3100	Introduction to Social Theory
Sociology V 1205	Evaluation of Evidence
Sociology V 3212	Methods of Social Research
	(both no later than the junior year)
Sociology BC 3087-BC 3088	Individual Projects for Seniors

Sociology

and at least three other courses selected in consultation with the major adviser. Sociology V 3100, V 1205, and V 3212 should be taken, if possible, in the sophomore year and no later than the junior year.

There is no major examination. To graduate, a student must complete, to the satisfaction of her instructor in Sociology, BC 3087-BC 3088, a long paper involving some form of sociological research and analysis.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

Five courses are required for the minor in Sociology, including Sociology BC 1001, BC 1002, and three courses to be selected in consultation with the Sociology adviser.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

A major in Spanish is designed to enable the student to acquire ease and fluency in the written and spoken language, and to develop an understanding and appreciation of the cultural traditions and literature of Spain and Latin America.

Foreign Language Requirement for the Degree: Freshmen who have had prior training in Spanish and who wish to satisfy the foreign language requirement in Spanish will be placed in the appropriate language courses on the basis of their CEEB scores, or, if such are not available, on the basis of proficiency test taken before registration. Students having a sufficiently high score will automatically fulfill the requirement. All others may do so by completing BC 1204 with the exception of students of Spanish-American background who may fulfill the requirement with BC 3006 instead of BC 1204. Transfer students should consult the department chairman.

Active student-faculty cooperation and exchange are encouraged through the Spanish Club, which sponsors discussion sessions, film series, and lectures by professors and visiting scholars on topics of current interest. Student participation is essential to the faculty's yearly presentation of a classic or contemporary drama to the academic as well as general New York Hispanic communities. The rich cultural resources of the city are utilized at all levels of instruction as a natural extension of the academic process.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Students interested in the major are urged to consult with the department as early as possible in order to arrange a program best suited to their particular concerns. Guidance and program coordination are also offered to Foreign Area Studies majors in the subdivisions of Latin America and Spain. Study abroad (Spain or Latin America) is actively encouraged and supported by departmental scholarship funds available to majors.

The ten following courses are required for the major; a sequential order is strongly recommended:

Spanish BC 3013
Spanish BC 3015
Spanish BC 3017

Spanish BC 3018

The Culture of Spain
Spanish-American Culture
Spanish Literature in the Middle Ages and Early Renaissance Literature of the Golden Age

Spanish BC 3020
 Spanish BC 3023
 Spanish BC 3025, BC 3026
 Spanish BC 3031, BC 3032

Don Quijote
Nineteenth-Century Literature in Spain
Contemporary Spanish Literature I and II
The Literature of Latin America

A major in Spanish must broaden her study of Spanish culture by relating it to other cultures that have influenced it or been influenced by it. The following courses are recommended. (Please check with Departments for status of offerings and times.)

Anthropology V 3032
 Art History V 3080
 Art History V 3500, V 3501
 Classical Literature BC 1032
 Classical Literature V 3123
 French BC 3021-BC 3022

The Archaeology of the Old World
Pre-Columbian Art
European Painting Since the Renaissance
Classical Myth
Greek Drama and its Influence
Masterpieces of Literature from the Middle Ages to the Twentieth Century
Major Works of German Literature
Modern German Literature
History of Latin American Civilization
Introduction to Philosophy
Concept of Literature
Introduction to the Study of Religion

German BC 3055
 German BC 3056
 History W 4779-W 4780
 Philosophy BC 1001
 Philosophy V 3850
 Religion V 1101

The major examination consists of a three-hour written examination on Spanish literature and a three-hour written examination on Hispanic civilization and Spanish-American literature. All examinations are conducted in Spanish.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

A student minoring in Spanish will be required to take Spanish BC 3020, BC 3031, and BC 3032, and three more courses to be chosen from Spanish BC 3017, BC 3018, BC 3023, BC 3025, and BC 3026.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

LANGUAGE COURSES

(Enrollment limited to 20 students per section.)

SPA V 1101x-SPA V 1102y. Elementary Full-Year Course.

Grammar, reading, conversation.—Staff.
May not be taken parallel to elementary Italian. Work in the language laboratory is required.

4 points. No credit is given for V 1101 unless V 1102 is completed.

Sections I, II M Tu W Th F 9:00.
Sections III, IV M Tu W Th F 10:00.
Sections V, VI M Tu W Th F 11:00.
Sections VII, VIII, IX M Tu W Th F 12:00.

SPA BC 1001x-SPA BC 1002y. Intensive Elementary Course.

Intensive alternative to Spanish V 1101-V 1102 based on the Dartmouth Intensive Language model and designed to promote rapid oral fluency. Class meets ten hours per week: five hours devoted to drill work, five hours to communicative situations. Primarily for students who need to acquire Spanish for travel or professions requiring fluency.—J.Crapotta and staff.

4 points. No credit is given for course BC 1001 unless BC 1002 is completed.

M Tu W Th F 9:00 and M Tu W Th F 12:00.

SPA BC 1003x. Intensive Review of Elementary Spanish.

Course for incoming students whose score on the placement examination puts them between the beginning and intermediate level. Also intended for students of Spanish-American background who have some speaking knowledge of Spanish but insufficient formal training or grammatical foundation.—Staff.

Prerequisite: Course V 1101 or the equivalent. Work in the language laboratory is required.

4 points.

Section I M Tu W Th 9:00.

Section II M Tu W Th 11:00.

SPA BC 1203x. SPA BC 1204y. Intermediate Course.

Rapid review of grammar and syntax; oral practice; discussion and analysis of important works in Spanish and Spanish-American literatures.—Staff.

Prerequisite: V 1102 or BC 1102 or the equivalent.

AREA COURSES

For information on Latin American and Spanish Area courses, see listings under Foreign Area Studies.

Statistics

Office: 618 Mathematics Building

Telephone: 280-3652

Officers of the University offering courses in Statistics:

Professors

Cyrus Derman, Tze Leung Lai, Howard Levene, Burton H. Singer (Chairman), John Van Ryzin

Associate Professors

Ioannis Karatzas (Departmental representative, 614 Mathematics), Steven P. Lalley

Assistant Professor

Michael Hogan

The Department of Statistics offers a wide range of courses in probability and statistics. Probability and statistics deal with phenomena involving uncertainty. Probability theory describes the behavior of given random systems, while statistical methods facilitate the discovery of hidden regularities in such systems from observed data. The department trains students to apply statistical methodology in their later careers in the biomedical or social sciences, business, engineering, etc., or to continue with graduate study in statistics, business management, operations research, and related fields. Members of the department are actively engaged in both theoretical and applied research. Computing facilities include both interactive terminals and large scale batch-mode processing.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

All majors should consult the departmental representative regularly in planning their programs of study. The requirements listed below are special to this department and must be read in conjunction with the general requirements for the bachelor's degree. As a rule, no more than 12 points of transfer credit may be accepted toward the major.

A total of 13 courses are required for the major:

Mathematics V 1101, V 1102 and V 3202, or their equivalents
Statistics-Operations Research W 3611, or Statistics-EngMath W 3658
Statistics W 3659, W 3662 and W 3701

One approved course in computer science beyond the introductory level and 5 additional courses to be chosen with departmental approval from statistics, mathematics, computer science, or operations research, at least 2 of which must be statistics courses above the 4010 level.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

The minor in statistics requires 4 courses in statistics including:

W 3611 (or W 3658), W 3612 (or W 3659), W 3621 (or W 3662), W 3625 (or any statistics course above the 4010 level) and one approved course in computer science.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

STA W 1111x, y. Introduction to Statistics.

An introduction to the principles of quantitative reasoning and methods of statistics, with applications to social and natural sciences. Elements of data analysis. Graphical and numerical summaries of data. Probability and distributions of random variables. Statistical inference. Tests of hypotheses. Estimation of unknown parameters. Comparing treatment with control. Basic concepts of correlation and regression analysis.—x: S. P. Lalley; y: T. L. Lai.

Prerequisite: High school mathematics through intermediate algebra. This course may be followed by W 3621 or W 3625 or appropriate courses in statistics given by other departments. 3 points.

x: Tu Th 1:10-2:25.

y: Tu Th 6:10-7:25.

Statistics-IEOR STO W 3611x.

Probability and Statistical Inference I.

Probability theory. Important distributions.

Statistics

Central limit theorem. Introduction to data analysis. Estimation: point and confidence intervals. Hypothesis testing.—C. Derman.

Prerequisite: A working knowledge of calculus.
3 points. Tu Th 11:00-12:15.

Statistics-IEOR STO W 3612y. Probability and Statistical Inference II.

Principles of statistical inference. Statistical decision problems. Maximum likelihood estimation. Nonparametric procedures. Correlation and curve-fitting. Applications of probability theory and statistics to engineering, natural and social sciences.—C. Derman.

Prerequisite: Statistics W 3611x or the equivalent.

3 points. Tu Th 11:00-12:15.

STA W 3621y. Applied Regression and Non-parametric Methods.

Simple linear regression. Multiple regression. Prediction. Analysis of variance. Nonparametric tests of hypotheses. Robust estimation. Relevant statistical packages. Applications to natural and social sciences.

Prerequisite: Statistics W 1111, or Statistics-IEOR W 3611x, or a basic course in statistics.

Alternate years. Not offered in 1985-86.

3 points.

STA W 3625y. Applied Multivariate Analysis.

Graphical and numerical summaries of discrete and continuous multivariate data. Contingency table analysis, chi-square test, and measures of association. Correlation. Clustering algorithms. Introduction to factor analysis, discriminant analysis, and principal components. Relevant statistical packages. Applications to natural and social sciences.—B. H. Singer.

Prerequisite: Statistics W 1111, or Statistics-IEOR W 3611, or the equivalent.

3 points. Tu Th 4:10-6:00.

Statistics-EngMath STE W 3658x, y. Probability.

Fundamentals of probability theory. Distributions of one or more random variables. Moments. Generating functions. Functions of a random variable. Law of large numbers and the central limit theorem.

x: C. Derman; y: I. Karatzas.

Prerequisite: a working knowledge of calculus.
3 points. M W 1:10-2:25.

STA W 3659y. Statistical Inference.

Principles of statistical inference. Population parameters, sufficient statistics. Basic distribution theory. Point and interval estimation.

Method of maximum likelihood. Method of least squares, regression. Introduction to the theory of hypothesis testing. Likelihood ratio tests. Nonparametric procedures. Statistical design theory. Applications to engineering, medicine, natural and social sciences.—I. Karatzas.

Prerequisite: Statistics-IEOR W 3611 or W 3658 or the equivalent.

3 points. W 6:30-9:00.

STA W 3662x. Regression and Analysis of Variance.

Simple linear regression. Multiple regression. Hypothesis testing and confidence sets. Analysis of variance for one-way, two-way and factorial designs. Multiple comparisons. Components of variance models. Elements of experimental design; randomized blocks and Latin squares.—H. Levene.

Prerequisite: Statistics W 3659 or the equivalent, linear algebra, and computer programming.

3 points. W 4:10-6:40.

STA W 3701y. Introduction to Data Analysis.

Data analysis using the computer statistical package SCSS and selected exploratory data analysis subroutines. Topics include editing of data for errors, exploratory and standard techniques for one-way analysis of variance, linear regression and two-way analysis of variance. Material is presented in case-study format.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: A one-term introductory statistics course.

3 points. Tu 2:10-4:00 and two hours of laboratory to be arranged.

Statistics-IEOR STO W 4606x, y. Elementary Stochastic Processes.

Review of elements of probability theory. Poisson process. Exponential distribution. Renewal theory. Wald's equation. Introduction to discrete time Markov chains and applications to queueing theory, inventory models, branching processes.—x: I. Karatzas; y: C. Derman.

Prerequisite: Statistics-EngMath W 3658 or the equivalent.

3 points.

x: M 6:30-9:00.

y: Tu 6:30-9:00.

STA W 4113y. Nonparametric Statistics.

Statistical inference without parametric model assumption. Hypothesis testing using ranks, permutations, and order statistics. Nonparametric analogs of analysis of variance. Tolerance limits. Robust estimation. Introduction to sequential statistical procedures. Applications to quality control and clinical trials.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: Statistics W 3659.

Alternate years. Not offered in 1985–86.

3 points.

STA W 4115x. Multivariate Statistical Inference.

Multivariate normal distribution, multivariate regression and analysis of variance; canonical correlation and tests of independence. Principal components and other models for factor analysis. Discriminant functions and the classification problem; cluster analysis.—P. Shrout.

Prerequisite: Statistics W 3662 or 4112 or the equivalent.

3 points. W 4:10–6:30.

STA G 4137x. Time Series Analysis.

Time series models in economics, engineering, geology, and other applications. Auto regressive and moving average schemes. Model fitting, estimation of parameters, and hypothesis testing. Serial correlation, periodograms, and spectral analysis. Trend fitting and complex demodulation. Prediction. Introduction to multipple time series. FFT.—P. Welch.

Corequisite: W 3662 or the equivalent.

3 points. Th 4:10–6:00.

STA W 4143x. Theory and Analysis of Lifetime Data.

Survival distributions, types of censored data, estimation for various survival models, non-parametric estimation of survival distributions and related functions, comparison of two or more survival distributions, the proportional hazard and accelerated lifetime models for coveriate data, regression analysis with lifetime data.—J. Van Ryzin.

Prerequisite: Statistics W 4107, or the equivalent.

3 points. Tu 4:10–6:00.

STA C 3997x or y. Independent Research.

Prerequisite: the permission of a member of the department. May be repeated for credit. The student participates in the current research of a member of the department and prepares a report on the work.—Staff.

Director of the Theatre Program and Minor Latham Playhouse

Alan Brody

Assistant to the Director

Luz Castaños (Associate in Theatre)

Professor Emeritus of English

Kenneth Janes

Through its courses in theatre history and technique for the actor, director, and designer, the Barnard Program offers serious training for the theatre in a liberal arts context. The curriculum, along with production activities, which include a vigorous student-generated workshop series, is designed to afford those who wish to begin serious, pre-professional study an opportunity to acquire basic skills in acting, directing, design, and management. For those who seek an understanding and appreciation of theatre technique, the program offers a realistic introduction to the demands, disciplines, and rewards of the art. Because of its place in a liberal arts college, the Barnard Theatre Program is able, as well, to help students develop as informed artists, conscious of the historical, social, political, and ethical, as well as the aesthetic, dimension of their work. All the production activity, whether in the Minor Latham Playhouse or the smaller, informal Marion Victor Studio, is designed to help students in the Barnard Theatre Program explore their own abilities, test their ideas, and expand their vision. The Theatre Program also has a rich guest artist policy through which people from all areas of the profession spend anywhere from one day to a full semester in residency.

Ms. Luz Castaños advises theatre students, and all of the theatre staff are available for discussion and conference. For further information consult the theatre office.

Students contemplating a career in the theatre should see the announcement on the Program in the Arts, page 77, and should consult the Director of the Playhouse at the earliest possible time.

There is no major or minor in Theatre, but students may concentrate in theatre either through the English Department or the Program in the Arts.

Among the courses concerned with the theatre are these, described in detail in the departmental announcements. For other courses offered in the University, please consult the Director of the Playhouse.

The purpose of the Urban Affairs Program is to develop understanding of the basic institutions, problems and achievements of city life.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR*

A major in Urban Affairs can be taken only in conjunction with a specialization in one of the regular departments.

In order to major in Urban Affairs a student must fulfill the following requirements:

a) Eight courses distributed as follows:

One course dealing primarily with urban subject matter in each of three of the following departments from among those courses indicated:

Anthropology V 3100
Economics W 3228
History W 4673 or W 4674
Political Science V 3313
Sociology V 3265
or Sociology V 3324
(or their equivalents)

Urban Societies
The Urban Economy
American Urban History
American Urban Politics
Minorities in American Life
Urban Sociology

One course dealing primarily with urban subject matter from a list approved by the committee in one other department, such as art history, architecture, English, geography, psychology, and urban planning. One course in a quantitative subject—statistics, computer science, or an equivalent methodology course. The list of specific courses and of the departments that offer specializations for urban affairs majors is available at the office of the Program Director.

In the junior year:

Urban Affairs V 3545-V 3546

Junior Colloquia V 3545:
Shaping of the Modern City
V 3546: Contemporary Urban Problems

In the senior year:

Political Science-Sociology
V 3994-V 3995

or

Planning A 6290x-6911y

or

Research Seminar in the department of specialization

and

- b) The satisfactory completion of a specialization in one of the participating departments consisting of not fewer than five courses and the writing in that department of a senior thesis on an urban topic.

New York Area Undergraduate Research Program

Workshop in Planning Skills Planning

*Classes of 1985, 1986 should consult the 1983-84 Bulletin for major requirements.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

There is no minor in Urban Affairs.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

UAF BC 3535x. Colloquium in Urban Administration and Management.

Processes of administration and management of cities. Executive leadership, decision-making, bureaucracy, budgeting and personnel.—K. Yatrakis.

Prerequisite: Political Science BC 3001 or V 3313, or the equivalent. Enrollment limited to ca. 20 students.

4 points. Tu 2:10-4:00.

UAF BC 3537x. Workshop in Urban Administration and Management.

Resources of New York City utilized to gain first-hand experience of administrative and managerial processes through unpaid internships of 8-10 hours per week. —K. Yatrakis.

Corequisite: Urban Affairs BC 3535x.

2 points. Biweekly meeting to be arranged.

UAF V 3545x-V 3546y. Junior Colloquium in Urban Affairs.

Autumn Term. Shaping of the Modern City. Urbanization, using various methods, concepts, and materials. Origin and current status of urban problems.—E. Abelson.

Spring Term: Contemporary Urban Problems. Problems that currently afflict urban areas and assessment of attempted solutions. Problems of urban development, housing, education, poverty, transportation, and health.—B. Ferman.

Prerequisite: permission of the instructor.

Enrollment limited to 15-20 students.

4 points.

Future prospects of cities and metropolitan areas; reports on research being conducted for the senior thesis in the department of concentration.—K. Yatrakis.

Open only to senior majors. Required for classes of 1985, 1986.

4 points. Tu 2:10-4:00.

Political Science-Sociology PSS V 3994x-V 3995y. New York Area Undergraduate Research Program.

An ongoing program that develops a social research project from conceptualization to final report. Using New York City as a research laboratory, students choose different topics each year for study. Under the guidance of the faculty coordinator, students clarify basic theoretical issues related to the research problem; operationalize a series of empirical questions; collect evidence to test hypotheses; analyze the data using a variety of social science techniques; produce reports of basic findings. Students individually and in small groups learn many of the basic tools used by social scientists. Topic for 1985-86 to be announced.—B. Ferman.

Prerequisite: Enrollment limited to 10-15 students, selected by application only to the instructor. Junior or senior standing is required. Participation is for two terms.

Note: Barnard Urban Affairs majors with a Political Science concentrate have the option to use this course to satisfy the senior thesis requirement with the approval of the Political Science department.

Women's Studies

The Women's Studies Program is an interdisciplinary program for students who wish to explore the basic questions raised by the new scholarship on women. Some of the issues touched upon in this field are: sex roles, sex differences, and the concepts of femininity and masculinity; the roles of women in culture and society, past and present, and their implications for the roles of men; questions about the distribution of power, work, and resources in the public and private domains; and the symbolic representations of gender and identity in literature, religion, and art.

Early in their sophomore year, students interested in the major should consult the Chair or any one of the faculty members teaching Women's Studies courses for a list of advisers and required courses in the disciplines of concentration.

Students also have the option of electing a joint or double major (see p. 42); and have access to Columbia graduate courses, as well as V-courses, since some cover special areas not otherwise available at Barnard.

Complementing the Women's Studies Program, the Barnard Women's Center maintains an extensive and expanding resource collection on women's issues. The Center also sponsors monthly women's issues luncheons, a yearly conference, The Scholar and the Feminist, devoted to the exploration of the relationship of feminist studies to traditional scholarship, and the Reid Lectureship which brings to the campus distinguished women who have proved themselves to be responsive to women's concerns.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Majors in the program are trained in interdisciplinary research skills, and focus their studies in one of two areas of specialization: history/humanities or the social sciences. An individual area of study may be developed, in special cases, in consultation with a member of the Women's Studies Committee. The major in Women's Studies is taken in conjunction with a concentration in one of the departmental disciplines.

The requirements for the major are 14 courses to be distributed as follows:

Women's Studies BC 3111	Major Texts of the Feminist Tradition
Women's Studies BC 3112	Colloquium in Women's Studies
Women's Studies BC 3521-BC 3522	Senior Research Seminar

5 other courses in Women's Studies (see listing below), at least three in the student's area of specialization and at least one in another area; and

5 courses other than Women's Studies courses in the department of the student's concentration, to be selected in consultation with a member of that department.

The thesis course, Women's Studies BC 3521-BC 3522, provides an opportunity for senior majors to engage in original, interdisciplinary research, and to bring to bear the theoretical emphasis of Women's Studies scholarship on a particular area of empirical investigation. Further, in the senior seminar, majors have the opportunity to discuss methodological issues and problems of research in a directed and supportive environment.

Special projects using the city's resources may be developed into term papers or incorporated into the senior essay. An extensive project under the sponsorship of at least two faculty members may be offered for course credit as Women's Studies BC 3599, Independent Study.

Women's Studies

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

No minor is offered in Women's Studies.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

WMS BC 3111x, WMS BC 3111y. Major Texts of the Feminist Tradition.

The important contributions to the elaboration of feminist thought in the West evaluated through critical discussion. Analysis of works by Mary Wollstonecraft, J. S. Mill, A. Kollontai, Simone de Beauvoir, Emma Goldman, C. P. Gilman, Zora Neale Hurston and others in an attempt to discover the roots of the contemporary feminist movement.

Permission of the instructor required. Enrollment limited to 20.

x: Tu 2:10-4:00. L. Calman.

y: Tu 2:10-4:00. B. Winslow.

4 points.

WMS BC 3112y. Colloquium in Women's Studies.

A critique of traditional knowledge based on the new interdisciplinary research on women in such fields as psychology, biology, literature, anthropology, and history. Guest lecturers will discuss their recent work.—S. Fraiman.

Permission of the instructor recommended for freshmen.

4 points. W 2:10-5:00.

WMS BC 3117x. Women and Film: Sexual Roles in American Cinema.

A critical interpretation of American genre films from a women's studies perspective—how the image of woman relates to the language of film.—Instructor to be announced.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

WMS BC 3120x. The Invisible Woman in Literature: The Lesbian Literary Tradition.

An interdisciplinary exploration of the lesbian experience.—E.A. Kaplan.

3 points.

2 hours of discussion; 2 hours for screening.

M 4:10-6:00, M 7:00-9:00.

WMS BC 3521x-WMS BC 3522y. Senior Seminar.

Individual research in Women's Studies conducted in consultation with the instructor. The results of each research project submitted in the form of the senior essay, and presented to the seminar.—C. Schenck.

Prerequisites: BC 3011, BC 3012, or permission of the instructor. Enrollment limited to senior majors.

x: Tu 4:10-6:00.

y: Tu 4:10-6:00.

4 points.

WMS BC 3599x, WMS BC 3599y. Independent Research.

—N. Miller.

3 or 4 points. Hours to be arranged.

Anthropology-Women's Studies ANW V 3039y. Women in Third World Development.

Comparison of women's social and economic roles in both traditional and modernizing societies. Women's roles in the family, community, and class structure will be discussed through a detailed examination of a series of ethnographies.—E. Crandon.

Prerequisite: An introductory Anthropology or Women's Studies course or permission of the instructor.

3 points. Tu Th 6:10-7:25.

English-Women's Studies EWS BC 3144y. Minority Women Writers in the United States.

A study of the literature of twentieth century minority women writers in the United States, with particular emphasis upon the works of Asian, Black, Hispanic, and Native American women. The works will be studied within a historical and cultural as well as literary framework, exploring the ways these writers treat their particular communities and traditions and their various experiences as Americans.—Q. Prettyman.

3 points. Tu Th 2:40-3:55.

(II)

English-Women's Studies EWS BC 3145x. The Female Protagonist: Readings in the French and English Novel.

The heroine and the representations of a female destiny in selected works by women writers; the texts will be studied in conjunction with contemporary feminist criticism. Lafayette, Wollstonecraft, Austen, Sand, Brontë, Eliot, Colette, Wittig.—N. Miller.

3 points.

(III)

Philosophy-Women's Studies BC 3147y.

The issue of women's distinct nature is raised in light of radical feminist, traditional Marxist feminist, and contemporary socialist feminist theories.—N. Holmstrom.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

STUDY IN PARIS

WOMEN'S STUDIES INSTITUTE

The Columbia/Barnard Reid Hall Program's Women's Studies Institute, offered in conjunction with the Women's Studies Program at Barnard College, is the first women's studies program in France sponsored by an American university. The Institute will include the following four courses in the 1986 spring semester.

Institute prerequisites: French BC 3021, BC 3022 or the equivalent, plus two semesters of work in Women's Studies.

French-Women's Studies FWS H 3450y. Contemporary French Thought and Feminist Theory.

Emphasis on the issues of gender as they affect the production of and responses to theoretical and literary texts.—Nancy Huston.

Prerequisite: French BC 3021, BC 3022, or the equivalents, plus two semesters of work in Women's Studies.

4 points. Hours to be arranged.

French FRE H 3442y. Advanced Composition and Explication.

Morphology and syntax. Thematic readings are used for analysis and oral reports as well as for intensive training in composition. Four hours per week. Fifteen weeks.—S. Lecointre.

4 points. Hours to be arranged.

French FRE H 3606y. Supervised Study in the French University System.

Special study in the French university system under the supervision of the Director of Studies. This course is structured with the flexibility to permit either further concentration in Women's Studies or distribution into other areas.—Instructor to be announced.

3 points. Hours to be arranged.

History-Women's Studies HWS H 3550y. Women and Society.

Although the theme of this course will vary from one year to another, it will consistently focus on some aspect of women and society.—Instructor to be announced.

Prerequisite: French BC 3021, BC 3022, or the equivalents, plus two semesters of work in Women's Studies.

4 points. Hours to be arranged.

XIV. The Associate Alumnae

The Associate Alumnae of Barnard College is comprised of 25,500 members from all fifty states of the Union and more than 63 countries abroad. Members include all who have completed a year or more of study at Barnard and have left in good academic standing as well as those who hold a Barnard degree. There are no alumnae dues. Barnard alumnae regularly receive Barnard Alumnae magazine, Barnard Reporter newsletter, and invitations to alumnae events and other annual academic and career programs.

The Associate Alumnae serve the College in three important ways: keeping local high school students informed about Barnard; interpreting Barnard to the community in general; and voluntarily aiding in the support of the College.

Barnard Alumnae Council, a nationwide group of alumnae leaders, meets annually on campus for the exchange of ideas and to receive updated information on the College so they may continue to represent Barnard effectively.

More than 50 clubs and informal local groups of Barnard alumnae in the United States and abroad form a network that makes it possible for Barnard alumnae to find one another. Alumnae traveling or moving to a new location may call the Office of Alumnae Affairs for alumnae contacts in the United States and abroad.

The Associate Alumnae is governed by a 20 member board elected annually by all Barnard alumnae. Four alumnae are elected to represent the Associate Alumnae on the Board of Trustees of Barnard College. The central office of the Associate Alumnae is the Office of Alumnae Affairs on campus.

XV. Barnard Area Representatives

Barnard Area Representatives (BARs) are qualified alumnae appointed by the Admissions and Alumnae Offices who act in liaison capacity between the College and prospective students, parents, and high school counselors. BARs frequently attend college information meetings at secondary schools, host informal gatherings for prospective students, and conduct local interviews. High school students considering Barnard and interested in speaking with a BAR may arrange an interview by writing to the individual nearest them. A listing of the BARs follows.
